UNITED STATES TO BUILD DESTROYERS IN GREAT SWARMS

Navy Department Arranges to Treble Expected Output of These Craft in Next Eighteen Months.

EVERY RESOURCE OF COUNTRY ENLISTED

Washington, Aug. 20.—Immediate expansion of building facilities of the United States to double or treble the output of destroyers during the next eighteen months was the object of a conference today between Secretary Daniels and representatives of twenty-five or more ship and engine builders. "If we get what we want," the secretary said, "the United States will have more destroyers than any other power. They are the one thing that a submarine fears."

The secretary indicated that all the destroyers the builders could produce would be ordered. Every effort of the department will be laid upon speeding up the large number of contracts pending. Every aspect of ship building that bears upon destroyer production was taken up at the conference.

There is no shortage of material or plant facilities but a difficulty lies in obtaining high-power engines, boilers and reduction gear.

To Build No More Chasers.

Secretary Daniels said no additional submarine chasers would be ordered at present.

The chasers are valuable for horbor and in-shore patrol work, but the destroyers are far superior even for these duties and have in addition sea-going qualities which make of them far greater value in all ways than the small chasers. Every suggestion that the ships or engine builders had to make today as to additional motive

Summary of the Day's War News

The French took the offensive this morning on the Verdun front striking along a sector of eleven miles on both banks of the Meuse river. Early official reports from Paris, while giving few details of the battle, say it has developed to the advantage of the French and that prisoners already are passing to the rear.

The first reports do not show whether the French have inaugurated a major offensive, although the indications are that the operation is an unusually important one. There has been sharp fighting recently on the Verdun front, which has been the scene of some of the most sanguinary struggles of the war. It was in this sector that the German crown prince launched an offensive early last year in an attempt to break the French line, losing several hundred thousand men without gaining any material advantages. Last week the Germans made a sharp local attack there, possibly having learned of the French preparations and hoping to break them up.

LEADERS OF THE CULT YET IN JAIL

Rowan and Quarter Hundred of His Plotters Are Nabbed by the Militia.

Spokane, Wash, Aug. 20.—A general strike of the Industrial Workers of the World called as a protest against holding its members in jail without bail supposed to begin today in Montana, Washington, Idaho and Oregon, did not get a good start, according to reports received here.

James Rowan, district secretary of the I. W. W., in the far northwestern states, and twenty-six others, who were arrested here yesterday by national guardsmen, remained in the county jail as military prisoners. Their disposition will be discussed by Major Clements Wilson, who made the arrests, and the United States district attorney general.

Some 50,000 lumber workers in the four states already are declared to be on strike in obedience to orders from the I. W. W. Rowan and twenty-six other alleged members of the I. W. W. were taken into custody yesterday by Hoover, the food administrator, with a committee from the New York coffee and sugar exchange, which stopped sugar futures trading last week at Mr. Hoover's request. Prices have advanced sharply within the last few months.

GREAT LINER IS DAMAGED BADLY BY FIRE ABOARD

New York, Aug. 20.—The Norwegian steamer, Christian Bors, of 4,076 gross tons, was damaged to the extent of $1,000,000 by fire early today while lying at her dock in South Brooklyn. The steamer arrived recently from Buenos Aires and had about completed the discharge of a cargo of hides. Several Brooklyn fire companies and three fire boats fought the blaze and had it under control two hours after it was discovered. The origin of the fire has not been determined. The Christian Bors was owned in Bergan and was under charter to the Prince line.

The British steamer Baron Jedburgh, a vessel of 4,418 gross tons, discharging a cargo of sugar and glucose, was also badly damaged by the fire.

THIS WILL MAKE HORRORS OF WAR SEEM REAL MILD

New York, Aug. 20.—Efforts to compose differences between the inner circle, the so-called "advocates of up-to-the-minute dancing," and the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, will be made when the association opens its annual convention in this city Wednesday, according to G. Hepburn Wilson, head of the inner circle, which is in convention here today.

Mr. Wilson says his organization regards the fox trot and the one-step as dances of a by-gone age and will endeavor to impress the association with the interpretative value of the ramble, the jazz dance and the toddle, which, he says, are the latest creations in the terpsichorean art.

In the previous convention the association has denounced the so-called "latest dances" and announced its preference for the minuet, the polka, the two-step and other dances of the older school.

BEGIN GRAIN CONFERENCE

Meeting of Six States in Indianapolis to Promote Wheat.

AIDING BOOST FOR A BILLION BUSHELS

Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin Join Efforts.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20—Representatives of the agricultural interests of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky and Wisconsin meeting here today with representatives of the United States department of agriculture reported they know of no reason why the government program for an increased wheat and rye acreage for the 1918 crop cannot be carried out in the six states. Practically all of them reported that the plans can be put in operation without material interference with routine crop work.

The Acreage Asked.

Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, assistant to the secretary of agriculture, opened the conference, explaining that the government's program for the six states called for approximately the following wheat acreage for the next crop:

Illinois, 2,934,000; Indiana, 2,800,000; Kentucky, 1,000,000; Michigan, 1,059,000; Ohio, 3,000,000, and Wisconsin 130,000, a total of 10,923,000 acres.

Approximately an increase of 27 per cent over the 1916 acreage and with a production of 15.6 bushels to the acre would yield 170,398,800 bushels. That would be about 23 per cent of the entire acreage in the United States.

Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of the bureau of plant industry, said that the wheat exports from this country will decrease in the near future unless the consumption is cut down and the yield is not increased.

Wheat States Must Do It.

He asserted the great increase which must be obtained must come from the

KAISER LAUDS HIS FLEET FOR MIGHTY WORK IN FLANDERS

Amsterdam, Aug. 20.—At the conclusion of his visit to the German high seas fleet, at Wilhelmshaven, Emperor William issued the following to the fleet:

"After having recently received an announcement that a renewed heavy attack on the enemy in an attempt to break up our sea front in Flanders had been successfully repelled, I have today, by a visit to my fleet and the island fortress of Heligoland, been able to convince myself of the strength and security of this front, too. I express my warm appreciation to all the high sea forces on the water, under water and in the air and to the fortress of Helgoland for their untiring self-sacrificing and successful labor by means of which they have kept firmly in view and attained this aim.

"The fleet remain conscious that the confidence of myself and the fatherland repose firmly on it."

The emperor distributed a number of iron crosses. His visit is reported to have been caused by the threat of strikers at the Wilhelmshaven yard.

PRO-GERMANS FROM AMERICA DEFAME UNCLE SAM TO RUSSIAN WORKMEN, DECLARES RUSSELL

Lies About United States Spread by German-Controlled Press and by Pro-Kaiser Agitators on Street Corners; Lot of Common People in America Pictured as Oppressive.

This is the third of the articles written by Charles Edward Russell, staff writer for The Sentinel, who spent three months in Russia as a member of the official Root commission appointed by President Wilson. These articles contain the fruits of Russell's observations in his dual capacity as reporter and government investigator.

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL.
(Copyright, 1917, by the Newspaper (Enterprise Association.)

If you are an American, of course you hope that Russia will be strong and strong on the battle line, delivering a punch for the allies.

Sometimes it looks from the day's news as if Russia was about all in and had no more punch to deliver.

But let me tell you something about that.

The case of Russia is never so bad as it is painted. You can always discount about 71 per cent. of all the gloom and old blue stuff you read about it.

Needn't Worry Much About Russia.

In the next place, for what is left of actualities gone wrong there is always a perfectly good reason, and when you come to know it you see that nothing could be otherwise, and there isn't much to worry about.

All the existing situation in Russia—the real situation, I mean; not the nightmares dreamed by the Blue Line Boys—is the natural result of the old regime or the forces that overthrew it.

Take this matter of a halt in the Russian military activities. Here are some facts about that not generally known in this country, and yet facts that ought to be pondered by every American.

To begin with, the Russian temperament, which is warm, kindly, generous and sympathetic, stirred by the outburst of enthusiasm caused by the revolution, threw the door wide open for what is called the German propaganda, and three-fourths of Russia's troubles have come from just that one source.

German Human Limit in Trickery.

The German propaganda—you don't well understand what that is unless you have been in Russia and seen it at work, but in a general way it is the present attainable limit in cunning, falsehood, trickery and sinister, underhanded methods.

It is an enormous organization, it has thousands of agents in Russia and the United States, it is very ably directed and it works with tireless industry.

Its object is by covert agitations, schemes and press control to save Germany from the defeat that awaits her on the battlefield.

In the United States it manifests itself by starting solgans and instituting demands, cunningly calculated to embarrass the country and hamstring the government, such as "Tell Your Peace Terms!" and "Our Liberties are in Danger!" In Russia it took immediate advantage of the strong, generous, benevolent emotions aroused by the revolution to preach the doctrine that the Germans were the Russians' loving little brothers and would you

TO THE LIMA PICNIC.

Bartenders Make Preparation for Going to That City.

Next Sunday the Bartenders' union of Lima, O., will hold a picnic and athletic tournament and the local bartenders will attend it. They have made arrangements for a car which will leave the city over the interurban line at 7:20 o'clock in the morning and reach Lima at 9:45 o'clock, where the car will be met by 'buses and the excursionists conveyed to the picnic grounds. Charles Maxwell, Charles Redrup and William A. Jackson were appointed a committee of arrangements for the excursion. At the meeting yesterday the bartenders also took action against the Industrial Workers of the World movement, denouncing it as anarchistic and treasonable and pledging themselves to respond at the first call in case of trouble with the order. Al LaMont, president of the bartenders, introduced the resolution and made a strong speech in support of it. Another resolution which received universal support requires every member to turn out in the parade on Labor day. Failure to do so will be followed by a fine of $2 upon the offending member. All members must register at the hall before the parade starts. The Labor day committee appointed is composed of W. A. Jackson, Frank Fry, Henry Bohnke and Charles Redrup. The Knob club, an auxiliary to the bartenders, will have an outing in September, the date and other details to be announced later.

ATTENDED SMITH REUNION.

Machinist Willard Smith, of the Pennsylvania shops, accompanied by Mrs. Smith and their two boys and Miss Agnes Smith, attended the third reunion of the Smith family at Bruce Lake, Fulton county, yesterday, making the trip there and return in an automobile. The reunion was the largest of any held by the family, there being about 200 present, all related by blood or marriage ties. "The weather was ideal and all other conditions favorable for an outdoor gathering," said Mr. Smith, "and we had a good time." The attendants at the reunion were descendants of Jonathan and Samuel Smith, brothers, who settled on 300 acres each of government land in 1838, where they spent the remainder of their lives. Jonathan Smith was the grandfather of Willard Smith.

Commissioned Officers Who Formerly Worked for General Electric Company

C. A. THOMAS.

LESLIE P. JEFFERS.

No other industrial plant in the city has contributed so many men to the United States army and navy as the General Electric works, at which some of the departments are still badly feeling the absence of the enlisted men. The management of the works, however, takes great pride in the record for patriotism displayed by the employes generally and in the success of the men who contested for commissions at the officers reserve camp. The above pictures represent two men in whom the G. E. officials take special pride. C. A. Thomas, who obtained a first lieutenant's commission, is an electrical engineer of considerable ability. He was employed in the engineering department of the big works for several years. Leslie P. Jeffers, who was commissioned second lieutenant, was a clerk for Raymond J. Hoffman, of the general testing department, for some time and is a most efficient and popular employe. As stated in a previous issue of The Sentinel, he has been assigned to the engineering department of the army and will soon begin a course of instruction in the line of work he will have in the great war for democracy.

Where Dr. Duemling Will Build a Fine Home in South Wood Park

Among the citizens who have selected lots in South Wood Park (the new Hilgeman & Schaaf subdivision) is Dr. H. A. Duemling, who has just purchased a group of five lots at a cost of about $10,000, in the center of which he will erect a $25,000 residence. The place is graced by large forest trees, and its situation at the junction of Maxine Drive and Drury Lane is one of the most attractive in the new south side district.

South Wood Park now invites visitors to view one of the most modern developments in the middle west. Located at the junction of two winding streets, Maxine drive and Drury lane. Like all the other streets in South Wood park, these will be paved and the property is favored in common with the rest of the sub-division in the matter of boulevard lighting, sewers, water and gas. There are a large number of trees on all this property.

USED BARRAGE FIRE OF BURNING WORDS

Mrs. Mahoney Gives Court Comparison of Skirmishes.

Mrs. Rose Mahoney, swarthy of complexion and said to be Spanish, advanced upon her neighbors behind a barrage fire of sizzling cuss words in a Saturday afternoon skirmish, it was told in police court Monday morning.

The attack was repulsed with loss of blood to both warring forces. Mrs. Shelbert, colored, who lives next door at 1806 Hoagland avenue, appeared in court with her head wrapped in white cloths. She said Don Maroney, the husband of Rose Mahoney, had hit her. Mr. Mahoney also bore a bandage which was drooped over his right eye. The optic was black and blue. It was injured by contact with an iron bar wielded by Mrs. Shelbert, Mahoney complained.

Many have been the assaults and counter attacks between the neighbors and the Mahoney family, it was brought out in court. There are often injuries and always some profanity, it was stated. Bricks flew in the Saturday battle.

Mrs. Mahoney, who with her husband answered a disorderly conduct charge, was asked about the nature of the misunderstandings.

"Sometimes we jangle and sometimes we quarrel and now and then we fight," said the woman. "That business on Saturday was a fight."

Don and Rose Mahoney were each fined $5 and costs.

Pleaded Guilty.

Wilbur Milton Morrow, 18, son of a Huntington county farmer, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing an automobile. He was sentenced under the new Indiana law. He will be in the state prison for six months.

The lad blames booze for his trouble. He says he was intoxicated when he took the car belonging to William H. Wallace on Saturday and drove to Defiance, O. The youth was apprehended when he attempted to sell the car in Defiance for $150.

When Detective Sergeant Walter Immel went for the boy the lad gave an assumed name in order to shield his parents, the boy said.

Send for Parents.

Three tramps, two girls and a young man, are being held under $50 bond until their parents can be brought to the city for them. The girls give the name of Opal Berry and Cora Rice. The young man is Frank McCloud. They are all from Lafayette. A fourth member of the bumming party, Robert Barber, escaped from officers who removed the young people from a freight train, Sunday morning.

The girls signed statements to the effect that they left their homes a month ago with the two boys. They had been living together in Bucyrus, Ohio, for two weeks, the girls say. Word was sent to their parents Monday noon and it is expected that the fathers of the girls will come for them.

Could Not Hear.

Charles Storey, driving a Ford roadster, did not hear the gong when the police patrol came up behind him, on Clinton street, near Lawton park, Saturday afternoon. Police testified that Storey was traveling at the rate of thirty-seven miles an hour.

"You can't hear much when a Ford travels more than thirty-five miles an hour can you?" asked Deputy Prosecutor Hoffman.

Storey smiled. He was fined $35 and costs on a speeding charge.

Other Police Court Cases.

John Gillishe, 1028 Glasgow avenue, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 40 days at road work upon his conviction on a charge of child neglect.

Herman Eichmeyer, who has been using much of his money to pay intoxication fines of late, promised to take the cure, when he was brought up for the third time in a week, Monday. He will be held in jail a week, after which he will be given medical treatment.

Roy Weber is held under $200 bond on a loitering charge. His sanity will be tested. He insists that he became intoxicated by drinking liquors in the saloon kept by the Whitley county sheriff at Columbia City.

Cases of public intoxication were: Paul Asher, fined $5 and costs; Frank Elliot, $5; William Elam, $1 and Edward Link, $1. Clark Osterman, Clark Bitner, Walter Mitten and Frank Treuchet were released.

Walter Fowler, colored, who claims to be nineteen years old, was bound to the custody of Sheriff Gillie as a slacker suspect.

DR. H. A. DUEMLING TO ERECT MANSION

Prominent Physician Buys Five Lots in South Wood Park.

Dr. H. A. Duemling, the prominent physician and surgeon of Fort Wayne, has purchased five wooded lots in the South Wood Park addition, upon which he will, in the near future, erect a mansion which will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000.

The important real estate deal was announced by Hilgemann and Schaaf and the sale was consummated by F. W. Miles. The purchase price is said to have been approximately $10,000.

The new Duemling property is located at the junction of two winding streets, Maxine drive and Drury lane. Like all the other streets in South Wood park, these will be paved and the property is favored in common with the rest of the sub-division in the matter of boulevard lighting, sewers, water and gas. There are a large number of trees on all this property.

EXPERT MAKES SURVEY OF BAKING INDUSTRY

Jay Burns Tells of Relation of Price of Wheat and Flour.

Newspapers in many sections of the country have been asking questions about the relation of the price of wheat and flour. After a careful survey Jay Burns, of Omaha, former president of the National Association of Bakers, member of the executive committee of that organization, member of the war emergency council of the baking industry, and a man who has been in constant touch with Herbert C. Hoover, gives out the following analysis:

"Bread has been selling pretty generally over the country at 10c per pound retail—and this represents a flour cost about $9.50 per barrel—according to formula used—the price will range from $9.25 to $10.

"Most bakers were supplied with flour purchased before the big advance of April and May—purchased at $10 or below—and while they had this flour bread sold on the basis of $9.50 to $10 flour and will continue to sell on that basis so long as the supply holds out.

"Some bakers have been compelled to buy at higher prices, but so long as they had to compete with lower priced flour in their own communities they could not raise their prices.

"Flour, unlike bread, is always sold on the market price of wheat and if the miller has wheat bought at lower prices, he takes the extra profits.

"Bakers very generally are now running out of flour—and even though flour has declined in price from the high point of $17 to approximately $13.50, the baker purchasing now is using flour at an advance, to him, of some 33 1-3 per cent over the flour used in April, May and June.

"he facts are that the bread buying public has benefited during the past four or five months through the bakers' purchase of low priced flour by from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent.

"Many bakers could have sold the flour they had bought in May for from $5 to $8 per barrel profit, but they did actually bake it into bread and sell it at from 80c to $1 a barrel profit.

"Hence any newspaper stories based upon the present or past selling prices of bread compared with prices for flour at corresponding prices will be manifestly unfair and deductions made from such information will be manifestly unjust.

"The bakers have lived for the past two months in the confidence that the food bill would be passed at an early date, and would result in stabilizing flour price near $10 and many of them who purchased some high-priced flour have taken losses rather than again raise prices, feeling certain that relief would come soon."

AT FIRST SUSPECTED FOUL PLAY AS CAUSE

Death of Frank Lane by His Own Hand at Antwerp a Sensation.

Antwerp, Ohio, Aug. 20.—The death here late Saturday afternoon of Frank Lane, a well-known citizen, by his own hand at first gave rise to suspicions that he might have been a victim of foul play, but inquiry has failed to adduce any evidence in support of this. He was found in his boarding house dead from a stab wound in the region of the heart that he had inflicted with his pocket knife. Persons about the house heard his groaning and called Dr. G. M. Brattin, who discovered at once that death was by violence. The knife was in Lane's hand. The coroner was summoned and his finding is that the man's death was by his own hand with suicidal intent. Ill-health is believed to have been the motive that impelled the rash act. Lane was widely known and well liked in this town. He was unmarried.

DIES ON TRACK NEAR CONVOY.

Well Known Teacher of Van Wert County Struck by Electric Car.

Van Wert, O., Aug. 20.—While crossing the Ohio Electric track in an automobile, about two miles west of Convoy Saturday afternoon about 3:45 o'clock, Vernon R. Shaner, well known young man of Tully township and teacher in the Dixon school last year, was struck and instantly killed by the westbound limited Ohio Electric car which leaves Van Wert at 3:34.

Mr. Shaner had been in Convoy and was returning to his home. At the place where the road crosses the track the road is low and a view of the car line is obscured on the south and east by a cornfield. Mr. Shaner was going north and it is supposed he did not see the approaching Ohio Electric car. The car was going at a high rate of speed and the automobile in which Shaner was riding was struck with terrifir force. Shaner was thrown under the car and dragged for some distance under the wheels. He was within a short distance of his home when the accident happened.

CHAUTAUQUA STARTS BADLY.

Hartford City, Aug. 20.—The Lincoln Chautauqua company opened its six-day program in Hartford City, Friday, with a good program, but the attendance was nil. A thin fringe of spectators, not more than fifty, were there to "inspire" the talent at the evening entertainment. The afternoon attendance was in proportion. Added to this "enthusiastic" greeting, a series of petty thefts attended the arrival of the chautauqua here. Some one broke into the trunks containing the athletic goods of the chautauqua and took a volley ball and one or two other articles.

RED CROSS LIBRARY WORK ON BIG SCALE

Fifty Thousand Books Are Sent Weekly to All Parts of World.

London, July 31.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Opposite marble arch stands the home of Lady Battersea, which in pre-war days was the center of social activity. Now it is the headquarters of the Red Cross library and is run by Mrs. Gaskell and an army of voluntary assistants. The house is packed with books from floor to ceiling, they cover the walls, are piled up on tables and shelves, overflow into the servants' quarters and even into the stables at the back of the house.

Nearly 50,000 books a week are sent out to all parts of the world, and, in addition to gifts, 100,000 books and magazines are purchased monthly. able, and an amazing light has been thrown on the matter of best sellers. Far away into the millions soars the demand for Nick Carter detective stories.

Every hospital in France, of which there are some 290, receives a parcel of 130 books every three weeks. Poetry is very largely in demand and ranges from Shakespeare to modern living poets. The colonial soldier has an insatiable curiosity and his chief demand is for the Encyclopedia Britannica in 40 volumes. No demand is refused whether it be for the latest handbook on oil engines, theosophy, poultry farming or boxing.

These parcels of books go forth to all parts of the world wherever the British soldier is fighting. Malta received 7,000 per month, Basrah 9,000, Alexandra 3,000, Salonika 2,000 and even units in East Africa, Italy and Russia are supplied. The admiralty requested the library to supply every sailor in the fleets with a book.

Urgent summons often are received and when Gallipoli was filling the hospitals a cable message came, "send 25,000 books at once, light and good print." The other day a request came from Boulogne and within an hour and a half 3,000 books had been sent in response.

THE GOVERNMENT AND COAL.

It is clear the federal government realizes the need that in the interest of national security and domestic welfare it should intervene with its authority in the coal situation. That early steps to this end are to be taken is well past doubt. Indeed, by the time this is read the president may have made some definite move in that direction.

Just how far the government may find it necessary to go and in what degree of rigor it may feel constrained to act most probably will depend in great part upon the coal interests of the country. The problem of coal is made complex by the intervention of some factors not directly concerned with the business of producing and selling coal. The most important of these is transportation and that factor itself is just now and is likely to remain a large and vexed problem, though the railroads seem to be co-ordinating their efforts and exerting their energies to bring it to solution. But the situation is primarily one that is embodied in the mining of coal and the sale of coal at the mines. Production must be ample to meet the needs of the country and prices must be held to a plane of fair-dealing.

Recent investigations by the federal trade commission reveal the proved facts of rapacity all along the line from primary prices at the mines to prices the consumer is forced to pay. This demonstrated profiteering has not been uniform in degree, nor has it been without exception, but it has been general enough to give warrant for federal intervention, and that mainly not because of what has been done, but because the public can get no hostage that it will not be the continued practice marked by still more flagrant excesses. The government will have to go just as far in its measures of regulation and control as it may be constrained by public necessities to go. If that means taking over and completely nationalizing coal lands then that must be the recourse. It may be questioned, however, if any step so radical in the direction of state invasion of the field of private enterprise will be found necessary. Federal intervention under the new law that empowers the government to exercise control without attempting anything so extreme as public ownership and operation will most probably teach a salutary lesson if continued through the stresses of the war. The great coal-mining interests, and that at bottom means the important groups of capital that so largely dominate the coal industry, will not be likely to provoke the permanent extinction of their investments in a highly profitable business.

Federal action cannot come too soon nor be exerted with too much diligence and energy. It is the conclusion of some expert observers that even the government, do what it may, cannot altogether ward off the distresses, industrial and domestic, of a coal shortage this winter. Already there is a genuine shortage of coal and this lately has been aggravated by extensive labor troubles in the coal regions of several states, Indiana among them. Mines will have to be worked to capacity and the factor of transportation will have to be greatly strengthened if some parts of the country are to escape a repetition of last winter's bitter experience.

In view of the government's own paramount necessities that for easement must depend upon the fullest tide of unhampered industry and transportation—industry speeded to war needs and indispensable carriage both by land and sea—there can be no temporizing with a situation that already conveys a potential threat of great harm and might become the black menace of disaster. Nor can the government escape its duty to fend the people from distress and suffering that will ensue at once from their unfilled domestic needs and the worse blight that is the inseparable accompaniment of industrial paralysis. There must be relief and the government must see that the coal industry extends it—willy nilly.

CONSEQUENCES WILL BE GRAVE.

Slackers who go so far in their evasion of military duty as to ignore orders to report for examination incur the risk of enforced service or the alternative of the grave penalties of desertion.

The law has been interpreted in the only fair and just way that it can be constructed. Registrants who fail to appear for examination will be set down as passed, following which they will be called in due time to present themselves for service. Delinquency at this point becomes one of the most serious infractions of military law. Desertion is punishable by the extreme rigors of military rule. While it may be questioned that at this time and under these circumstances there will be resort to the death penalty, every slacker who becomes a deserter may rest assured that martial law will not stop far short of the extreme penalty.

It can be made fair to those who do not default their duty to the government and nation in its stress for soldiers only when those who do default shall be made to suffer most severe pains for their great fault. Desertion in the face of the enemy is scarcely if at all more base than desertion at the outset of war before danger yet is nigh. The man at the front at least has the miserable excuse and mitigation that the noise of battle, the threatening array of the foe and even the sight of bloodshed and suffering make him unaccountable for the ignoble impulses bred of fear, but the slacker at home has no such palliations for his failure in duty.

Men who are called to appear for examination will do well for themselves by appearing. They will else be accepted into the army and then hunted down as deserters when they fail to come when called to offer themselves for duty.

Little Cuba, with no great man power and not much developed wealth and with a dangerous proportion of her male citizenship forever ready to "go into the woods" under the leadership of the first aspiring revolutionary captain who comes along, is in no very strong position to render military aid to us in the war which she was very prompt to make her own cause, but she has tendered the use of the island as a training camp for an American army and her good offer has been accepted. In this case the will is readily taken for the deed and our foster child should be given every assurance and proof of the Mother Republic's gratitude for this further exhibition of loyalty to a cause she was not bound to espouse and to which she attached herself because she felt that in good faith she owed it to the nation that established and guarantees her freedom and her sovereignty.

Boss Hoover has lost no time setting things going under the new law passed to give him need of authority and proper room in which to exercise it for the behoof of this nation's and the rest of the world's belly. Here and there uncertain fear articulates itself in misgiving that Hoover is bottle-feeding an ambition toward the presidency. Great Scot! If the man can keep down the price of taters and parsnips and guarantee the daily loaf at a regular price, he can have anything he wants without division of the vote.

An American correspondent just out of Germany says that over there the thing is asserted that in six months Great Britain will be made to cry for peace. That was to have come at the end of the six months just wound up. If Berlin can console herself for the failure of last January's prediction by formulating another like it, nothing is added to the ships she sinks nor taken from the trenches she loses in France and Belgium.

To what extent the government may find it necessary to go to put down the threat of the I. W. W. to prostrate great industries that are vital to the nation's defense cannot be stated, but to whatever length it be found necessary to go there should be no delay in going. There is a difference between talking against the nation in war and materially obstructing the nation in war.

It is no far-sought suspicion to suspect that Governor Goodrich is a deal more concerned as to the fashion for disposing of the new-constitutionalists of Indiana than he is about the suitable manner for dealing with the coal problem in a special session of the legislature.

If nothing else, the efforts of Pope Benedict for peace have restored the line of communication between the Vatican and the Quirinal, broken for half a century.

Kerensky declares that Russia will fight to a finish, but it isn't yet clear whether he means Russia will fight radical Russians or embattled Germans.

Here is the heart forever stopped—
Yea, here is the body I wanted to find.

Here is the face that I used to know,
Broken and blackened, swollen and old,
Pallid beneath the star-flare's glow—
Christ, but the night is ghastly cold!

Face down here in the grit and mire,
Drunken with death, and dumb with fear—
Lo, I watch over you all afire,
But I never can make this body hear.

Twisted with terror, trampled by Fate,
Requiem winds shall scatter the dust,
Blow, on the roaring, red river of hate—
Courage of kings be but ashes and rust!

Shrapnel may burst, and rifles play,
Dead men lie like sheaves of grain,
But there's nothing to do, and nothing to say—
Christ, how I wish I could live again!

Our Daily Affirmation.

LIFE USUALLY LOOKS LIKE THREE STRIKES AND OUT JUST BEFORE SOME ONE STEPS IN AND MAKES A SAFE HIT.

We Jest With "Punch."

"'Miss ———— played the other works mentioned also, but while Miss ———— can play these better than most—by far—she brings the rarest of fresh-air feeling into her playing of Bach's 'O Si Sic Omnes.'"—Daily Telegraph.

"What we want to hear is Offenbach's 'Mens sana in corpore sano.'" —London "Punch."

Whew! Our tastes are less anatomical. What we wish to hear is Tschaikowsky's "Arma virumque cano," or, say Beethoven's "Gallia est omnis divisa."

Remosophy.

Cigars in Germany are now made of hay flavored with strawberry leaves, or of cabbage leaves without any flavor. This scientific fact, however, is of no help to the American manufacturers who made use of the idea long before we smoked our first pipeful of cut mullein leaves.

The "wheeze," dear one, is neither more nor less than the sound of hot air escaping with a whistling sound through the inky end of a goose quill.

"Gee, You Think You're Big, Doncha?"

The Most Dangerous Pacificists

BY J. HARPER LEECH.

"Pacifism" and peace agitation in the United States and Russia are much more dangerous to the allied cause than in any other country.

Germany knows Americans are a composite race, and in view of her own failure to absorb or placate subject peoples she cannot understand that American immigrants are loyal to their adopted land.

Her statesmen and editors argue continually that President Wilson represents only the Anglo-Saxon stock, and that German-Americans and Irish-Americans all love Germany or hate Great Britain.

For these reasons all pro-German and pacifist agitation here heartens the kaiser's junkers.

They believe LaFollette represents a large section of American feeling, although Americans know him for a very lonesome sort of statesman.

German maps have pictured the disruption of America and formation of German and Scandinavian nations in the northwest.

England has her pacifists, too, some of them prominent men and women before the war; but Germany is not fooled by their talk. They recently mustered nineteen votes out of 600 in the house of commons.

England has another type common to all countries—the class which corresponds to Bill Haywood and the I. W. W. in this country. These men hate all governments equally and strike at that nearest at hand. In Russia this type backed by German money has become formidable. Italy has a few.

England's "conscientious objectors" are partly fanatics and partly degenerates.

Serbia, Belgium and Montenegro have no pacifists.

France has none. Although the extreme French socialists would probably oppose continuing the war merely to acquire Alsace-Lorraine, the socialists of all parties have supported the government. Some French socialists have favored the international socialist conference at Stockholm, but only as a means of stirring up trouble in Germany.

British socialists have gone no further toward peace agitation than to support sending of delegates to Stockholm to "consult" about possible peace terms, the decisions not to be binding.

In Italy the radical and socialist elements forced the government to make war on Austria, although one small socialist faction is for peace at any price. The conservative church element is pacifist in tone, because of its dislike for the Italian government, which took away the temporal power of the pope.

Germany's pacifist element is represented only in jail, at forced labor or in the efforts of the two factions of German socialists to promote a peace satisfactory to the kaiser.

Only in Russia and the United States are disloyal activities allowed, although in England the pacifists have practically complete liberty to talk themselves hoarse or to print anything they want to.

WHEN A DRAFTED MAN BECOMES GUILTY FOR DESERTING THE ARMY

BY GILSON GARDNER.

At what moment does a selective service man become actually a soldier? Merely registering or passing his physical examination does not make him a soldier. Just when does the change take place?

The question has become important owing to the threat of extreme penalties for desertion. A soldier is not a deserter until he has become a soldier and deserted. The penalties for refusing to register are named in the draft law. They consist of jail penalties. But resisting the federal government after the draft law has become operative is a very different matter—dealt with by courtmartial followed by extreme penitentiary sentences and even the firing squad.

There is no oath administered to members of the selective service army, according to Provost Marshal General Crowder.

"There has been no formal ruling in that matter," said Major Gullion, "but in the absence of any provision in the law, it is safe to say the oath is not required to make the selective service man a soldier. He becomes a soldier at the moment specified in the notice he receives. For instance, if he is told to report at noon September 1, 1917, at a certain place, he becomes a soldier at that moment."

The absence of any oath-taking by these men will be unusual. When a man joins the regular army or state militia or navy, his formal entrance into the nation's service is marked by his oath to support the constitution "and true allegiance bear" to the United States of America. This oath is what constitutes the volunteer. All members of the regular army are volunteers. Likewise the state militia.

When the state militia were on the Mexican border and were incorporated into the federal service, they were asked to take the oath, volunteering for federal service. They were not commanded to take such oath. Unless the oath were taken voluntarily it would have no effect. This applies in the case of the selective service army. Being drafted, the selective service men have no choice wether or not to serve; they must serve "and true allegiance bear." To ask them to swear to do what they must do, would be a surplusage.

WE STILL WAIT.

(New York Globe.)

For three years the world has waited for the German people to disavow or modify the policy of their masters. The record is that when these masters are able to present basis for hope that their conquering plan will succeed all Germany hurrahs and waves flags. Pacifists propaganda in Germany makes no progress when saying the enterprise on which Germany is embarked is unrighteous. Its only argument is that conquest can not succeed. Should German armies occupy Paris, or the submarine campaign be successful, Scheidemann and his hypocritical colleagues of the German reichstag would be silent as annexations ocurred and indemnities were levied.

AN EARLY DUTY.

(Muncie Press.)

The word "Sammy," which the press associations have been trying to hang onto the American soldier, will not stick. It is a belittling diminutive—a poor imitation of the British term, "Tommy," which itself never would have originated at a time like this. In rural England the word "Sammy" is used as a nickname for a half-wit, and the American equivalent is a "nut." The soldiers at the front are refusing to accept the name. They prefer the term used by the French "Teddies," which at least has some fighting significance. But no diminutive is appropriate in describing an American soldier now. Call him a soldier and let it go at that.

"Attaboy," the slogan much used by American troops headed for France, is of American origin. It is a piece of baseball slang, used in coaching and means "That's the boy." The use of the word has originated with the men themselves. Nicknames and slang generally must originate spontaneously in order to become a part of the language of the people. No one knows what starts or stops slang. Like Topsy, it "just grows."

MARY IS RECAPTURED AND HELD BEHIND BARS

Girl Who Shivered Out Night in Fence Corner Will Be Sentenced.

Mary Frazier, 15, is held behind the strong bars of the county jail to await a hearing before Juvenile Judge John W. Eggeman Tuesday morning. She was taken to the jail after she had staged an escape from the county detention home Saturday night. The girl stole from the institution after nightfall and wandered along the Huntertown road. She spent the remaining hours of the night in a fence corner.

Deputy Sheriff Cole recaptured the girl when she was riding on a big wagon with a farmer Sunday morning. The girl had said that she was going to visit relatives in Huntertown and was being conveyed in that direction.

The escape from the county home is the second dash for freedom for the girl. She tried to get away from the detention school in Toledo, O., before being brought here. She climbed out on the roof of the Toledo institution. When the matron pursued her, Mary brandished a revolver, it is reported. She was taken after she had made a temporary getaway.

It is expected that the girl, who has been a juvenile ward for some time, will be sent to the girls' industrial school at Indianapolis.

Bad Attack of Diarrhoea Cured.

"About two years ago I had an attack of bowel trouble and was in a serious condition when I began using Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. J. Rogan, Fairport, N. Y. "This medicine relieved me at once and after taking three or four doses of it I was cured." People are always pleased by the prompt cures which this remedy effects. The recommendations of those who have used it have done much to make it the most popular medicine in use for bowel complaints.—Advertisement.

UNCLE HARRY TELLS ABOUT SPAIN

As Uncle Harry came down the street he saw the three children having an excited conversation on the porch and looking at some object which Jimmy held in his hand.

"What's all the excitement about, young folks?" he said. Helen spoke up: "Jimmy has a picture of a flag and we are discussing what it is. He won't tell and we don't know. It has yellow and red stripes and two of the South American nations have red and yellow stripes, but Jimmy says it's a European nation."

"Let me see it, Jimmy," said Uncle Harry, and as he took it in his hand he said, "Oh, I know what flag it is. Helen is partly right; Bolivia has red and yellow stripes, but it also has a green one. Ecuador also has red and yellow stripes, but it also has a blue one. This flag is that of a nation that at one time was the greatest in the world and we of the United States should remember it for it was the last country we fought with before the present war."

"Spain," said Joe and Helen in one breath, and Jimmy laughed.

"Yes, you are right," said Uncle Harry. It is the flag of Spain, a nation which is mentioned by the oldest historian, Herodotus, as Iberia.

"It at one time practically owned all the new world and was the richest nation in the world. One by one it lost its foreign possessions and the last ones were lost when we took the Philippines and Porto Rico and Cuba was made independent."

"How does she stand in the present war, Uncle Harry?" said Joe. "Is she neutral?"

"Yes, Joe, but Portugal, the nation touching her on one side, is allied with France, which touches her upon the other side. Spain's great problem is, however, not the war but her own internal condition. When the Spanish-American war was ended it was felt that Spain, being relieved of her possessions, would be free to develop her natural resources at home and so for a time it seemed, but there is great unrest among her people and it has frequently been rumored that a revolution was under way that would depose the king and make Spain a republic, but it has not developed yet. The rich in Spain are very rich and the poor are very poor and their interests are altogether opposed to each other. The army is more or less inclined to revolt against the government and the statesmen who control matters are not united in their ideas about national policy."

"How about the king, Uncle Harry?" said Helen. "Isn't he a good king and very popular?"

"Yes, Helen," said Uncle Harry. "He seems to be a wide-awake, talented yung king. But the neighboring nation of Portugal deposed its king only a few years ago and such examples are contagious.

"The Carlists are active and inclined to strike at the right moment and there is always the clerical question to be settled."

"What are the Carlists, Uncle Harry?" said Joe.

"The Carlists are claimants of the Spanish throne. They claim it by descent from Don Carlos de Bourbon, second son of Charles IV, of Spain, and this claim to succession of the Spanish throne has caused several outbreaks of civil war. Then you must remember that a great majority of the people cannot read or write and the country is run by professional politicians who are simply in the game for the profits to be made out of it. The conservative and liberal parties are ever opposed to each other, but seem to have no set policies except to divide up the spoils of office. Taxation is very high and grows higher and yet the state seems able to pay merely its interest on its national debt and other expenses and makes no real progress. Matters in Spain are in a very critical condition and no one can prophesy the final outcome.

"The natives of each province are intensely clannish and the Basques, Aragonese, Andalusians, Castillians and citizens of other provinces are devoted to their own people and seem to desire the olden privileges they had when they were independent. The possession of Gibraltar by England has always been an irritation to Spain, although the King's marriage to the English princess Victoria Eugenia was immensely popular.

"The Spaniards are a proud, self-willed people and the solution of their problems is entirely a matter of their own concern and affects no other nation."

"Well," said Jimmy, "I'm glad I'm not a Spaniard, but I do hope they will become a republic. You know it was because of Queen Isabella backing up Columbus with money that he discovered America."

"If he hadn't done that we might all be Europeans yet and America be owned by the Indians."

"Hardly that, Jimmy," said Uncle Harry. "I guess somebody would have discovered America before this, but we certainly do owe a debt of gratitude to that great queen for her noble act. Perhaps before long we may have great news about Spain. Let us hope it will be good news." And Uncle Harry rose to go.

"Good night, all," he said.

"Good night, Uncle Harry."

SUFFRAGE CONFERENCE SOON.

Program to Be Stimulating and Profitable.

The suffrage conference at Indianapolis August 22 and 23 promises to be the most important and also the most interesting meeting of Indiana women that has ever been held. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will be the principal speaker at the conference, and as president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, and also president of the International Council of Women, she is especially interesting. She is coming directly from New York for this conference, and will be present during the entire session. The opportunity to hear her will well repay one for attendance.

Other speakers will include Dr. Amelia Keller, Dr. Jones, Miss Sara Lauer, Mrs. Hughston, Mrs. Cora Harris and Mrs. Richard E. Edwards, who was heard in this city on Saturday at a suffrage meeting at the University club.

Helpful suggestions for districts and for county work, revision of the constitution, publicity, war work and cooperation with other organization are some of the topics to be discussed. Mrs. Catt will lecture on Wednesday evening on "Votes and Patriotism," and Mrs. Edwards on Thursday morning on "Our Next Objective." All women are invited to attend this conference.

Really Removes Hair Roots, or Costs Nothing
(Phelactine, the New Wonder-Worker)

Without doubt the greatest thing yet discovered for hair-disfiguring womankind is the wonderful phelactine method. It has none of the disadvantages of electrolysis or depilatories and, best of all, it removes the hairs entire, roots and all! It does this instantly, leaving the skin so smooth and soft that no one can tell the user was ever the possessor of a moustache or other hairy growth.

Phelactine is non-odorous, non-irritating, and so harmless a child could eat it without any ill effect. A stick of this remarkable substance, accompanied by simple instructions, can be obtained at any drug store, and its price will be refunded upon request in case of dissatisfaction. But what woman would not be satisfied and delighted after seeing those ugly hairs come out—including the roots—with her own eyes?—Advertisement.

Listen to This! Not So Very Loud, is It?

BY BETTY BROWN.

The noise of the purring motor hides the song of this coat. Striking for street wear, it is not loud as a motor coat. Furthermore, its tone is tuneful, rather than discordant, and its lines are graceful.

PRESERVE SWEET CORN FOR WINTER BY DRYING

By BIDDIE BYE.

Only very young and tender corn should be used for drying.

Cook in boiling water two to five minutes, long enough to set the milk. Cut the kernels from the cob with a sharp knife, taking care not to cut off pieces of the cob. Spread thinly on trays, and place in position to dry. Stir occasionally until dry.

Or boil or steam on the cob eight to ten minutes to set the milk. To improve flavor a teaspoon of salt to a gallon of water may be used. Drain well and cut corn from cob, using a very sharp and flexible knife. Cut grains fine, only half way down to the cob, and scrape out the remainder of grain, being careful not to scrape off any of the chaff next to the cob. Dry from three to four hours at 110 degrees to 145 degrees Fahrenheit. When field corn is used, good, plump roasting-ear stage is the proper degree of ripeness. A pound of dried corn per dozen ears is an average yield.

The corn may be dried in the sun. Dry in oven ten to fifteen minutes, and finish drying in the sun. Sun drying, of course, is not satisfactory in moist weather.

"Condition" the product by storing in boxes, and pouring it from one box into another once a day for three or four days, to mix it thoroughly and to give the whole mass an even quality.

Corn Relish.

Cut the corn from two dozen ears and add, finely chopped, one head of cabbage, four large onions, four green peppers and one red pepper, discarding the seeds from the latter. Add one quart of vinegar; turn into a preserving kettle and set over the fire to boil. Mix together three cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of salt, one-fourth of a cupful of dry mustard, one teaspoonful of tumeric and three-fourths of a cupful of flour. Blend with an additional quart of vinegar and add them to the boiling relish. Let boil for half hour longer and seal in hot jars, as for canned fruit.

HOW TO SAVE PERISHABLE FOOD FOR USE NEXT WINTER

Acting in co-operation with the government in the national food conservation campaign The Sentinel will from day to day present its readers with recipes and suggestions for preserving perishable fruits and vegetables.

Salted Corn.

Water-tight kegs or tubs, or crocks, may be used for salting corn.

Do not use any containers made of yellow or pitch pine.

Wash thoroughly and steam kegs, crocks, or other containers to be used.

Husk the ears of corn and remove the silk.

Cook in boiling water for ten minutes.

Cut corn from the cob with a sharp knife.

Weigh the corn.

Use a quantity of salt equal to one-fourth weight of corn.

Spread a layer of corn one inch thick in the receptacle to be used.

Sprinkle heavily with salt.

Continue adding layers of corn and salt, until the receptacle is nearly full.

Cover with cheesecloth and clean board cover.

Place a clean stone for a weight on the board cover.

Set the receptacle in a cool place.

If a brine to cover has not formed in twenty-four hours, pour enough strong brine over the corn to come up to the wooden cover.

As soon as bubbling, which will be slight, has stopped, cover the surface of the brine with hot parafine to form an air-tight cover.

To make strong brine:
One pound salt.
Two quarts water.
Stir until salt is entirely dissolved.

It's Much Joy to Paddle Your Canoe

A canoe, a river with a woodsy bank, plenty of soft, blue sky, and shadowed sunshine overhead, and a friend—what more could a person have to make his heart glad and his whole soul sing with the joy and happiness of living?

The little Indian craft skimming silently and smoothly over the water, taking you into sequestered nooks and out into the broad open, gliding gently, gliding pleasantly, swiftly or slowly, as you will it, has a certain indefinable charm for you which is mystic and beautiful.

It is not to be wondered at that the lovers of canoes are many and that canoeing grows more popular every year.

Canoeing is especially popular with women. It offers all the fresh air and all the exercise that other outdoor sports give without the strain or exertion which accompanies most of them.

It is one of the healthiest forms of exercise that a woman could have, for it is not strenuous, and if you learn to paddle correctly it is without any effort whatsoever. At the same time it brings into play nearly every muscle in your body, because you can't paddle against a current, for instance, without feeling a little twinge of the pull way down to your toes.

The movement of the arms guiding the paddle makes you graceful, for it is impossible to paddle well and not do it with a free, easy motion which is full of grace and beauty. And a strange part about paddling is that you can't paddle at all unless you do it fairly well.

And the more practice you get the better you paddle. There is no such thing as not improving. All it takes is practice. You can't say this about other forms of exercise which depend as much as anything upon the beginner's possessing some innate predilection toward playing the game.

Perhaps this is one of the reasons which makes canoeing so popular. Every one can learn to do it well.

The paddling movement reduces the upper part of the arm and tend to give the arms pretty curves. The chest is broadened and the back becomes stronger and straighter through these movements. The blood is brought down from the brain and rests the tired nerve ends. Canoeing has much the same effect as golf for its soothing qualities for the nerves. The arm exercise sets the blood int ocirculation in a sure but not too energetic fashion, starting the circulation rather slowly and sanely.

It has been said that, like bowling, paddling is one of the best possible remedies for a torpid liver, and that if people would enjoy these exercises they would have fewer headaches and rarely, if ever, an attack of indigestion.

Canoes are not all expensive. You can get a very good one for about $30, and this will be stanch and safe and seaworthy, perfectly balanced, with the beautiful canoe lines and of the finest material. It is best for a beginner to get a canoe with air compartments not only in the stern and bow but one which goes along the sides. The reason for this is that while the air tanks in the stems make the canoe unsinkable, the sponson makes the canoe almost sure proof against tipping over.

The idea that canoes are dangerous is very silly. Of course, if you jump around and act bereft of your senses you are courting trouble. But you are just as likely to get into trouble by acting bereft of your senses when crossing the street downtown or when mounting a pair of stairs.

To sit still is not as necessary a rule to learn about canoeing as to gain a sense of balance. This sense of balance is something which will come to you naturally. You don't think of a bicycle as a dangerous thing, but it is far more important to learn balance for a bicycle before it is safe to ride than it is to gain it for the canoe.

For women a smock suit is the most comfortable sort of thing to wear for canoeing. This allows perfect freedom of arm movement and does not constrain the waist any.

BIG FAD FOR OSTRICH MARKS FEMININE WORLD

Paris is holding her own in fashions this year. It is as though obstacles and difficulties but spur her to greatest achievement.

Now there is a big fad for ostrich. While ostrich has always been in demand more or less, sometimes for a fan, a boa or trimming for a hat, there has never been a time within years when the feathery product of the ostrich is seen on the hat, shoulder cape and bag, all at the same time.

SCALLOPED FISH AND HOMINY.

Place in a baking dish alternate layers of boiled or steamed hominy (hulled corn) seasoned to taste, and minced fish with thickened milk sauce. Have a layer of fish on top and sprinkle over it bread crumbs. Place in oven to heat thoroughly and brown the top. Rice, macaroni or potatoes may be used in this recipe in the place of hominy.

A. G. Kaftan, in charge of the local navy recruiting station, has just received instructions regarding the enlistment of men as candidates for commissioned officers in the navy. In the preliminary examination, it is stated by the bureau of navigation, that the best officer material among the candidates be retained, having special regard to educational qualifications.

Candidates for the naval reserv must be fully capable, the instruction state, of passing a physical examinatio similar in all respects to that prescribed for line officers of the regular navy for aeronautic duty. Candidates wh have had practical flying experience and possess pilot's licenses from recognized flying schools shall be considered first, as their previous training will save time in their final qualification for naval aviators. These men will remain, according to Recruiting Officer Kaftan, in the rating of seamen, second class, throughout the period of their flying instructions.

Other candidates for commissions in the navy because of their special knowledge in the construction, design, or organization of aircraft establishments, will be of value to the naval service, it is anticipated.

The navy is becoming more particular over the selection of men as mechanics and only well qualified men are to be enrolled after a careful examination. Tradesmen, such as gas engine mechanics, machine tool men, coppersmiths, carpenters, blacksmiths and sailmakers are especially desired by the navy, it is stated. Consideration of the work to be done about aircraft, airplanes, balloons, seaplanes and dirigibles, indicate the quality of men desired in this class, the local officer said.

County agents from the counties of northeastern Indiana with the superintendents of schools of the same counties gathered in regular session in the court house Monday afternoon to discuss matters relative to bigger and better crops and the conservation of foodstuffs.

These regular meetings of the county agents have proven highly beneficial and much good is being derived by the gatherings.

Z. M. Smith, head of the educational department of Purdue university, was at the meeting and delivered an address and told how the forces must be united in order to protect the boys at the front and the people at home from feeling the horrible effects of war in regards to the shortage of foodstuffs.

Several other matters of importance only to the agents themselves were discussed and decided upon.

The August Blanket Sale Will Take Place As Usual!

—When America entered the great world war, we feared that the Annual August Sale of Blankets would be impossible this year. The equipment of the thousands of boys who went to army training camps called for literally millions of blankets, and cottons and woolens have been put to uses occasioned by the war. Prices are bound to go higher and higher.

But our orders for blankets were placed a year ago, and this forehanded buying protects you. We were able, by placing much larger-than-usual-orders to secure prices far below the present market. These are now in stock and —The only reason this much wanted silk jersey cloth is offered at the low price of 95c is the fact that occasionally in the weaving, a thread is pulled a trifle, causing a slight imperfection. However, these defects are scarcely noticeable, and can be almost entirely eliminated by carefully placing the pattern.

All Silk Jersery Cloth in White & Flesh, 95c

It is particularly desirable for the making of dainty undergarments and negligees. 36 inches wide; very special at 95c a yard.

CAN PLACE THIRTY MEN

Major T. F. Ryan Can Put Young Men in a Local Hospital Unit.

NEEDS FIFTY MEN FOR BATTERY B

Company E and Company B Select Men for Service in the Battery.

Thirty Fort Wayne men with a fair education can be placed in a local hospital unit which is being organized by applying at the regular army recruiting station. Major Thomas F. Ryan announces that the young men who volunteer for this service can remain in the city until the unit is called.

The young men who are enlisted in this unit will get to associate with the best physicians and surgeons in the city. Medical students and pharmacists will have an excellent opportunity in this unit, as will the other young men who volunteer.

Any young man who has not as yet been called for examination by his local conscription board is eligible to enter this unit. Men who enlist in this unit will be exempt from draft.

Major Ryan also announces that he can place fifty young men with Battery B, now stationed at Fort Harrison, and which is now on the schedule to leave with the next contingent of troops for France.

Pick Men for Battery.

Complying with orders received officers of Company E, infantry and Company B, Signal Corps, Monday picked men to assist in filling up ranks of Battery B. The order has been received and must be conformed with. Some of the young men volunteered to go while it befell the officers to assume to somewhat unpleasant task of selecting the others. It is asked that mothers of the young men who are picked regard the act as one that is necessary and not one done for spite work as has been intimated.

The order received by the officers was also asked to be treated confidentially, and it is for this reason that the officers are not giving out the names of the men who have been picked to be transferred to artillery service.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT.

Impressive Scene Witnessed at Retreat Ceremonies of Company B.

Over a thousand people it is estimated witnessed the impressive scenes attendant to the retreat ceremonies given by Company B, signal corps, at the Concordia college grounds Sunday afternoon. Competitive drills were given and were watched with interest. The company also passed in review before Capt. George S. Foden, of the United States medical corps; H. G. Hoss, former captain of A company, signal corps, and Capt. L. O. Knowlton. The officers were highly complimentary in their remarks as to the efficiency of the company.

The company lost seven men as the result of the federal physical examination which was conducted in this city two weeks ago. The announcement came from the headquarters of the chief medical examiner.

Thirty Men Enlist.

Thirty men were the results of Saturday and Sunday at the regular recruiting station. These men were sent to Fort Thomas, Ky., Sunday evening. Recruiting work remains on a good standing and results are pleasing.

TO BE ON WAY SOON.

Lieutenant Moriarity Assures Early Service in France.

In a telegram to this city Lieut. H. C. Moriarity, a commissioned officer of Battery B, states that early service in France is assured and that the Indiana field artillery will be equipped with six-inch howitzers. Each company will consist of 228 men. This makes it necessary for every company in the regiment to secure more men and application for this branch of the service can be made with Maj. Thomas F. Ryan, of the regular army recruiting station.

MANY GO TO FORT.

Fort Wayne Boys at Mobilization Camp Have Many Visitors.

Many Fort Wayne people took advantage of the excursions to Fort Benjamin Harrison Sunday. The people report that the members of both batteries are very busy getting all the drill that can be secured. The doctors have again been busy during the past week and most of the young men secured the second "shot" of anti-typhoid serum.

Everything possible for the convenience of the men in camp is being installed, including shower baths. No information of any kind could be secured as to the possible date of entraining of the troops for an eastern port from where they will set sail for France.

Fort Wayne Youths.

Birchfield Brown, formerly employed at the Meyer Brothers drug-store and well known in this city, has written that as a sergeant in the medical corps he will soon leave El Paso for an eastern port from where he will set sail for France at an early date.

Cook Frank E. Stocker, of Company B, Forty-fifth United States infantry, stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Metker, of 715 East Washington street. He is enthusiastic over army life.

Lieut. Eben E. Lane is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lane, of Wildwood avenue. He is awaiting orders to report to the American Lake camp for further instructions.

Private R. Swope, who resided at 1332 Calhoun street, writes to this city that he is now stationed at Old Fort Warren in Boston harbor looking forward to early active service. He is a member of the heavy coast artillery.

CONSERVE MILK CANS, NEW HEALTH GOSPEL

City Officers Will Wage Campaign for Care of Containers.

From the city health department comes the cry of "Save all milk containers." As a part of a nation-wide effort, the local health officers may plan meetings in and near Fort Wayne in a campaign to induce milk consumers to take care of all metal and glass holders.

Warning from the federal department of agriculture calls attention to the fact that an actual shortage of ten-gallon milk cans is at hand. There is a growing scarcity of milk containers of all sizes. This is due to waste in most cases. Necessity of plenty of milk and of sanitary containers makes an organized "save the cans" campaign necessary, the order comes to Fort Wayne officers.

A card holding nine important cautions may be delivered to all Fort Wayne dairymen by local health officers. The statements relating to the larger metal cans are:

1. Cans should be marked permanently with the owner's name and address.
2. "Empties" returned by rail to the producer should be tagged like any other baggage.
3. Railroad employes should take care in handling cans to avoid denting or breaking them.
4. Throwing cans indiscriminately from the car to the ground or even on the station platform should be stopped.
5. Railroad companies should provide covered shelter for full milk cans and should compel employes to stack empty cans under shelter.
6. The dealer should wash, sterilize and dry the cans before returning them to the produced. If he has no facilities for sterilizing by steam he should rinse and thoroughly drain the cans. Cans should be returned dry.
7. The producer should not allow cans to remain outdoors in inclement weather.
8. A clean dry can will not rust.
9. The health department should see to it that milk cans are not used as receptacles for oil, garbage, etc.

CORONER HOLDING INQUEST OF CASES

Coroner J. E. McArdle and his deputy, Robert B. Garmire, are busy investigating several cases and hearing evidence from many witnesses. The chief case to be examined Monday afternoon was the street car accident in which Emma Schmidt was killed. All the people who took part in the rush for the open have been summoned.

The case of Ray Arnold, who was hit by a train near Sherwood, will also be investigated as will the auto accident in which little Byron Ormiston was killed.

Several people were to appear before the coroner late Monday afternoon to give evidence in the case of the alleged suicide of Dale Hazen.

WAS FRIGHTENED AWAY.

A frustrated attempt to rob the App shoe store, on South Calhoun street, was evidenced Monday morning, when the large window at the rear of the store building was found to be removed. The glass had been cut out. No articles are missed from the store. It is thought that the would-be burglars were frightened away at the time when they had prepared to enter the business house.

DEATH BETTER THAN CRUELTY

Dale Hazen, 14, Shot Himself to Escape Fear of Abuse.

FAMILY TROUBLE HAD WEIGHED ON HIS MIND

Body Found in Truck Patch by Wife of Boy's Employer.

Dale Hazen, 14, made up his mind that death was better than the prospect of living with his father, who is alleger to have treated him cruelly. When he was convinced that he would be given into the custody of the man who had beaten him in former years, the lad shot himself through the heart with a shot gun Sunday morning.

The body was found by Mrs. Hiram Frazier, wife of the farmer who lives three miles from Churubusco, just this side of the county line, and for whom the boy had worked for a year. The lifeless form was stretched at full length at the west end of the truck patch, when Mrs. Frazier walked to the end of the patch. She ran to the house to summon her husband.

Clothing Powder Burned.

The boy had evidently sat down on the ground and placed the muzzle of the gun against his breast. He had discharged the weapon by the aid of a dried weed stalk. The stalk is in the hands of Coroner J. E. McArdle. The overall bib and even the front of the blue shirt worn by the boy were badly burned by the powder.

Sheriff Gillie and Deputy Sheriff Charles Rulo went carefully over the ground Sunday evening and again Monday morning. They agree with the coroner that there was no likelihood of an accidental discharge of the shotgun. The report of all officers is that the boy committed suicide.

Deputy Cheriff Rulo questioned all near relatives of the boy and the members of the Frazier family on Monday morning in order to leave no doubt about the nature of the shooting. He learned that the lad has been disheartened since the time that divorce action has been under way between his parents. The boy had learned that he was to be given into the custody of his father.

Threatened to End Life.

"I will either kill myself or run away before I will go to stay with dad," Dale had stoutly told his brother, Earl, aged 16, on several occasions.

The case between Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hazen, the parents, was set for next Friday. Each day as the time drew nearer for the hearing, Dale became more downcast. He was found in deep study several times. He would stand alone and talk to himself, members of the Frazier family said.

Sunday morning he cared for the horses as usual. He seemed in good spirits when he ate breakfast. He returned to the barn and a few minutes later was seen to come to the house by Byrl, the small daughter of Hiram Frazier. It is believed that Dale took the shotgun from the cellar way and hurried into the truck patch.

Impulse May Have Been Sudden.

The farmer believes that the boy may have secured the weapon with the view of shooting at a ground hog, which has been burrowing in the patch. The suicidal impulse may have entered his mind as he waited for the animal to reappear.

No member of the household heard the shot. When Mr. Frazier had discovered that the boy was dead, he telephoned for the lad's brother to come from the home of an uncle, a half mile away.

The older brother is distracted, as is also the mother. The father has been sent for. He is now staying near Peru. He is expected to reach the Frazier home Monday afternoon. The coroner will hold another inquest Monday afternoon, as his visit at the farm on Sunday evening was a hurried affair. He is satisfied that the boy's death is a suicide, however.

DARK EARTH HEAP CAUSES AUTO SPILL

An unlighted heap of earth placed at the side of Spy Run avenue, near the old canal bridge, caused an automobile spill Sunday night, according to the report made to the police. Two members of the auto party were slightly injured when the machine ran on to the pile of dirt at the turn in the street. The police were notified on Sunday evening after the accident and a red light was placed above the earthen mound.

TWO BOARDS RESUME WORK

Country and First District Boards Examine More Men to Fill Quotas.

TWO BOARDS HAVE REQUIRED NUMBERS

Men Are Now Finding It a Harder Task Even to File Claims.

Work of examining the men called for examination on the second summons in the country district and the first district of the city was resumed Monday morning. District No. one has summoned 130 additional men while the country district board has called in 250 more.

The second and third districts in the city have their quota of men and the board in district three has still a few more claims for exemption to examine until their work on the first draft is completed.

Figures show that seventy-five percent of the men who pass the physical examination on the second call are asking exemption from service but the board members are making an oral examination of the men who wish to file claims to see whether it is any use to file the claim. On this account many men are finding it a difficult matter to even secure the necessary papers to file a claim.

The district appeal board resumed its work of examining appeals of claimants for exemption from service.

In district one, Federal Commissioner T. J. Logan began the work of examining claims for exemption and it is possible that he will refuse even some of the claims which have been allowed by the board. However a person may appeal the claim to the district board after the federal officer district board after the federal officer makes a decision on the case.

ted States army stated Monday morning that it was his honest opinion that the boards of the city were as capable as any boards in the United States. He was highly complimentary in speaking of their work. He stated, however, that the public is watching the action of the boards on several exemption claims and he said there is sure to be an awful uprising if the board accepts the claims filed by several parties.

It is known however, that one of the cases referred to by the officer will be by no means granted by one of the boards, in whose jurisdiction it comes to pass on the claim. It is known and being voiced about that this same person was ejected with force from the board's office in one of the school buildings where the examinations were held.

MAKE PLANS FOR FAREWELL

Council for Patriotic Service to Give Demonstration When Boys Leave.

"OFF TO FRANCE DAY" MAY BE OBSERVED

September 5 Is Date Set for Departure of First Section of Conscripts.

Fort Wayne will soon be bidding her soldier boys good-by and steps are being taken now to make the event a big occasion. Of course, the whole town is not expected to turn out and cry, but there will undoubtedly be more than one lump go down the throat of an anxious one left behind.

As yet there has been very little done to make way for the celebration because nothing is as yet known concerning the time when the Fort Wayne contingents will depart, but a committee has been appointed by President Schelmann of the Patriotic council to work on the arrangements for the occasion.

If the thing is to be done properly there may have to be more than one celebration, it is thought, because the troops from this city will not be leaving at the same time. Undoubtedly the first to receive the call will be the two local militia companies, E and B, but after that there will be the day when the city bids fond farewells to the members of the first section of the new national army which is just now being completed. There will also be a celebration here very likely as is being held other places, "Off to France" day.

When the long brown lines go marching down Calhoun street there will be a long-remembered scene impressed on the minds of those who fill the streets to see the procession, and it is felt by those who are in charge of getting befitting ceremonies that now is the time to get ready for the occasion.

The committee headed by Charles Niebergall will begin immediately to get busy when the time of departure is announced.

September 5 is the date which has been set for the calling out of the first section of the new army and one-third of Fort Wayne's quota will leave the native soil at that time for service elsewhere.

FISHING FEVER IS QUITE CONTAGIOUS

Hundreds of Licenses Have Been Issued by County Clerk Recently.

Fishing fever has been quite contagious, judging from the number of fishing licenses which have been issued by the county clerk within the past week. Hundreds have been written out every day and evidence is given that the number issued will break the record of other months this year.

Employes of the court house were also fishing over the week end and one of the clerks reports that he caught "nary a fish." Another states that they were biting good and that he in company with another man caught sixty-four blue gills in a very short time.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment to the amount of $147.06 was given to Ricketts and Bartlett Range company against Harry B. Fitzpatrick, et. al., in superior court Monday morning.

Wright Did Wrong.

Mrs. Josie Wright states in her complaint for divorce that Carl Wright did wrong. She filed the complaint Saturday morning and shortly afterward the restraining order enjoining the Fort Wayne Rolling Mills from paying the defendant his wages had been executed. The couple were married October 16, 1908, and separated this month.

Court Notes.

J. H. Johnson, deputy auditor, left Sunday with his wife and family to spend a week at Lake James.

The Bull Rapids bridge which spans the Maumee river near Woodburn will be closed Monday and Tuesday while repairs are being made.

Miss Esther Becker, of the county treasurer's office, is on her vacation this week.

To Quiet Title.

Suit for action on a deed, to have the deed referred and to quiet title to some real estate has been begun by Henry Hosler, et. al., against Isaiah Hollopeter, et. al.

Marriage Licenses.

Herman F. Schroeder, postman, to Minnie Meyer.

Charles E. Hall, signalman, to Sophie E. Savio.

MUST NOT BLOCKADE.

Automobiles must not be left standing before railroad stations and other public buildings in such a way as to block either hack or foot traffic, orders Police Chief Lens. He makes the mandate as the result of a complaint that taxi companies are holding up traffic in public places and in some cases annoying guests by their methods of service.

League Leaders Take Chiefs Down Twice in Sunday Bill

Fast Going Wolverines Ride Right Past Without Hesitating

Despite all efforts of the Chiefs to save thmselves, the Wolverines having all the breaks in luck, two games were recorded against Fort Wayne in the official standing as a result of the double-header with Grand Rapids, Sunday, 5 to 4 and 3 to 1.

A home run in the fifth inning of the first game was responsible for the first defeat handed to Fort Wayne, a home run which resulted when the ball went under the left field fence and out of harm's way. The second game went against the local aggregation because of errors and not to any particular effort of the boys from Michigan.

The scoring in the first game was started by the Chiefs in the fourth inning. Seigfreid landed on the first ball pitched to him for a circuit smash with none on ahead of him. The ball went over the right field fence. Kelly was out, short to first. Glockson drew a pass but was doubled on Vandagrift's fly to right, ending a good chance for the locals to do some scoring. Grand Rapids scored two runs in the fifth to even things up and go the Chiefs one better. Alcock flew to Breaux. Miller singled but was forced at first by Jantzen, who stole second and scored a moment later when Devormer's long slash rolled under the left field fence.

Three more runs were scored by the visitors in the next inning. Mitchell was safe on first and stole second. Allison passed Carey and Mathes laid down a bunt, filling the bags. Eddington got a slashing two-bagger, scoring two men. Mathes was out, Vandagrift to Smith. Miller got a hit and Eddington scored. Kelly got a two-bagger in the seventh and scored when Glockson repeated the trick. Vandagrift struck out, and Allison was out at first. Glockson reached third and scored on a bad throw to the plate. The Chiefs scored another run and almost evened the count in the ninth when Kelly singled and took second on Vandagrift's sacrifice, Glockson having flied out. Allison brought Kelly in with a long single. Allison took second when Breaux drew a pass. Miller, the next man up, was out on an easy infield bounder, short to first.

The second game was a seven-inning affair by agreement between the bosses before the fray started. The Chiefs scored in the second inning. Hoffman doubled and took second on a sacrifice hit. Kelly singled, scoring Hoffman.

Grand Rapids tied the score in the third and matters were even until the sixth inning. Carey was out, short to first. Mathes put one over the pitcher's head which Kelly failed to get and the runner took second. Breaux made a nice catch of Eddington's fly. Mathes counted on Miller's poor throw to first on Alcock's drive. Miller's two-base drive scored Alcock. This ended the scoring and the Chiefs lost the second of the double-header.

IDEAL CONDITIONS FOR OPENING DAY

Fourteen Fast Trotters to Face Starter in Feature Event.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 20.—Ideal weather and racing conditions were promised for the opening day of the grand circuit harness meeting at the Belmont club's mile track at Narberth today. With the exception of the Mahon stable all the big drivers have entered their pacers and trotters in the seventeen events of the Wells program. The track is in splendid condition and those who worked over it yesterday pronounced it in perfect shape for fast time.

The Bellevue-Stratford hotel stake of $3,000 for 2:07 trotters was the feature event of the opening day's card. Fourteen of the best trotters of the year were carded to start in this event. The other events on today's program were the 2:16 pace and the 2:07 pace, each for a purse of $3,000.

WILL M'MULLIN BE ANOTHER GEORGE ROHE FOR WHITE SOX?

(By Paul Purman).

If the White Sox win the American league penant and go into the world series they may be deprived of the services of their regular third baseman, Buck Weaver.

Weaver suffered a broken finger in a recent game. There is no hope of him playing ball for at least thre weeks and it may be that he will not be able to get into the game for the final drive or the world series.

The fracture to Weaver's finger is serious and he cannot go back into the game until it is thoroughly mended. Playing at third base where a man must handle vicious drives at short range, a player with a bad finger is not much of an asset.

In case Weaver is not able to get back into the game his place will be filled by McMullen, who has taken his place since he was incapacitated.

While McMullin is not in Weaver's class as a third baseman, he has been filling in creditably during Buck's absence.

Should Weaver be kept out of the game during the world series, should the Sox win, it would be the second time that the White Sox went into the national classic without the services of their regular third backer.

In 1906 when the White Sox and Cubs battled for the world championship Lee Tannehill, the regular third baseman, was moved to shortstop when George Davis was injured and could not play.

George Rohe, an almost unknown youngster, took Tannehill's place at third.

Rohe was one of the heroes of the series. He scored one of the Sox two runs with a triple in the first game and won the third game with a triple with the bases full. He had a prominent part in winning the fifth and sixth games.

In 1914 the Boston Braves had a similar experience. A few days before the end of the season Red Smith, of the regular third baseman, broke his leg sliding into second. His place was taken by Charley Deal, an inexperienced youth.

Deal scored the only run of the second game and fielded errorless ball during the season.

While it is very probable that Weaver will get into the world series, if the Sox get in, McMullin has been playing the kind of ball which would carry him through with flying honors, should he be called upon to play.

RED SOX PUT TO BIG TEST ON LAST WESTERN TOUR

The mettle of the Red Sox is just about ready to be put to its real test of the season.

The next ten days probably will tell whether or not Jack Barry can hope to guide his crew to its third successive pennant.

Last year the Red Sox, after one of the greatest races in American league history invaded the west barely in the lead. The strain was the most tremendous ever put on a ball club. And right there they won the pennant, winning from both the White Sox and Tigers, their closest rivals.

Practically the same situation confronts the Bostonese now.

They must meet the same teams they turned back last year and the results of the year depend upon what they can do at Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

If they can go back to the east in the lead it will be a tremendous boost for their pennant chances.

Should they be turned back by these clubs, however, the White Sox will remain favorites.

One thing Jack Barry has to consider this year—his club is not up to the standard of the 1916 aggregation. His pitchers are not doing so well as they did last year, and his second stringers are not up to the job of turning back heavy hitting clubs.

Nevertheless the Red Sox are playing the same type of ball, refusing to crack under any strain and making the breaks for themselves.

IF YOU WERE UNCLE SAM WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

HE WAS TENDER HEARTED.

Jamestown, Col., Aug. 16.—Dudley Harmon, village beau, told examiners he'd just love to be a soldier for Uncle Sam, but was afraid he wouldn't make a good one, so he asked exemption. He said once his sister cut her finger with her manicure scissors and the sight of blood made him fall in a faint. He wanted to know how he'd ever stand the sight of buckets of blood.

NOBODY LOVED HIM.

Summerton, Tenn., Aug. 16.—John Cramer, this town's rich young banker, claimed exemption from army service on the grounds that if he went away there would be nobody to clip his coupons, nobody to collect the interest on his bonds, nobody to spend his income and, he being without relatives, nobody to collect his life insurance if he got killed. He couldn't see how he could serve.

JUST COLD HANDS.

Cloverleaf, Kan., Aug. 16.—The army will lose a husky fighter if Dan Brown has his way. He claims exemption on the ground that his fingers get cold in winter unless he wears mittens in the army. Dan says his feet are all right; it's only his hands that bother.

NO BRACER, NO FIGHTER.

Buckhorn, Minn., Aug. 16.—Lars Larson, called for examination for the new army, claimed exemption, though he had no dependents and is physically fit. He said he had been accustomed to one pint of tanglefoot per day and if he didn't get it he wouldn't soldier for anybody. He was told the army might find some other and less liquid kind of bracer for him. Lars is dubious.

OUTSIDE OF THAT, ETC.

Tinker's Crossing, Md., Aug. 16.—

Clarence Clymer was one of the first called for army examination here. He said he couldn't serve because he had eight teeth gone, flat feet, only one lung, a mortgage to pay and a poor appetite—and besides that, if he left there would be no one to take candy to his best girl every Saturday night. Members of the board took up a collection for him and turned him loose with compassion.

NOBODY HOME ANYHOW.

Lunaville, N. H., Aug. 16.—When George Perkins was called before the army examining board he promptly claimed exemption on novel grounds. He said if he was taken into the army there would be nobody home to put the cat out at night. George said the family couldn't dispense with the cat because it was an old-timer in the family and so, he allowed, Uncle Sam would have to do without him.

AMERICAN TROOPS TO RUSSIA VIA PACIFIC

Lieutenant Eben E. Lane Is of the Opinion That This Will Be Done.

That American troops will in the near future be sent to the eastern front of the great battlefields in Russia, via the Pacific, is the belief expressed by Eben E. Lane, son of Charles R. Lane, who is visiting his parents.

The young man received a commission as second lieutenant in the quartermaster's department in California. He is awaiting orders to report at the new cantonment at Lake American at the foot of Mount Ranier in the state of Washington.

The new camp which is near Tacoma, will be built for the accommodation and training of 40,000 men.

Pro-Germans From America Defame Uncle Sam to Russian Workmen

really go out to shoot your brother that loves you so?

They Spread It Thick Over Russia.

This did an immense amount of harm. They spread the flub-dub thick over all Russia, and millions there were that fell for it. The Germans own newspapers, presses, news bureaus, distributing agencies, men, women and machines in every part of Russia. They made the country resound with the agitation for peace and good will to murderers.

I will give you an illustration. There is in Petrograd a great level sandy plain called the Field of Mars, formerly the drill and parade ground for soldiers. It is now the free speech exchange and mammoth safety valve for all the oratory and hot air in Russia. On any Sunday you can find there from 50 to 100 meetings in full blast, orators splitting the innocent air with fiery darts of eloquence and thousands of amateurs getting from their chests the thoughts that have oppressed them these many years.

There, also, I have seen the German agents at work by the scores, going from meeting to meeting, preaching sedition and the lovely traits of the men that put Edith Cavell to death.

"Why should we fight the Germans?" is the burden of their song. "The German workingmen are our brothers. Let us make war against the capitalists in all nations, but let the Russian workingmen and the German workingmen be a band of brothers together. We have shed enough blood for the capitalists that made this war merely for their own profits. Let us throw down our arms and refuse to fight any longer against our brethren."

Defame Uncle Sam in Russia.

About one-half of the men that were talking this were former residents of America, persons with American citizen papers and American passports, and the particular delight of these was to defame the United States, cover it with slanders and lies and warn Russians against looking upon it as a democracy.

"The common people in America are worse off and more oppressed than you ever were under the czar," is a favorite declaration of these persons, followed by: "I am an American and I ough to know."

The United States and Great Britain would then be blamed for the war and the food shortage, the high prices of necessities and the lack of coal.

This kind of thing incessantly repeated by thousands of adroit speakers and scattered by the millions in pamphlets, posters and newspapers was certain to have a profound effect.

The casualties of the Russians under their incompetent, dishonest imperial government of thieves and grafters had been 7,000,000. No wonder a skillfully prepared peace profram looked good to the rest.

At the same time the German agents were turning a trick on the battle front that for audacity and devilitry has not been equalled anywhere.

Why the Russian Army Blew Up.

The Russian soldiers, of course, shared in the universal rejoicing when the old corrupt government fell.

The Germans now appealed to them with handbills and circulars declaring that the first result of the revolution was to be the division of all the land in Russia among the peasants and workers, but as the division would be made at once every peasant must hasten home or he would not receive his share. Some of these announcements had a semi-official appearance and all seemed to be authentic.

As soon as the news ran along the trenches whole regiments threw down their arms and bolted for home. The railroads were speedily packed and congested with a vast horde scrambling frantically to get into range for all these good things.

For weeks every train moving from the front was a spectacle the like of which has never been seen on this earth. Men rode on brake beams, couplers, air pipes, door steps and the roofs of cars. Hundreds fell off and were killed.

When they had made their way home they found, of course, that there was no distribution of land, and not likely to be one.

It was this exodus, purely the work of German agents, that figured in the dispatches as the "wholesale desertions on the battle front." It shattered discipline, scooped the inside from some of the lines and paralyzed military operations. Altogether it was worth more to the czar than a victory on the field and almost as much as a pacifist speech from a Yellow Streak in the United States senate.

Free Speech, Free Press in Muscovy.

You will want to know why the government tolerated these naturalized Americans that were active disseminators of treason, the German press agents on the front and the rest of this perilous scullduggery.

The answer is that with the coming of the revolution, speech and the press became absolutely free in Russia and at first this was supposed to include freedom to overturn the government and betray the country to Germany, if anyone so desired.

The wise men of Russia have learned better since. They have learned or are learning that when democracy is fighting for its life with a power like Germany, remorseless, ruthless, savage and cunning, bent upon absolute domination of the world, all other considerations must for the time being wait upon the supreme necessity of rescuing liberty.

It is a wholesome lesson. We might take some wads of it in the United State.

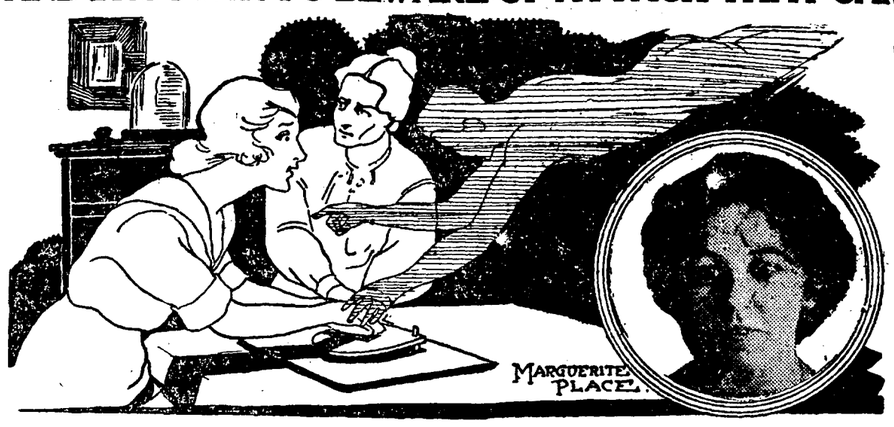
WITH GHOST AS A BODYGUARD WOMEN ARE WARNED BY SPIRIT OF DEAD SON AND BROTHER TO BEWARE OF ATTACK THAT CAME

Gives Alarm by Ouija Board as Man Hides Under Bed, Powerless to Prevent Warning.



(Staff Special.)

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 20.—Hire a ghost to warn you of danger and guard you from injury!

A spirit protector, speaking through the ouija board, warned two Evansville women against a man's attack. The intruder lay three feet away, under their bed, and listened to the alarm message he was powerless to prevent.

The Evansville ghost expects to prove his existence in court of law. He will not remain a creature of hearsay, to be believed in or scoffed at according to whether men are credulous or sceptical about the reality of the spirit world.

And all Evansville asks this:

"What kind of a witness will a ghost make when the ouija board puts in its first recorded appearance in court?"

Mrs. Martha Place and her daughter, Margaret, 811 John street, lonely, took up their ouija board—to find they were not as much alone as they had thought.

"Look out for Nat and Barb," spelled the board.

A breeze blew back the curtain of the bedroom where the women sat.

"It's a little cooler," said Mrs. Place to her daughter.

The curtains, as they billowed in, touched the bed beneath which lay the man. He held his breath as he heard the ghost messenger warn the two women against him.

"Is this Henry?" Mrs. Place asked the board,

"Yes! Look out for Nat and Barb!" repeated the board.

Henry is a son of Mrs. Place, electrocuted ten years ago.

"I have told you before, Henry," said Mrs. Place, shaking a reproving finger at the tripod which had spelled out the warning message by darting from one letter of the alphabet to another, "not to talk that way about the Moxleys." Nathanial and Barbara Moxley, living across the street, were the "Nat and Barb," of the ghostly warning.

The board would say nothing further, except repetitions of its ghostly alarm.

The two women put the board away and went to bed.

Mrs. Place heard a noise, like a scratching on the matting under the bed. It was the cat, she and her daughter thought.

Again Mrs. Place heard the noise. It was not the cat. She leaped from bed and ran into the kitchen for a match. Margaret screamed. There was the sound of a body falling.

"I ran back toward the bedroom," Mrs. Place told the police later. "A man dashed past me through the kitchen into the garden. I followed. It was Nathanial Moxley.

"We found a paper on the floor. He must have dropped it crawling from beneath the bed. It was a summons to Nathanial Moxley to appear in court as witness in a divirce case. We gave it to the police. They arrested him.

"When everything was quiet we took out the ouija board again.

"'I told you to look out for Nat and Barb,' Henry spelled. And there the man was, under the bed within reach, while we were warned."

Nathanial Moxley has been bound over to the grand jury.

If the ouija board is asked to be new era in court procedure will be exhibit A in the grand jury room a ushered in.

The cross-examination of a ghost is a judicial novelty.

HERE'S HOW OUIJA BOARD OPERATES.

A ouija board is a rectangular board about a foot and a half by two feet which like a checker board may be held on the laps of two people seated opposite each other with knees together, or may be rested on a table.

The board bears the letters of the alphabet, the words "yes" and "no" and several other signs.

A small tripod, shaped like a flatiron, supported on three legs, spells out messages by moving from letter to letter when the fingers of the couple operating the board are rested lightly upon the tripod.

The GOOD LITTLE FIGHTING MAN

Johnny Kilbane's Victory Over Freddie Welsh Proves Day of Undersized, but Game, Boxer Has Not Passed.

BY J. B. SHERIDAN.

THE recent victory of Johnny Kilbane, featherweight boxer, over Frederick Welsh, lightweight, renews the old contention of "a good little man" being good enough to beat anyone. Theoretically, Kilbane is 11 pounds lighter than Welsh, or 122 pounds to 133 pounds, these figures being the limit in their respective classes. Eleven pounds makes a vast difference at the lighter weights. While it means less among heavyweights, it does mean a lot to men under 150 pounds. Yet there have been instances without number in which the holder of a lighter championship has been capable of beating the holder of one or two classes above.

Going back to the old days, Jack Belcher, who fought in England about 1780, was rated as good a man as his brother Jim, a crack heavyweight. Jack Belcher was but a 133-pound man. Experts of the day held that though Jim Belcher was a star at 165 pounds, Brother Jack, 133 pounds, was quite as good a man. Nat Langham, a delicate middleweight, who died in early life of tuberculosis, defeated Tom Sayers, a heavyweight, who held the famous 200-pound Heenan, the "Benecia Boy," to a draw. Sayers was not a heavy man. He weighed about 160 pounds, yet was so good in his day that his weight was accepted as a standard.

Sayers' success gave birth to the saying that a good 160-pound man was big enough to beat a man of any size. While there has been a disposition to question this ancient shibboleth of the ring since the advent of the monstrous Jeffries, Johnson, Willard, Morris, et al., the case of Fitzsimmons, the greatest fighter that ever lived, goes a long way to prove that the old boxing experts were not far wrong when they set 165 pounds as a safe standard for heavyweights.

Fitzsimmons could fight strong at that weight; indeed, it is doubtful that he ever weighed any more in the ring. It is true that Jeffries did beat Fitzsimmons, but it was Jeffries' odd crouch, not his weight, that won for him against the "Dingo Farrier."

Sheer weight alone rarely has won a championship battle. A man must have superior skill as well as weight. Jeffries was rated not overly skillful. It is true that he was not a showy boxer, nor the possessor of a lot of tricks. Like the cat, he had one good trick—his crouch. That crouch made him practically invulnerable. The man was unquestionably obfuscated with some soporific used by his seconds for some silly purpose when he was beaten by Johnson. Not that Johnson could not have beaten Jeffries, in any event. He probably could. Yet had Jeffries stuck to his crouch, it is doubtful that Johnson could have whipped him with the same consummate ease.

Jack Randall a Good One.

While the behemoths have always been in the ring, the little chaps have often beaten, or have been quite capable of beating, the giants. Jack Randall, lightweight of the early nineteenth century, was good enough to beat the best heavyweights of his day. Dick Burke, when lightweight champion of England, was deemed a better man than Jem Smith, the heavyweight champion who fought Jake Kilrain to a draw in 1887. If memory serves me aright, Burge did beat Smith, though I am not clear on this point. I do know, however, that many good judges fancied that Burge could lick Smith, who was rather what is known in America as a "shine" champion.

Coming down to modern times, we find that Jack Dempsey was quite capable of beating the best man in the middleweight class. Dempsey never was better than a 142-pound man. Yet he beat a string of good middleweights and became middleweight champion, though he never weighed more than 149 pounds in the ring. He gave away from 10 to 15 pounds in many of his fights, gave them away to the best men, bar himself, in the middleweight class. Dempsey also boxed many a good heavyweight in his day. It is in my mind, too, that he could have beaten Sullivan had he not been impressed with the common idea of Sullivan's unconquerable greatness.

Dempsey weighed but 147½ pounds when he lost the middleweight championship to Fitzsimmons. The New Zealander was something new in the way of middleweights. Prior to his time, the middle-class chaps averaged about 5 feet 7 inches in height. Fitzsimmons was a freak. He was 6 feet 1 inch tall and could weigh around 150 pounds. All his weight was in his huge shoulders and arms. His head, the heaviest portion of a man's anatomy, was ridiculously small.

It has been estimated that the smallness of Fitzsimmons' head alone saved him 6 pounds. Then he was very slender from the belt down. In a word, Fitzsimmons was not so much a man as a freak, designed to meet all requirements of Queensbury rules. Had the old marquis made plans and specifications for a man especially designed to take advantage of his rules, he could not have designed so perfect a machine for his purposes as Robert Fitzsimmons of Elston, Cornwall, England, and Timaru, New Zealand.

Dempsey First a Wrestler.

Dempsey was the sweetest of the sweet, the bravest of the brave. A charming, quiet, modest fellow, he feared no man. Dempsey was a perfectly proportioned little chap, 5 feet 7 inches tall, well developed everywhere, a little Apollo. A wrestler before he became a boxer, he was rounded out at all physical points. He was a corking two-handed boxer, stylish, clean, a cutting hitter, but never aggressive nor cruel. His good nature made Dempsey a gentleman, not a perfectly tempered fighting man. He fought coolly, quietly, as he might cooper a barrel—his other trade. He never became angry; no one ever heard him speak illy of anyone. He defeated scores of good middleweights when he was really a welterweight.

Dempsey was so good that Tommy Ryan, then welterweight champion and a very great fighter, would not have any of his game. Withal, I believe that a few years later Ryan, who became a middleweight, was a better fighter than Dempsey ever was. Ryan was much like Dempsey in build, the same height, a little heavier, strong everywhere. Ryan had a perfect fighting temper. He was the essence of effectiveness, of cruelty in the ring. I have always held that Tommy Ryan was the greatest two-handed punisher the ring ever saw. I have seen him deliberately torture opponents by cutting, bruising, hitting, slowly beat them into a torpor, when he might have mercifully put them out of their miseries with one punch. Ryan's disposition was suited to a fighter much better than Dempsey's was.

I think now that Dempsey could have beaten Sullivan after Sully started down in 1887. Dempsey lost to Fitzsimmons in 1890. As set forth above, Fitzsimmons set a new fashion in middleweights. Prior to his time they were usually under 5 feet 9 inches in height. Fitzsimmons and the Australian, Hall, made the middleweight, though, over 6 feet tall. Hall, I believe, had trouble doing better than 160 pounds, when he met Fitzsimmons at New Orleans about 1891. Fitz never had any trouble making middleweight. He could do 154 pounds any time when in his prime.

They say that the very appearance of Fitzsimmons, a heavyweight to all intents and purposes, astonished little welterweight Dempsey when he first saw him at New Orleans. Dempsey had never seen Fitzsimmons until the ruby one stepped into the ring. Then he gasped. He gave Fitz a game fight. That's all. He never got near the Cornishman. Fitz begged him to throw up the sponge. Heartbroken, for he was a proud man, Dempsey refused.

"You'll have to knock me out, Bob," he said. "I won't quit."

Dempsey was really killed that night in New Orleans. His pride was broken. From that day he declined into his rose-covered grave at Portland, Ore., far from his native cove of Cork.

Sullivan Had One Blow.

If there be any doubt about the ability of Dempsey to whip Sullivan, there can be no doubt about the entire capability of Fitzsimmons to dethrone the big Bostonian. Fitzsimmons could have whipped John L. in a punch the best day Sully ever saw. Sullivan did have a great right swing. He could knock out any man he could hit. Fitzsimmons had ten blows, swings, hooks, straight punches, uppercuts, inside crosses, body blows, with left or right, each one of which was more effective than Sullivan's mighty right swing.

Sullivan never could box. He had one blow, that right swing. His plan of battle was to scare an opponent with a beetling brow and a great reputation; rush, tear down his guard with the left hand and swing the right hand for the jaw. That was all that Sully knew about boxing or fighting. He would have been to Fitzsimmons what Terry McGovern was to Young Corbett—a mark.

McGovern was always a cinch for any good boy who would stem his wild tattoo of blows with the left arm and then cut in with a right punch to the jaw. That is what Corbett did.

The Denverite was a cool card, quite undismayed by McGovern's great reputation. He let Terry rush, covered up his chin with the left forearm, bided his time, set himself and knocked McGovern out with a right to the jaw.

Fitzsimmons would have beaten Sullivan in ten ways, with any punch he chose, with either hand. Sullivan was rated a tremendous puncher. He did have a powerful right swing. But it is much more difficult to make a swing count than it is to make a hook or a straight punch or a good cross-counter, which is a hook, or an uppercut or a solar plexus wallop, count.

Ryan and McCoy.

The swing covers a wider orbit. An opponent has much better chance to see and slip it than he has to avoid a hook or straight punch. Any time the head turns with the swings the blow loses power. Of ten swings, nine will fail to do vital injury. On the other hand, Fitzsimmons rarely wasted a blow. His sure, snappy cracks were as effective as Sullivan's wild swings. Then Fitzsimmons was uncannily clever in his careless, slouching way. No use in talking about it, Fizsimmons was the greatest fighting man that ever pulled on gloves. Jack Johnson was bigger, cleverer and probably could have beaten Fitz when the latter was at his best, but Johnson did not have the fighting instinct of Fitzsimmons. No man of the ring ever did have such fighting instinct as the Cornishman. He had an uncanny sense of "when" and "how" to do it, when the "break" was coming and how to force it to come.

Yes, there is no doubt that Fitzsimmons could have whipped Sullivan when Fitz was middleweight and Sullivan heavyweight champion. Fitzsimmons had no vision. He was managed by men who did not have vision enough to see him whipping John L. He could have done it as easily as he whipped Maher.

Tommy Ryan could and did whip good men who were two classes heavier than he was. He beat Jack Bonner, the "Coffee Cooler," and a host of so-called middleweights who really were heavyweights. Ryan was doing 154 pounds then in his street clothes. He could have done 140 with training, but he could not get opponents at the welterweight, and he got plenty of them at middleweight. He never had any trouble with any of the larger men except McCoy, and, I believe, that he and McCoy met at welterweight or close to it. McCoy deceived Ryan into believing that there would not be any fight, that McCoy knew he had no chance and that they would merely stage a good enough fight to get some money. Ryan did not train. McCoy, who had improved vastly since he had been Ryan's sparring partner, outfitted himself fully. He got the verdict over Ryan. He never cared about trying the Hebrew's game again.

I believe that Ryan could have beaten Sullivan, though he was 70 pounds the lighter man and champion of the 140 class, whereas Sullivan was heavyweight champion and weighed 210 pounds.

It goes without saying that Joe Walcott could have beaten many good heavyweights. He twice defeated Joe Choynski, who gave Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons the battles of their young lives. Yet Lavigne, a 133-pound man, beat Walcott, who was a 144-pounder. Walcott was at his best, too. Lavigne also defeated Dick Burge when Burge weighed 147 pounds. This means that Lavigne could have beaten Jem Smith, for, I think, Burge did beat Smith. It also means that Lavigne could have beaten Choynski, the best 165-pound man of his day and the man who gave Corbett and Fitzsimmons all they cared about taking. Corbett beat Sullivan. Does it not all mean that Lavigne might have beaten Sullivan?

Since the advent of Jeffries, Johnson, Willard, Morris and other leviathans, it has been hastily assumed that the "good little man" has no chance any more. This is by no means assured.

There were good big men in the early days of the ring. Sayers' time, Heenan, O'Baldwin, Perry, the "Tipton Slasher," the "Staley Bridge Infant," a man bigger than Willard or Morris. Yet these men met their masters in much smaller fellows. Tommy Burns was the last little man to hold the heavyweight championship of the world. Burns won that through sheer luck. He was not even a "good little man." He was a good all-around athlete, with some superficial knowledge of boxing. It is true that while Jeffries, the first of the giants, did beat Fitzsimmons, the king pin of all "good little men," and that Johnson, another giant, but not so large as the man he conquered, did beat Jeffries, and that Willard, a much larger man, defeated Johnson, that it is most unlikely that Willard, for instance, could have beaten Fitzsimmons when Fitz was good, or that any big man can win merely because of his huge proportions. In other words, the big men must have something besides size.

COMES TO SURFACE AFTER THREE WEEKS

Body of Edward Huber Is Found Floating Near the Spot Where He Sank.

Three weeks after the day of the drowning, the body of Edward Huber, who was drowned in Lake James on July 29, was found floating in the lake Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The corpse was found 100 feet north of the spot where the young man went down and 200 feet from the east bank.

The body was first seen by J. W. Coppock, formerly a night watchman at Bowser's. He hailed Dan Kintz, who was spending Sunday at the lake, and they tied a rope about the body and towed it to shore with a motor boat. The corpse showed signs of having been struck by the grappling hooks during the long search.

Huber was 27 years old and was employed as agent for the Wells-Fargo Express company at the interurban station. He went to the lake with a party of friends on Sunday, July 29. He went out wading, being unable to swim. He disappeared suddenly and it is thought that he got beyond his depth and was unable to make his way back. A long search had been made for the body, divers being sent from Chicago to aid in the search.

Huber was born in Fort Wayne and was educated in the public schools. He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Huber, of 1817 South Harrison street; a brother, George Huber, and two sisters, Mrs. Ray Hutson and Miss Catherine Huber. The body was expected in this city late Monday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, 1817 Harrison street, and at 2:30 o'clock at the Simpson M. E. church. Interment in Lindenwood.

PROBLEM OF MEAT IN U. S.

the war started there has been a total decrease of 115,005,000 in the world's supply of meat producing animals. Cattle increased 7,090,000 in the United States, while the total world decrease was 28,080,000. Sheep decreased 3,000,000 in this country, while the world supply was diminished by 54,500,000. Hogs increased 6,275,000 in America, but the general supply decreased 32,425,000. During the year ending June 30, 1916, America exported 1,339,193,000 pounds of meat, as compared with a three year antebellum average of 493,848,000 pounds. These exports went chiefly to the allies, whose capital stock of animals has decreased 33,000 head.

Why Demand Increases.

"Although the European countries have drastically reduced meat consumption among war workers," says the statement, "this saving has been overcome by the greatly increased demands to supply men in the armies and shops and women who have taken up physical labor. Millions of individuals to whom fresh meat twice a week was a luxury are now, by necessity of their extreme physical labor eating it twice daily.

"The war has injected into an alread ydifficult situation a number of vicious conditons which are jeopardzing the animal products supply of the world. The production of fodder in Europe has been diminished by the diversion of productive labor to war and its import has been curtailed by shortage in shipping and by the isolation of markets by belligerent lines.

Far-Reaching Problem.

"The problem facing America is not only one of supplying the immediate demand of the allies but one which is more far-reaching in its significance, as the war goes on there will be a constant lessening of the capital stock of the world's food animals. Among our western allies the demand outruns further every day the decreasing production, and as shipping becomes further shortened by submarine destruction, further destruction of the herds must ensue.

"The food administration points out that the only immediate solution of the problem lies in reduction of consumption and elimination of waste."

SURCHARGE HEARINGS ON

row's hearing, are Oakpark Water company, Evansville Light company, and Boonville Electric Light and Power company.

Wednesday the same question presented by the following companies will be heard: Martinsville Gas and Electric Light company; Indiana Utilities company, and Wabash Valley Electric company.

The plans for the hearing today was to present the general conditions which apply to all of the majority of the companies and later take up individual questions.

The companies allege that because of higher prices of fuel and other material they should be allowed to place a surcharge on the bills monthly.

HIS HEART WAS TRUE TO BILL

Constantine said in his reply:

"The emperor well knows my personal sympathies, as well as my ploitical opinions attract me to his side. Nevertheless it is impossible for me to understand in what manner I could be useful to him in mobilizing my army. The Mediterranean is at the mercy of the united fleets of England and France, which could destroy our navy and merchant marine, occupy our islands and above all prevent concentration of my army which could be effected only by sea, in the absence of railway communications. Without being in our power to be useful in any particular, we would be wiped off the map. I am necessarily of the opinion that neutrality is imposed upon us."

Gottlieb von Jagow, then foreign secretary, replied that Emperor William would understand the necessity of maintaining neutrality for the present. He advised Constantine to reach an understanding with Sofia and Constantinople.

AUSTRIANS ARE BEATEN, LOSING 7,500 CAPTURED

Guns and many machine guns have been captured by the Italians, and the Austrians have suffered serious losses. The infantry battle continues vigorously.

PERSHING SOON TO FRONT.

American Training in Camp, Aug. 20.—General Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies, yesterday visited Major General John J. Pershing, spending the entire day in the American training area. After the visit General Petain said he was much impressed and convinced that the American troops soon would become an excellent fighting force. General Pershing will proceed to the front soon.

OLD MONASTIR BOMBARDED.

Corfu, Aug. 20.—One quarter of the Serbian city of Monastir has been destroyed by fire caused by a Bulgarian bombardment, the Serbian press bureau announces. The number of victims has not been ascertained.

The statement says that on Saturday the Bulgarians bombarded the city more violently than ever, firing some 2,000 shells. There was no reason for the bombardment as no fighting was in progress. Women and children, who fled in all directions, have been collected and taken to the rear.

NO PAPER EXPORTATIONS.

London, Aug. 20.—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen reports that the Swedish government has prohibited the exportation of news print paper on account of the shortage of timber, coal and sulphur for the manufacture of pulp.

BRITISH DRIVE WILL HELP.

Rome, Sunday, Aug. 19.—Commenting on the new Italian advance the press says, that at this time the British attack in Flanders will be of service if it demonstrates how the people and armies of the allied countries feel toward the premature peace proposals of Pope Benedict. It is said Austria apparently realizes the gravity of the situation as announcement is made that Emperor Charles is soon to visit the Austro-Italian front presumably to encourage his troops. The official Austrian statement of yesterday said the Italians had begun an offensive on a 37-mile front from the region of Tolmino to a point near the Adriatic. The struggle was said to be raging with the greatest bitterness. Yesterday's Italian official statement did not mention the offensive.

GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Berlin, Aug. 20.—The war office announces the French without fighting have occupied the Talou ridge on the Verdun front, east of the Meuse.

At all other places over a front of fourteen and three-eighths miles, the German general staff reports fighting is in full swing. The German high command say that Talou ridge, given up by the Teutons because this line of defense since last March, had only been occupied by outposts.

Forces of the central powers on the Rumanian front have driven back the Rumanians on both sides of the Oituz valley and in the direction of the Trotus valley it was officially announced today by the German war office.

In the fighting in the Oituz valley region the Austro-Germans took 1,500 prisoners and captured thirty machine guns.

Stubborn battles developed at the Marasechti station, on the Sereth river, the Teutons capturing more than 2,200 prisoners.

CANADIANS HOLD FAST.

Canadian Headquarters in France, Aug. 20.—Northwest of Lens amidst the trnches and railway cuttings which form the last line of German defense in that quarter, the Canadians have succeeded in establishing strong posts in a special trench which was the scene of desperate and indecisive fighting two days ago. There new posts give command of the last bit of ground from which the defenders of the city could command the west.

The eastern exits from the city are now subjected to a constant and harassing fire of the artillery and machine guns. This makes the bringing up of provisions and supplies of ammunition very difficult. At 2 'clock this morning a trench raid on the enemy's front northwest of Avion resulted in heavy fighting in the course of which a considerable number were killed in hand to hand fighting.

BOMB GERMAN DEPOTS.

London, Aug. 20.—German military establishments in Belgium which have been repeatedly attacked of late by British airplanes, were again raided Saturday night, the admiralty announces. The statement follows:

"Many tons of bombs were dropped on the night of August 18-19 by the naval air service on the following military objectives: St. Pierre station and sidings at Ghent, Thorout station and dump, Bruges docks.

"A raid was also carried out yesterday morning on the Snellegham airdome, where a direct hit was made on a large shed.

"On their return our machines were attacked by hostile aircraft which were beaten off with the aid of a royal flying corps patrol. One enemy machine was shot down out of control. All ours returned safely."

present wheat growing states, and must be secured by planting more acres, as an increased yield an acre cannot be depended upon with certainty.

During discussion it was brought out that the men interested in stimulating the farmers to plant more wheat and rye would meet with more success if it was announced what the farmer may expect for his product.

The conference was continued this afternoon.

Idaho national guardsmen, on patrol duty here.

Investigation of the individual case of each man was promised today by Major Clement Wilkins, under whose direction the arrests were made. He told the men that any one of them found innocent of trying to hamper the harvest and tie up the industries of the country would be given his freedom. Money amounting to $1,360, taken from the men at the time of their arrest will be returned to them upon their release.

The declaration of Rowan that the effect of his arrest would intensify the tie-up of the industries apparently was not borne out by early reports today from various sections.

The principal object of the lumbermen's strike, according to Rowan, is to bring about an eight hour day and better working conditions. The strike order for today on the agricultural and construction workers, he said, was a protest against the arrest of the members of the organization in various parts of the northwest.

Four hundred miners employed in manganes mines in the Philipsburg district, sixty miles east of Missoula, Mont., are on strike today.

They are demanding $5.50 a day, $10 reduction of the monthly charge for board and recignition of the Metal Mine Workers' union, organized last Friday. According to the sheriff of Granite county, Mont., outsiders, said to be I. W. W. organizers, formed the union.

GOVERNMENT STRIKES BLOW.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 20.—The United States government struck a smashing blow at the Industrial Workers of the World yesterday.

Within a few hours of the time set for the threatened I. W. W. strike among agricultural and construction workers in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, twenty-seven leaders of the "terrorists" were placed in jail here as military prisoners.

President Wilson, it was announced several days ago, was prepared to use his summary war powers to suppress the reign of terror threatened by the I. W. W. The arrests, it was said, were the first move in the government's plan to stop the attempt to tie up or destroy crops and various industries necessary for the prosecution of the war.

Imperils U. S. Food Supply.

The proposed strike, if carried out, would imperil a vast part of the nation's food supplies, tie up mines producing needed metals for war material, and perhaps cripple the great airplane campaign, with which the United States is expected to wrest supremacy of the air from Germany, and ultimately win the war. Lumber workers in four states already are on strike.

James Rowan, district secretary, was the most prominent of the I. W. W. leaders arrested here yesterday. He was taken with twenty-five other leaders in the I. W. W. headquarters here. Rowan had already signed the orders calling on the farm workers to strike today and "let the fruit rot on the ground."

A company of Idaho national guardsmen made the arrests.

"The only effect of my arrest will be to intensify the strike," Rowan said, while he was awaiting his turn to be searched and booked. "I think the strike will spread further now, and probably will affect industries in which no strike has been called. Even though all the officers or employes of the organization are put in jail and all halls closed, arrangements have been made to handle the movement."

Only a vote of the members of the organization can halt the strike, Rowan declared, as there is no one with authority to take such action. The strike order becomes effective today unless I. W. W. members alleged by leaders of the organization to be illegally held in jail, are released by that time.

Take All Men in Hall.

Rowan and William Moran, secretary of the local I. W. W. organization, were arrested by Maj. Clement Wilkins, in command of a battalion of guardsmen on patrol duty here. Meanwhile forty guardsmen, under the command of Capt. F. A. Jeter, rounded up twenty-two other men who were in the I. W. W hall and took them, with Moran, to the county jail.

A squad of guardsmen was left at the executive headquarters and another was stationed at the I. W. W. hall, and the latter arrested three other men who went to the hall later and took them to the jail. Orders were then issued that no one should be permitted to enter the hall, but that no more arrests of persons seeking to enter should be made.

None of the men arrested offered any resistance. The prisoners were lined up in double column, between files of the guardsmen with fixed bayonets, and marched half a mile to the jail. Here they were searched and their names were taken and they were placed in cells on an upper floor of the building.

"You men are military prisoners and are not detained under civil law," Maj. Wilkins told the men after they had been lined up in the jail.

"An investigation of your cases will be begun tomorrow, and if it is found that any of you are wrongfully held you will be released."

PLEAD GUILTY; GO TO PRISON

Members of New York Draft Board 99 Admit They Were Crooked.

THREE CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Received Money for Exempting Men From the Law of the Draft.

New York, Aug. 20.—Dr. S. J. Bernfeld and Louis I. Cherry, indicted members of exemption board 99, today entered pleas of guilty to charge of conspiracy to obstruct the draft law when they were about to be placed on trial. They were sentenced to two years each in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Kalman Gruher, not a member of the board, but indicted with them on the same charge, elected to stand trial.

The specific count in th eindictment for conspiracy to which Gernfeld and Cherry pleaded guilty, charged them with accepting a bribe of $300 from a registrant to exempt. It was disclosed, however, the assistant district attorney stated, that the defendants had accepted $3,000 in bribe money. He told the court they had paid back a portion of the money and had primised to make good the balance as soon as possible.

CHICAGO AND BOSTON WILL FIGHT IT OUT

Double-Header Today Will Have Bearing on Pennant Race.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The Chicago and Boston American teams will meet today in a double-header, the first game in an important four-game series. Much depends on this series as the clubs have been running a neck and neck race. Boston has fortyt-wo games on its schedule to be played, while Chicago has only thirty-eight. Boston will end the season at home while Chicago will finish on the road.

The easterners seem to have the edge on the local club as to pitchers for the series.

The present standing of the leaders:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Chicago	72	44	.621
Boston	68	44	.607

In the event of Chicago winning both games today the standing would be:

Chicago	74	44	.627
Boston	68	46	.600

THE MARKETS

OATS MARKET GROWS STEADILY WEAKER

Receipt of New Grain Has Depressing Effect—Wheat Steady.

Further recessions were noted in the oats market Monday morning, the prices receding from the top mark of 70 cents on Saturday to a maximum of 65 cents on Monday, with the new oats selling for 60 cents per bushel. Five loads of the old oats were weighed on the city scales Monday morning, selling for 65 cents per bushel.

Receipts were light on most markets, the corn receipts being entirely nil. New hay was strong, thirteen loads selling at the city scales for $12 to $1 per ton. Two loads of the old hay were sold at the old price of $15.

Wheat remained practically stationary, one miller quoting a price of $2 per bushel and another $2.04.

GROWING WEATHER SENDS CORN LOWER

Market Sloughs Off on Reports of Prospect—No Wheat Trading.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Continuance of good receipts from the fields where corn is ripening was reflected today in corn prices which opened lower. Opening prices, which ranged from ½c to 1⅝c lower with December at $1.07⅞ to $1.07⅝ and May at $1.04 to $1.05, were followed by slight rallies which however failed to last. Trading in wheat was entirely absent.

The close was strong, ¼c to 1¼c net higher, with December at $1.08¾ to $1.08⅞ and May a t$1.07 to $1.07⅛.

The close was easy at $2.05, a net advance of 3c over Saturday's finish.

Probability of big yields of oats gave weight to selling pressure though prices hovered around Saturday's closing figures.

Provisions governed by hog prices which touched a new high point today, showed moderate advances.

WALL STREET OPENS NEW WEEK UNSTEADILY

Dullness and Irregularity of Prices Mark the Day's Trading.

New York, Aug. 20.—Trading at the outset of today's session suggested a continuance of last week's extreme dullness, the irregular price changes were registered.

Shippings, tobaccos, oils and a few specialties were fractionally higher, but steels and equipments became increasingly reactionary with coppers.

Coalers led the active list to lower levels during the first hour. Reading and most others of that division extended early losses and New York Central and Northern Pacific averaged recessions of a point. The trend of industrials, metals and specialties was indicated by United States Steel which reacted a point from its best. Substantial rallies set in at noon, steels and shippings being the strongest features. Liberty bonds were quoted at 99.90 to 99.96.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY'S WAR NEWS

For several days the French have been conducting a terrific bombardment of the German lines.

The official German announcement records withdrawal of the Germans from Talou ridge, on the front north of Verdun, without fighting. The reason given is that since March this height has been occupied only by outposts. Elsewhere on this section of the line the report says heavy fighting is in progress.

In the north the Germans made a counter-attack on the positions taken yesterday by the British near Epehy. London reports that the assault was repulsed completely. The British line in Ypres front has been advanced slightly.

The Italians have won a brilliant success in the opening phase of their new offensive, begun yesterday on a 37-mile front from the region of Tolemino to a point near the Adriatic. Rome reports officially that the Italians have taken 7,500 prisoners. A new crossing of the Isonzo river has been forced.

Another great aerial raid over Belgium was made by British airplanes on Saturday night. Many tons of bombs were dropped on various objectives. The British airplanes returned safely after a battle with German machines, one of which was shot down.

Further successes on the Rumanian front are announced by the Germans. In the Oituz valley region the Russians are said to have been driven back, losing more than 1,500 men in prisoners and thirty machine guns. On the western bank of the Sereth Beerlin announces more than 220 prisoners were taken.

power for the destroyers were given close attention. The possibility of making some of the new vessels with oil engines was among the suggestions offered. As to the plants at which the new destroyers will be laid down, Secretary Daniels said he favored expansion of the plants now building destroyers as the most efficient means of speeding up. Experience gained in previous building will enable such plant sto turn out new ships more quickly it is felt than would be possible for a new plant lacking that experience. Secretary Daniels' decision shows that the officers, who have contended that the best answer to the U-boat was to turn out an enormous number of destroyers carried their point.

Experience Proves Destroyer.

The experience of all allied navies is that the destroyer is more deadly to the submarine than other craft is borne out from reports from Vice Admiral Sims, founded on the actual experience of American destroyers in European waters.

Another aspect is the problem of furnishing convoys to troops and supply ships which will grow as American forces in France are increased. Many officers now believe that destroyers enjoy a larger degree of security from submarine attacks. The department apparently has approved this view.

No figures have even been made public of the number of destroyers now building. Secretary Daniels said today, however, that they represented the maximum capacity. To expand that capacity will require the expansion of every existing plant and the addition of new engine and boiler works.

SOLONIKA DESTROYED.

London, Aug. 20.—More than half the walled city of Saloniki, in Greek Macedonia, which is under occupation by the entente allied troops, was destroyed by fire on Sunday. Eighty thousand people, who were rendered homeless, were being removed to neighboring villages [illegible] according to a dispatch received [illegible] Fire, the [illegible]

GRAND LEADER

WEARS FACE LIKE SECRETARY'S SON

Mysterious Stranger Gets Coin in Washington as Young Daniels.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The mysterious stranger passing himself off on naval officers and others as a son of Secretary Daniels has obtained numerous sums of money and today has eluded capture. The navy department issued a warning today against the impostor. According to the department's announcement the first occasion was July 9, when the impostor introduced himself to the officers of the receiving ship at the New York naval yard and was invited to luncheon. He said he had lost about $47 and succeeded in borrowing from the ship's paymaster $20, furnishing a regular navy receipt which he signed, "Herbert J. Daniels." On July 15 the same man called on the principal of the Montclair, N. J., academy, introducing himself as Frank Daniels, a son of the secretary, and said he had been commissioned by Rear Admiral Usher, of the New York navy yard, to arrange for an encampment at the campus for 200 sailors.

He also desired to visit Thomas A. Edison at his laboratory, N. J., and this was arranged through Dr. M. Rees Hutchison, Mr. Edison's confidential man, who first took the stranger to his own home for luncheon and then to the inventor's laboratory. The navy department says that Dr. Hutchison lost $250 in cash by taking the stranger's check. When Dr. Hutchison came to Washington he handed to Secretary Daniels a letter from his "son" and the fraud was disclosed.

In the meanttime the imposter had called at Dr. Hutchison's home in Orange, N. J., saying he was going to stay there a week. He borrowed a camera from the butler and then proceeded to the Edison storage battery plant where he got $30 fro mthe superintendent on a bad check.

VAST STRIKE OF METAL WORKERS IS THREATENED

New York, Aug. 20.—Labor leaders in charge of the strike in shipyards of the New York district today asserted that 250,000 metal workers in various parts of the country would be asked to declare a sympathetic strike unless a settlement is reached today. A meeting of labor leaders to be held in Tammany hall tomorrow is expected to take formal action seeking to extend the strike, it was said.

Louis Weyand, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, declared that his union was in the fight either to win or lose everything and that the men would keep up the struggle as long as the employers did.

SPEED DEMON CLAIMS FOUR MORE VICTIMS

Young People Are Injured in Auto Smash on the Bluffton Road.

Four more victims have been added to the long list of the speed demon. Four young people of this city were injured on the Bluffton road Sunday evening at 9:45 o'clock when an automobile containing the four people and driven by Russel Foughty, of 727 Green street, crashed into each other.

Foughty reported the accident to the police and was arrested on a charge of speeding. The other car bore the license number B-2119 Indiana and had a monogram of H. W. B. B. It is believed this car was from Indianapolis. A charge of failure to report an accident may be filed against them.

The injured people are Meto Heller, 1226 Bowser avenue; Gladys Yates, 19 First street, and Marie Lehman, 1134 Hillside avenue, in addition to the driver. The Fort Wayne auto is believed to be a jitney bus. The party had been to Fort Benjamin Harrison to visit friends in Batteries B and D of Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferrell and Dr. C. E. McCready, of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Millican, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Grannis, of Lynn, this state, and Miss Rae Uhrig, of this city, have returned to their respective homes after a week's outing at Lake James.

A NEW HINT FOR SAVING.

Do you throw away "ham gravy" or bacon fat, Madam Housewife, because it is too greasy for ordinary use?

Here is a way suggested by the United States department of agriculture to make it blend into soups or gravies instead of floating as a greasy layer on top.

Stir into each two tablespoonfuls of melted grease one-half tablespoonful of flour. The miture will blend easly into milk soups, stock soups, sauces or gravies and give an appetizing flavor.

TIDAL WAVE SWEEPS ALASKA TAKING LIFE

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 20.—News reached here today with the arrival of the body of one victim of a tidal wave in Taku inlet last Thursday which may have claimed the lives of several persons besides doing considerable damage to the fishing fleet.

The wave was said to be due to the breaking of a huge dead glacier and a cave-in from a live glacier. No such ice disturbances are known to have taken place here and it is feared that many other of the fishing boats and their crews were lost. It is believed by many here that the series of earthquakes which traversed the Alaska coast early in July of this year were partly responsible for the upheaval.

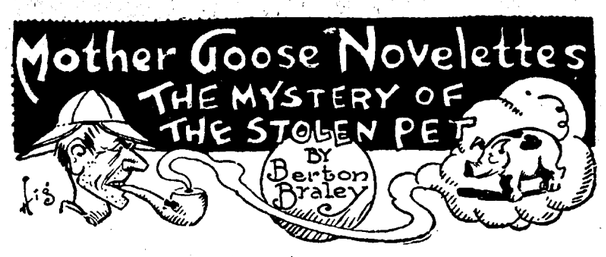
THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN



CHAPTER I.

"Mr. Holmes," the visitor began, "I come to tell you—"

Sherlock Holmes laid down his knife and fork with which he had been vigorously attacking a fillet of cocaine with heroin sauce.

"You have had your pet pig stolen," he remarked, calmly.

The visitor, an old gray-haired man, looked astonished.

"How did I know it?" said Holmes, "elemental, my dear sir, elemental. Your agitation told me you had lost something. Now there are 17,893 kinds of agitation, all of which I have catalogued in my monograph on the subject. By the psychoanalytic test of LeNoir, which you can read in my four volume treatise published by Ducton and Company, $8 net; I know it is agitation caused by a loss that is personal rather than intrinsic. Hence you have lost some object of affection. I know it is animate rather than inanimate because of the trembling of your third finger. I know it is a pig because there is bristle on your trouser leg where it has been rubbing against you, and it must be a pet or you wouldn't let it be so affectionate."

"Marvelous," said Dr. Watson.

CHAPTER II.

"You shall have your pig in your arms within twenty-four hours," Holmes promised, and turned to his cocaine again.

"Thank you, Mr. Holmes," said the visitor, "that pig is very dear to me. It is like one of the family."

"Ah yes, ah yes," said Holmes, "which one?"

CHAPTER III.

"Watson," said Holmes, "go down to 112 Sontag street and get that pig from Tom Noyse, the son of Sandy Noyse, the Scotch bag piper. He has it."

"How do you know that?" demanded Dr. Watson.

"Deduction, of course," responded Holmes, impatiently. "I just happened to know that Sandy Noyse, the piper, is ill. Too ill to pipe. So far luck enters into the case. Being ill, Sandy can't pipe and Tom, his son, never could pipe. Sandy, missing his favorite diversion, is growing steadily worse. There are no pipers in town, so what does Tom do? He must entertain his father. So he rushes down the street, sees the pet pig in our client's front yard and has a hunch. He grabs the pig and runs home with it. Why? Because he knows that by squeezing the pig he will cause it to emit the only sounds there are which resemble the Scotch bag pipes. Simple, isn't it?"

"Marvelous," said Dr. Watson.

CHAPTER IV.

It was a week later that the visitor came to Sherlock Holmes' office and tearfully thanked the great detective. "But, Mr. Holmes," he said, "I want to reward that poor boy, Tom, the piper's son.

"He has made our everlasting fortunes, and I do not think he should languish in jail. You see, after Dr. Watson brought the pig home we found he squealed—the pig, not Dr. Watson—in tune. His repertoire included the Blue Bells of Scotland, Auld Lang Syne and The Campbells Are Coming and he's now on the Orpheum circuit drawing down a thousand a week. But we want Tom out to teach him some more tunes."

"Marvelous," said Dr. Watson.

THREE INJURED IN TRACTION WRECK

Misunderstood Orders Believed to Be Cause of Accident.

Although the traction officials have not as yet placed the blame for the collision on the Bluffton division of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company Saturday night, in which three persons were injured, it is thought that misunderstood orders were the cause. The crew of the passenger car was changed at Sheldon, and it is thought that the order to pass the freight car at Villa was misunderstood by the new crew. The cars met head-on a half mile north of Bluffton.

The injured are:

Mrs. Nan Fink, of Bluffton, ligaments in neck and shoulder torn.

S. D. Stubblefield, Indianapolis, express messenger, cut back of left ear and many bruises.

J. H. Tookey, of Muncie, legs and back bruised and spine wrenched.

The front vestibule of both cars was crushed, and had not the motormen of both cars jumped they would probably have met instant death. In charge of the freight car were Conductor Brown and Motorman Roy Shields, both of Bluffton. The passenger car, when it left Fort Wayne, was in charge of Conductor D. H. Crone and Motorman Edward Summers. After the change of crews at Sheldon the passenger car was in charge of Conductor Grover Dovee and Motorman R. S. Etters.

When Motorman Shields saw the passenger car approaching he brought his car to a stop, but the passenger car could not be stopped in time to avoid a collision. Both cars were put out of commission and travel delayed for several hours.

General Manager S. W. Greenland, of the Traction company, was out of the city Monday and officials have no statement to make in regard to fixing responsibility for the accident.

FIVE APPLICANTS FOR NAVAL SERVICE TODAY

Interest in Naval Recruiting Appears to Be Increasing

Interest in naval recruting appeared to be greatly increased Monday when five young men, all of whom live out of Fort Wayne, but who have been working here, made application to join the navy as apprentice seamen.

The young men who would enlist are William A. Laughlin, of Connersville; Harry Laughlin, of Connersville; Phillip E. Dentzer, of Claypool; Floyd N. Edwards, of Roanoke; William B. Dunlap, of Auburn.

In response to many inquiries, it is stated by the local recruiting officer, A. G. Kaftan, chief electrician, that the navy is not yet full, but that there is a big demand for radio men, cooks and bakers.

UNITED STATES TO BUILD DESTROYERS IN GREAT SWARMS

EVERY RESOURCE OF COUNTRY ENLISTED

Washington, Aug. 20.—Immediate expansion of building facilities of the United States to double or treble the output of destroyers during the next eighteen months was the object of a conference today between Secretary Daniels and representatives of twenty-five or more ship and engine builders. "If we get what we want," the secretary said, "the United States will have more destroyers than any other power. They are the one thing that a submarine fears."

The secretary indicated that all the destroyers the builders could produce would be ordered. Every effort of the department will be laid upon speeding up the large number of contracts pending. Every aspect of ship building that bears upon destroyer production was taken up at the conference.

There is no shortage of material or plant facilities but a difficulty lies in obtaining high-power engines, boilers and reduction gear.

To Build No More Chasers.

Secretary Daniels said no additional submarine chasers would be ordered at present.

The chasers are valuable for harbor and in-shore patrol work, but the destroyers are far superior even for these duties and have in addition sea-going qualities which make of them far greater value in all ways than the small chasers. Every suggestion that the ships or engine builders had to make today as to additional motive

LEADERS OF THE CULT YET IN JAIL

Rowan and Quarter Hundred of His Plotters Are Nabbed by the Militia.

Spokane, Wash, Aug. 20.—A general strike of the Industrial Workers of the World called as a protest against holding its members in jail without bail supposed to begin today in Montana, Washington, Idaho and Oregon, did not get a good start, according to reports received here.

James Rowan, district secretary of the I. W. W., in the far northwestern states, and twenty-six others, who were arrested here yesterday by national guardsmen, remained in the county jail as military prisoners. Their disposition will be discussed by Major Clements Wilson, who made the arrests, and the United States district attorney general.

Some 50,000 lumber workers in the four states already are declared to be on strike in obedience to orders from the I. W. W. Rowan and twenty-six other alleged members of the I. W. W. were taken into custody yesterday by

Summary of the Day's War News

The French took the offensive this morning on the Verdun front striking along a sector of eleven miles on both banks of the Meuse river. Early official reports from Paris, while giving few details of the battle, say it has developed to the advantage of the French and that prisoners already are passing to the rear.

The first reports do not show whether the French have inaugurated a major offensive, although the indications are that the operation is an unusually important one. There has been sharp fighting recently on the Verdun front, which has been the scene of some of the most sanguinary struggles of the war. It was in this sector that the German crown prince launched an offensive early last year in an attempt to break the French line, losing several hundred thousand men without gaining any material advantages. Last week the Germans made a sharp local attack there, possibly having learned of the French preparations and hoping to break them up.

GETTING READY TO ESTABLISH SUGAR CONTROL

Washington, Aug. 20.—Measures to stabilize sugar prices were discussed today by Herbert C. Hoover, the food administrator, with a committee from the New York coffee and sugar exchange, which stopped sugar futures trading last week at Mr. Hoover's request. Prices have advanced sharply within the last few months.

The food administration plans to take control of sugar dealings as soon as it has completed a program for supervising wheat trading and flour and bread manufacture.

Members of the committee named by the exchange to see Mr. Hoover are Henry Schaefer, William Bayne, jr., L. S. Bache, E. L. Lueder and Manuel E. Rionda.

GREAT LINER IS DAMAGED BADLY BY FIRE ABOARD

New York, Aug. 20.—The Norwegian steamer, Christian Bors, of 4,076 gross tons, was damaged to the extent of $1,000,000 by fire early today while lying at her dock in South Brooklyn. The steamer arrived recently from Buenos Aires and had about completed the discharge of a cargo of hides. Several Brooklyn fire companies and three fire boats fought the blaze and had it under control two hours after it was discovered. The origin of the fire has not been determined. The Christian Bors was owned in Bergan and was under charter to the Prince line.

The British steamer Baron Jedburgh, a vessel of 4,418 gross tons, discharging a cargo of sugar and glucose, was also badly damaged by the fire.

Issues Are Grouped With a Bunch of Cities for Different Days.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—The question of the right to place a 30 per cent surcharge on electric light bills was the subject of a hearing today before the Indiana public service committee.

Announcement was made that the question of higher heating rates will be heard August 30 and 31, the hearings today, tomorrow and Wednesday being confined to lights and power only.

Permission to place a surcharge on electric current bills was asked of the commission some time ago through an association composed of practically all the electric companies in the state.

When a hearing was started the question of authority to hear the evidence under a blanket petition was raised, and the hearing continued. The question now is presented on separate petitions but consolidated hearings are in progress.

THIS WILL MAKE HORRORS OF WAR SEEM REAL MILD

New York, Aug. 20.—Efforts to compose differences between the inner circle, the so-called "advocates of up-to-the-minute dancing," and the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, will be made when the association opens its annual convention in this city Wednesday, according to G. Hepburn Wilson, head of the inner circle, which is in convention here today.

Mr. Wilson says his organization regards the fox trot and the one-step as dances of a by-gone age and will endeavor to impress the association with the interpretative value of the ramble, the jazz dance and the toddle, which, he says, are the latest creations in the terpsichorean art.

In the previous convention the association has denounced the so-called "latest dances" and announced its preference for the minuet, the polka, the two-step and other dances of the older school.

BEGIN GRAIN CONFERENCE

Meeting of Six States in Indianapolis to Promote Wheat.

AIDING BOOST FOR A BILLION BUSHELS

Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin Join Efforts.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20—Representatives of the agricultural interests of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky and Wisconsin meeting here today with representatives of the United States department of agriculture reported they know of no reason why the government program for an increased wheat and rye acreage for the 1918 crop cannot be carried out in the six states. Practically all of them reported that the plans can be put in operation without material interference with routine crop work.

The Acreage Asked.

Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, assistant to the secretary of agriculture, opened the conference, explaining that the government's program for the six states called for approximately the following wheat acreage for the next crop:

Illinois, 2,934,000; Indiana, 2,800,000; Kentucky, 1,000,000; Michigan, 1,059,000; Ohio, 3,000,000, and Wisconsin 130,000, a total of 10,923,000 acres.

Approximately an increase of 27 per cent over the 1916 acreage and with a production of 15.6 bushels to the acre would yield 170,398,800 bushels. That would be about 23 per cent of the entire acreage in the United States.

Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of the bureau of plant industry, said that the wheat exports from this country will decrease in the near future unless the consumption is cut down and the yield is not increased.

Wheat States Must Do It.

He asserted the great increase which must be obtained must come from the

KAISER LAUDS HIS FLEET FOR MIGHTY WORK IN FLANDERS

Amsterdam, Aug. 20.—At the conclusion of his visit to the German high seas fleet, at Wilhelmshaven, Emperor William issued the following to the fleet:

"After having recently received an announcement that a renewed heavy attack on the enemy in an attempt to break up our sea front in Flanders had been successfully repelled, I have today, by a visit to my fleet and the island fortress of Heligoland, been able to convince myself of the strength and security of this front, too. I express my warm appreciation to all the high sea forces on the water, under water and in the air and to the fortress of Helgoland for their untiring self-sacrificing and successful labor by means of which they have kept firmly in view and attained this aim.

"The fleet remain conscious that the confidence of myself and the fatherland repose firmly on it."

PRO-GERMANS FROM AMERICA DEFAME UNCLE SAM TO RUSSIAN WORKMEN, DECLARES RUSSELL

Lies About United States Spread by German-Controlled Press and by Pro-Kaiser Agitators on Street Corners; Lot of Common People in America Pictured as Oppressive.

This is the third of the articles written by Charles Edward Russell, staff writer for The Sentinel, who spent three months in Russia as a member of the official Root commission appointed by President Wilson. These articles contain the fruits of Russell's observations in his dual capacity as reporter and government investigator.

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL.

(Copyright, 1917, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

If you are an American, of course you hope that Russia will be active and strong on the battle line, delivering a punch for the allies.

Sometimes it looks from the day's news as if Russia was about all in and had no more punch to deliver.

But let me tell you something about that.

The case of Russia is never so bad as it is painted. You can always discount about 71 per cent. of all the gloom and old blue stuff you read about it.

Needn't Worry Much About Russia.

In the next place, for what is left of actualities gone wrong there is always a perfectly good reason, and when you come to know it you see that nothing could be otherwise, and there isn't much to worry about.

All the existing situation in Russia—the real situation, I mean; not the nightmares dreamed by the Blue Line Boys—is the natural result of the old regime or the forces that overthrew it.

Take this matter of a halt in the Russian military activities. Here are some facts about that not generally known in this country, and yet facts that ought to be pondered by every American.

To begin with, the Russian temperament, which is warm, kindly, generous and sympathetic, stirred by the outburst of enthusiasm caused by the revolution, threw the door wide open for what is called the German propaganda, and three-fourths of Russia's troubles have come from just that one source.

German Human Limit in Trickery.

The German propaganda—you don't well understand what that is unless you have been in Russia and seen it at work, but in a general way it is the present attainable limit in cunning, falsehood, trickery and sinister, underhanded methods.

It is an enormous organization, it has thousands of agents in Russia and the United States, it is very ably directed and it works with tireless industry.

Its object is by covert agitations, schemes and press control to save Germany from the defeat that awaits her on the battlefield.

In the United States it manifests itself by starting solgans and instituting demands, cunningly calculated to embarrass the country and hamstring the government, such as "Tell Your Peace Terms!" and "Our Liberties are in Danger!" In Russia it took immediate advantage of the strong, generous, benevolent emotions aroused by the revolution to preach the doctrine that the Germans were the Russians' loving little brothers and would you

MARYLAND PUTS HER IDLERS ON IN THE BOOKS

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 20.—The work of enrolling the state's unemployed will begin today when the circuit clerks of the counties and cities will open their books to enlist idlers. Every man without a definite job must register if he is between 18 and 50 years of age. The job will follow through the medium of a federal employment agent. Its purpose is to gather in the non-workers and idlers so that they can be assigned to do some very necessary work to help maintain the nation's fighting forces. Every non-worker is a liability in the eyes of the law and he will be enrolled and given a place in a producing capacity.

TO THE LIMA PICNIC.

Bartenders Make Preparation for Going to That City.

Next Sunday the Bartenders' union of Lima, O., will hold a picnic and athletic tournament and the local bartenders will attend it. They have made arrangements for a car which will leave the city over the interurban line at 7:20 o'clock in the morning and reach Lima at 9:45 o'clock, where the car will be met by 'buses and the excursionists conveyed to the picnic grounds. Charles Maxwell, Charles Redrup and William A. Jackson were appointed a committee of arrangements for the excursion. At the meeting yesterday the bartenders also took action against the Industrial Workers of the World movement, denouncing it as anarchistic and treasonable and pledging themselves to respond at the first call in case of trouble with the order. Al LaMont, president of the bartenders, introduced the resolution and made a strong speech in support of it. Another resolution which received universal support requires every member to turn out in the parade on Labor day. Failure to do so will be followed by a fine of $2 upon the offending member. All members must register at the hall before the parade starts. The Labor day committee appointed is composed of W. A. Jackson, Frank Fry, Henry Bohnke and Charles Redrup. The Knob club, an auxiliary to the bartenders, will have an outing in September, the date and other details to be announced later.

The attendants at the reunion were descendants of Jonathan and Samuel Smith, brothers, who settled on 300 acres each of government land in 1838, where they spent the remainder of their lives. Commissioned Officers Who Formerly Worked for General Electric Company

C. A. THOMAS.

LESLIE P. JEFFERS.

No other industrial plant in the city has contributed so many men to the United States army and navy as the General Electric works, at which some of the departments are still badly feeling the absence of the enlisted men. The management of the works, however, takes great pride in the record for patriotism displayed by the employes generally and in the success of the men who contested for commissions at the officers reserve camp. The above pictures represent two men in whom the G. E. officials take special pride. C. A. Thomas, who obtained a first lieutenant's commission, is an electrical engineer of considerable ability. He was employed in the engineering department of the big works for several years. Leslie P. Jeffers, who was commissioned second lieutenant, was a clerk for Raymond J. Hoffman, of the general testing department, for some time and is a most efficient and popular employe. As stated in a previous issue of The Sentinel, he has been assigned to the engineering department of the army and will soon begin a course of instruction in the line of work he will have in the great war for democracy.

USED BARRAGE FIRE OF BURNING WORDS

Mrs. Mahoney Gives Court Comparison of Skirmishes.

Mrs. Rose Mahoney, swarthy of complexion and said to be Spanish, advanced upon her neighbors behind a barrage fire of sizzling cuss words in a Saturday afternoon skirmish, it was told in police court Monday morning.

The attack was repulsed with loss of blood to both warring forces. Mrs. Shelbert, colored, who lives next door at 1806 Hoagland avenue, appeared in court with her head wrapped in white cloths. She said Don Maroney, the husband of Rose Mahoney, had hit her. Mr. Mahoney also bore a bandage which was drooped over his right eye. The optic was black and blue. It was injured by contact with an iron bar wielded by Mrs. Shelbert, Mahoney complained.

Many have been the assaults and counter attacks between the neighbors and the Mahoney family, it was brought out in court. There are often injuries and always some profanity, it was stated. Bricks flew in the Saturday battle.

Mrs. Mahoney, who with her husband answered a disorderly conduct charge, was askpd about the nature of the misunderstandings.

"Sometimes we jangle and sometimes we quarrel and now and then we fight," said the woman. "That business on Saturday was a fight."

Don and Rose Mahoney were each fined $5 and costs.

A fourth member of the bumming party, Robert Barber, escaped from officers who removed the young people from a freight train, Sunday morning.

The girls signed statements to the effect that they left their homes a month ago with the two boys. They had been living together in Bucyrus, Ohio, for two weeks, the girls say. Word was sent to their parents Monday noon and it is expected that the fathers of the girls will come for them.

Could Not Hear.

Charles Storey, driving a Ford roadster, did not hear the gong when the police patrol came up behind him, on Clinton street, near Lawton park, Saturday afternoon. Police testified that Storey was traveling at the rate of thirty-seven miles an hour.

"You can't hear much when a Ford travels more than thirty-five miles an hour can you?" asked Deputy Prosecutor Hoffman.

EXPERT MAKES SURVEY OF BAKING INDUSTRY

Jay Burns Tells of Relation of Price of Wheat and Flour.

Newspapers in many sections of the country have been asking questions about the relation of the price of wheat and flour. After a careful survey Jay Burns, of Omaha, former president of the National Association of Bakers, member of the executive committee of that organization, member of the war emergency council of the baking industry, and a man who has been in constant touch with Herbert C. Hoover, gives out the following analysis:

"Bread has been selling pretty generally over the country at 10c per pound retail—and this represents a flour cost about $9.50 per barrel—according to formula used—the price will range from $9.25 to $10.

"Most bakers were supplied with flour purchased before the big advance of April and May—purchased at $10 or below—and while they had this flour bread sold on the basis of $9.50 to $10 flour and will continue to sell on that basis so long as the supply holds out.

"Some bakers have been compelled to buy at higher prices, but so long as they had to compete with lower priced flour in their own communities they could not raise their prices.

"Flour, unlike bread, is always sold on the market price of wheat and if the miller has wheat bought at lower prices, he takes the extra profits.

"Bakers very generally are now running out of flour—and even though flour has declined in price from the high point of $17 to approximately $13.50, the baker purchasing now is using flour at an advance, to him, of some 33 1-3 per cent over the flour used in April, May and June.

"The facts are that the bread buying public has benefited during the past four or five months through the bakers' purchase of low priced flour by from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent.

"Many bakers could have sold the flour they had bought in May for from $5 to $8 per barrel profit, but they did actually bake it into bread and sell it at from 80c to $1 a barrel profit.

"Hence any newspaper stories based upon the present or past selling prices of bread compared with prices for flour at corresponding prices will be manifestly unfair and deductions made from such information will be manifestly unjust.

"The bakers have lived for the past two months in the confidence that the food bill would be passed at an early date, and would result in stabilizing flour price near $10 and many of them who purchased some high-priced flour have taken losses rather than again raise prices, feeling certain that relief would come soon."

AT FIRST SUSPECTED FOUL PLAY AS CAUSE

Death of Frank Lane by His Own Hand at Antwerp a Sensation.

Antwerp, Ohio, Aug. 20.—The death here late Saturday afternoon of Frank Lane, a well-known citizen, by his own hand at first gave rise to suspicions that he might have been a victim of foul play, but inquiry has failed to adduce any evidence in support of this. He was found in his boarding house dead from a stab wound in the region of the heart that he had infilicted with his pocket knife. Persons about the house heard his groaning and called Dr. G. M. Brattin, who discovered at once that death was by violence. The knife was in Lane's hand. The coroner was summoned and his finding is that the man's death was by his own hand with suicidal intent. Ill-health is believed to have been the motive that impelled the rash act. Lane was widely known and well liked in this town. He was unmarried.

DIES ON TRACK NEAR CONVOY.

Well Known Teacher of Van Wert County Struck by Electric Car.

Van Wert, O., Aug. 20.—While crossing the Ohio Electric track in an automobile, about two miles west of Convoy Saturday afternoon about 3:45 o'clock, Vernon R. Shaner, well known young man of Tully township and teacher in the Dixon school last year, was struck and instantly killed by the westbound limited Ohio Electric car which leaves Van Wert at 3:34.

Mr. Shaner had been in Convoy and was returning to his home. At the place where the road crosses the track the road is low and a view of the car line is obscured on the south and east by a cornfield. Mr. Shaner was going north and it is supposed he did not see the approaching Ohio Electric car. The car was going at a high rate of speed and the automobile in which Shaner was riding was struck with terrifir force. Shaner was thrown under the car and dragged for some distance under the wheels. He was within a short distance of his home when the accident happened.

Nevil, Clarence Passwaters, Lester Robinson, Clarence Stater, Harry Steed.

LeMaster, of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. Following the ceremony an elaborate wedding supper was served. The bride has been for several years a teacher in the public schools here. The couple will reside in Converse, Ind., where the groom is principal of the schools.

CHAUTAUQUA STARTS BADLY.

Hartford City, Aug. 20.—The Lincoln Chautauqua company opened its six-day program in Hartford City, Friday, with a good program, but the attendance was nil. A thin fringe of spectators, not more than fifty, were there to "inspire" the talent at the evening entertainment. The afternoon attendance was in proportion. Added to this "enthusiastic" greeting, a series of petty thefts attended the arrival of the chautauqua here. Some one broke into the trunks containing the athletic goods of the chautauqua and took a volley ball and one or two other articles.

NOBLE COUNTY LEADS.

Albion, Ind., Aug. 20.—Noble county is the first county in the state to exceed its quota for the boys' working reserve of the United States. The quota was 440, but C. J. Ligonier, which has 51 boys eligible for membership in the reserve, reports that every one of them has enrolled.

RED CROSS LIBRARY WORK ON BIG SCALE

Fifty Thousand Books Are Sent Weekly to All Parts of World.

London, July 31.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Opposite marble arch stands the home of Lady Battersea, which in pre-war days was the center of social activity. Now it is the headquarters of the Red Cross library and is run by Mrs. Gaskell and an army of voluntary assistants. The house is packed with books from floor to ceiling, they cover the walls, are piled up on tables and shelves, overflow into the servants' quarters and even into the stables at the back of the house.

Nearly 50,000 books a week are sent out to all parts of the world, and, in addition to gifts, 100,000 books and magazines are purchased monthly. able, and an amazing light has been thrown on the matter of best sellers. Far away into the millions soars the demand for Nick Carter detective stories.

Every hospital in France, of which there are some 290, receives a parcel of 130 books every three weeks. Poetry is very largely in demand and ranges from Shakespeare to modern living poets. The colonial soldier has an insatiable curiosity and his chief demand is for the Encyclopedia Britannica in 40 volumes. No demand is refused whether it be for the latest handbook on oil engines, theosophy, poultry farming or boxing.

These parcels of books go forth to all parts of the world wherever the British soldier is fighting. Malta received 7,000 per month, Basrah 9,000, Alexandra 3,000, Salonika 2,000 and even units in East Africa, Italy and Russia are supplied. The admiralty requested the library to supply every sailor in the fleets with a book.

Urgent summons often are received and when Gallipoli was filling the hospitals a cable message came, "send 25,000 books at once, light and good print." The other day a request came from Boulogne and within an hour and a half 3,000 books had been sent in response.

THE GOVERNMENT AND COAL.

It is clear the federal government realizes the need that in the interest of national security and domestic welfare it should intervene with its authority in the coal situation. That early steps to this end are to be taken is well past doubt. Indeed, by the time this is read the president may have made some definite move in that direction.

Just how far the government may find it necessary to go and in what degree of rigor it may feel constrained to act most probably will depend in great part upon the coal interests of the country. The problem of coal is made complex by the intervention of some factors not directly concerned with the business of producing and selling coal. The most important of these is transportation and that factor itself is just now and is likely to remain a large and vexed problem, though the railroads seem to be co-ordinating their efforts and exerting their energies to bring it to solution. But the situation is primarily one that is embodied in the mining of coal and the sale of coal at the mines. Production must be ample to meet the needs of the country and prices must be held to a plane of fair-dealing.

Recent investigations by the federal trade commission reveal the proved facts of rapacity all along the line from primary prices at the mines to prices the consumer is forced to pay. This demonstrated profiteering has not been uniform in degree, nor has it been without exception, but it has been general enough to give warrant for federal intervention, and that mainly not because of what has been done, but because the public can get no hostage that it will not be the continued practice marked by still more flagrant excesses. The government will have to go just as far in its measures of regulation and control as it may be constrained by public necessities to go. If that means taking over and completely nationalizing coal lands then that must be the recourse. It may be questioned, however, if any step so radical in the direction of state invasion of the field of private enterprise will be found necessary. Federal intervention under the new law that empowers the government to exercise control without attempting anything so extreme as public ownership and operation will most probably teach a salutary lesson if continued through the stresses of the war. The great coal-mining interests, and that at bottom means the important groups of capital that so largely dominate the coal industry, will not be likely to provoke the permanent extinction of their investments in a highly profitable business.

Federal action cannot come too soon nor be exerted with too much diligence and energy. It is the conclusion of some expert observers that even the government, do what it may, cannot altogether ward off the distresses, industrial and domestic, of a coal shortage this winter. Already there is a genuine shortage of coal and this lately has been aggravated by extensive labor troubles in the coal regions of several states, Indiana among them. Mines will have to be worked to capacity and the factor of transportation will have to be greatly strengthened if some parts of the country are to escape a repetition of last winter's bitter experience.

In view of the government's own paramount necessities that for easement must depend upon the fullest tide of unhampered industry and transportation—industry speeded to war needs and indispensable carriage both by land and sea—there can be no temporizing with a situation that already conveys a potential threat of great harm and might become the black menace of disaster. Nor can the government escape its duty to fend the people from distress and suffering that will ensue at once from their unfilled domestic needs and the worse blight that is the inseparable accompaniment of industrial paralysis. There must be relief and the government must see that the coal industry extends it—willy nilly.

CONSEQUENCES WILL BE GRAVE.

Slackers who go so far in their evasion of military duty as to ignore orders to report for examination incur the risk of enforced service or the alternative of the grave penalties of desertion.

The law has been interpreted in the only fair and just way that it can be constructed. Registrants who fail to appear for examination will be set down as passed, following which they will be called in due time to present themselves for service. Delinquency at this point becomes one of the most serious infractions of military law. Desertion is punishable by the extreme rigors of military rule. While it may be questioned that at this time and under these circumstances there will be resort to the death penalty, every slacker who becomes a deserter may rest assured that martial law will not stop far short of the extreme penalty.

It can be made fair to those who do not default their duty to the government and nation in its stress for soldiers only when those who do default shall be made to suffer most severe pains for their great fault. Desertion in the face of the enemy is scarcely if at all more base than desertion at the outset of war before danger yet is nigh. The man at the front at least has the miserable excuse and mitigation that the noise of battle, the threatening array of the foe and even the sight of bloodshed and suffering make him unaccountable for the ignoble impulses bred of fear, but the slacker at home has no such palliations for his failure in duty.

Men who are called to appear for examination will do well for themselves by appearing. They will else be accepted into the army and then hunted down as deserters when they fail to come when called to offer themselves for duty.

Little Cuba, with no great man power and not much developed wealth and with a dangerous proportion of her male citizenship forever ready to "go into the woods" under the leadership of the first aspiring revolutionary captain who comes along, is in no very strong position to render military aid to us in the war which she was very prompt to make her own cause, but she has tendered the use of the island as a training camp for an American army and her good offer has been accepted. In this case the will is readily taken for the deed and our foster child should be given every assurance and proof of the Mother Republic's gratitude for this further exhibition of loyalty to a cause she was not bound to espouse and to which she attached herself because she felt that in good faith she owed it to the nation that established and guarantees her freedom and her sovereignty.

Boss Hoover has lost no time setting things going under the new law passed to give him need of authority and proper room in which to exercise it for the behoof of this nation's and the rest of the world's belly. Here and there uncertain fear articulates itself in misgiving that Hoover is bottle-feeding an ambition toward the presidency. Great Scot! If the man can keep down the price of taters and parsnips and guarantee the daily loaf at a regular price, he can have anything he wants without division of the vote.

An American correspondent just out of Germany says that over there the thing is asserted that in six months Great Britain will be made to cry for peace. That was to have come at the end of the six months just wound up. If Berlin can console herself for the failure of last January's prediction by formulating another like it, nothing is added to the ships she sinks nor taken from the trenches she loses in France and Belgium.

To what extent the government may find it necessary to go to put down the threat of the I. W. W. to prostrate great industries that are vital to the nation's defense cannot be stated, but to whatever length it be found necessary to go there should be no delay in going. There is a difference between talking against the nation in war and materially obstructing the nation in war.

It is no far-sought suspicion to suspect that Governor Goodrich is a deal more concerned as to the fashion for disposing of the new-constitutionalists of Indiana than he is about the suitable manner for dealing with the coal problem in a special session of the legislature.

If nothing else, the efforts of Pope Benedict for peace have restored the line of communication between the Vatican and the Quirinal, broken for half a century.

Kerensky declares that Russia will fight to a finish, but it isn't yet clear whether he means Russia will fight radical Russians or embattled Germans.

It may be not altogether without point to remind the city hall that this is about the peak of the garbage season.

Let me go back to my iron shards,
Splintered trench, in the crook of the line;
Zigzag back two hundred yards—
Christ, was this dugout ever mine?

Here are the grave-clothes that I wore,
Khaki and helmet, and pack and steel,
Stained with sweat, and filthy with gore—
I touch them with fingers that cannot feel.

Here are the trench tools that I dropped,
Here is the world I left behind,
Here is the heart forever stopped—
Yes, here is the body I wanted to find.

Here is the face that I used to know,
Broken and blackened, swollen and old,
Pallid beneath the star-flare's glow—
Christ, but the night is ghastly cold!

Face down here in the grit and mire,
Drunken with death, and dumb with fear—
Lo, I watch over you all afire,
But I never can make this body hear.

Twisted with terror, trampled by Fate,
Requiem winds shall scatter the dust,
Blow on the roaring, red river of hate—
Courage of kings be but ashes and rust!

Shrapnel may burst, and rifles play,
Dead men lie like sheaves of grain,
But there's nothing to do, and nothing to say—

The Most Dangerous Pacificists

BY J. HARPER LEECH.

"Pacifism" and peace agitation in the United States and Russia are much more dangerous to the allied cause than in any other country.

Germany knows Americans are a composite race, and in view of her own failure to absorb or placate subject peoples she cannot understand that American immigrants are loyal to their adopted land.

Her statesmen and editors argue continually that President Wilson represents only the Anglo-Saxon stock, and that German-Americans and Irish-Americans all love Germany or hate Great Britain.

For these reasons all pro-German and pacifist agitation here heartens the kaiser's junkers.

They believe LaFollette represents a large section of American feeling, although Americans know him for a very lonesome sort of statesman.

German maps have pictured the disruption of America and formation of German and Scandinavian nations in the northwest.

England has her pacifists, too, some of them prominent men and women before the war; but Germany is not fooled by their talk. They recently mustered nineteen votes out of 600 in the house of commons.

England has another type common to all countries—the class which corresponds to Bill Haywood and the I. W. W. in this country. These men hate all governments equally and strike at that nearest at hand. In Russia this type backed by German money has become formidable. Italy has a few.

England's "conscientious objectors" are partly fanatics and partly degenerates.

Serbia, Belgium and Montenegro have no pacifists.

France has none. Although the extreme French socialists would probably oppose continuing the war merely to acquire Alsace-Lorraine, the socialists of all parties have supported the government. Some French socialists have favored the international socialist conference at Stockholm, but only as a means of stirring up trouble in Germany.

British socialists have gone no further toward peace agitation than to support sending of delegates to Stockholm to "consult" about possible peace terms, the decisions not to be binding.

In Italy the radical and socialist elements forced the government to make war on Austria, although one small socialist faction is for peace at any price. The conservative church element is pacifist in tone, because of its dislike for the Italian government, which took away the temporal power of the pope.

Germany's pacifist element is represented only in jail, at forced labor or in the efforts of the two factions of German socialists to promote a peace satisfactory to the kaiser.

Only in Russia and the United States are disloyal activities allowed, although in England the pacifists have practically complete liberty to talk themselves hoarse or to print anything they want to.

WHEN A DRAFTED MAN BECOMES GUILTY FOR DESERTING THE ARMY

BY GILSON GARDNER.

At what moment does a selective service man become actually a soldier? Merely registering or passing his physical examination does not make him a soldier. Just when does the change take place?

The question has become important owing to the threat of extreme penalties for desertion. A soldier is not a deserter until he has become a soldier and deserted. The penalties for refusing to register are named in the draft law. They consist of jail penalties. But resisting the federal government after the draft law has become operative is a very different matter—dealt with by courtmartial followed by extreme penitentiary sentences and even the firing squad.

There is no oath administered to members of the selective service army, according to Provost Marshal General Crowder.

"There has been no formal ruling in that matter," said Major Gullion, "but in the absence of any provision in the law, it is safe to say the oath is not required to make the selective service man a soldier. He becomes a soldier at the moment specified in the notice he receives. For instance, if he is told to report at noon September 1, 1917, at a certain place, he becomes a soldier at that moment."

The absence of any oath-taking by these men will be unusual. When a man joins the regular army or state militia or navy, his formal entrance into the nation's service is marked by his oath to support the constitution "and true allegiance bear" to the United States of America. This oath is what constitutes the volunteer. All members of the regular army are volunteers. Likewise the state militia.

When the state militia were on the Mexican border and were incorporated into the federal service, they were asked to take the oath, volunteering for federal service. They were not commanded to take such oath. Unless the oath were taken voluntarily it would have no effect. This applies in the case of the selective service army. Being drafted, the selective service men have no choice wether or not to serve; they must serve "and true allegiance bear." To ask them to swear to do what they must do, would be a surplusage.

WE STILL WAIT.

(New York Globe.)

For three years the world has waited for the German people to disavow or modify the policy of their masters. The record is that when these masters are able to present basis for hope that their conquering plan will succeed all Germany hurrahs and waves flags. Pacifists propaganda in Germany makes no progress when saying the enterprise on which Germany is embarked is unrighteous. Its only argument is that conquest can not succeed. Should German armies occupy Paris, or the submarine campaign be successful, Scheidemann and his hypocritical colleagues of the German reichstag would be silent as annexations occurred and indemnities were levied.

AN EARLY DUTY.

(Muncie Press.)

The word "Sammy," which the press associations have been trying to hang onto the American soldier, will not stick. It is a belittling diminutive—a poor imitation of the British term, "Tommy," which itself never would have originated at a time like this. In rural England the word "Sammy" is used as a nickname for a half-wit, and the American equivalent is a "nut." The soldiers at the front are refusing to accept the name. They prefer the term used by the French "Teddies," which at least has some fighting significance. But no diminutive is appropriate in describing an American soldier now. Call him a soldier and let it go at that.

"Attaboy," the slogan much used by American troops headed for France, is of American origin. It is a piece of baseball slang, used in coaching and means "That's the boy." The use of the word has originated with the men themselves. Nicknames and slang generally must originate spontaneously in order to become a part of the language of the people. No one knows what starts or stops slang. Like Topsy, it "just grows."

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

J. F. Franke, clerk at the Devilbiss abstract and title company, will leave for Chicago tomorrow for a week's visit mong friends.

Dr. J. Sion Smith, formerly a citizen of this city, created a lively sensation in LaOtto Thursday, by horsewhipping H. L. Holbrook, a rival for business favors and the village postmaster.

A young man named Fryer, from Huntertown, in jumping off of a Grand Rapids train at Fairfield avenue, last evening, was thrown to the ground in such a manner as to fracture his left arm. He was conveyed to the home of a friend on West Jefferson street.

The foundation for the first business house in Lakeside, L. P. Sharp's grocery building, is now completed and the carpenters are now at work on the frame. The building is located on the corner of Columbia avenue and St. Joe boulevard.

William Hahn and son, Albert, will leave for a trip to Toledo, Saginaw and Dertoit this afternoon. Albert will remain at Saginaw to accept employment with Charles Sauers, formerly superintendent of the Prudential Life Insurance company.

Miss Flora Schilling, who is the guest of Mrs. Frank Baker, of West DeWald street, was painfully injured at Rome City yesterday. In running across a lawn the young lady encountered a wire that had been stretched between trees. Her face and neck were badly bruised and cut and it is feared that a wound near the eyes will leave an ugly scar.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with the secretary of state for the Fort Wayne Electric Railway company. The capital stock of the company is $1,000,000. Last evening the stockholders, Messrs. John H. Bass, S. B. Bond, J. M. Barrett, Andrew Squires, F. D. Robison and M. S. Robinson, held their first meeting and permanently organized by electing officers as follows: President, John H. Bass; vice president and treasurer, M. S. Robinson; secretary, J. M. Barrett.

MARY IS RECAPTURED AND HELD BEHIND BARS

Girl Who Shivered Out Night in Fence Corner Will Be Sentenced.

Mary Frazier, 15, is held behind the strong bars of the county jail to await a hearing before Juvenile Judge John W. Eggeman Tuesday morning. She was taken to the jail after she had staged an escape from the county detention home Saturday night. The girl stole from the institution after nightfall and wandered along the Huntertown road. She spent the remaining hours of the night in a fence corner.

Deputy Sheriff Cole recaptured the girl when she was riding on a big wagon with a farmer Sunday morning. The girl had said that she was going to visit relatives in Huntertown and was being conveyed in that direction.

The escape from the county home is the second dash for freedom for the girl. She tried to get away from the detention school in Toledo, O., before being brought here. She climbed out on the roof of the Toledo institution. When the matron pursued her, Mary brandished a revolver, it is reported. She was taken after she had made a temporary getaway.

It is expected that the girl, who has been a juvenile ward for some time, will be sent to the girls' industrial school at Indianapolis.

Bad Attack of Diarrhoea Cured.

"About two years ago I had an attack of bowel trouble and was in a serious condition when I began using Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. J. Rogan, Fairport, N. Y. "This medicine relieved me at once and after taking three or four doses of it I was cured." People are always pleased by the prompt cures which this remedy effects. The recommendations of those who have used it have done much to make it the most popular medicine in use for bowel complaints.—Advertisement.

UNCLE HARRY TELLS ABOUT SPAIN

As Uncle Harry came down the street he saw the three children having an excited conversation on the porch and looking at some object which Jimmy held in his hand.

"What's all the excitement about, young folks?" he said. Helen spoke up: "Jimmy has a picture of a flag and we are discussing what it is. He won't tell and we don't know. It has yellow and red stripes and two of the South American nations have red and yellow stripes, but Jimmy says it's a European nation."

"Let me see it, Jimmy," said Uncle Harry, and as he took it in his hand he said, "Oh, I know what flag it is. Helen is partly right; Bolivia has red and yellow stripes, but it also has a green one. Ecuador also has red and yellow stripes, but it also has a blue one. This flag is that of a nation that at one time was the greatest in the world and we of the United States should remember it for it was the last country we fought with before the present war."

"Spain," said Joe and Helen in one breath, and Jimmy laughed.

"Yes, you are right," said Uncle Harry. It is the flag of Spain, a nation which is mentioned by the oldest historian, Herodotus, as Iberia.

"It at one time practically owned all the new world and was the richest nation in the world. One by one it lost its foreign possessions and the last ones were lost when we took the Philippines and Porto Rico and Cuba was made independent."

"How does she stand in the present war, Uncle Harry?" said Joe. "Is she neutral?"

"Yes, Joe, but Portugal, the nation touching her on one side, is allied with France, which touches her upon the other side. Spain's great problem is, however, not the war but her own internal condition. When the Spanish-American war was ended it was felt that Spain, being relieved of her possessions, would be free to develop her natural resources at home and so for a time it seemed, but there is great unrest among her people and it has frequently been rumored that a revolution was under way that would depose the king and make Spain a republic, but it has not developed yet. The rich in Spain are very rich and the poor are very poor and their interests are altogether opposed to each other. The army is more or less inclined to revolt against the government and the statesmen who control matters are not united in their ideas about national policy."

"How about the king, Uncle Harry?" said Helen. "Isn't he a good king and very popular?"

"Yes, Helen," said Uncle Harry. "He seems to be a wide-awake, talented yung king. But the neighboring nation of Portugal deposed its king only a few years ago and such examples are contagious.

"The Carlists are active and inclined to strike at the right moment and there is always the clerical question to be settled."

"What are the Carlists, Uncle Harry?" said Joe.

"The Carlists are claimants of the Spanish throne. They claim it by descent from Don Carlos de Bourbon, second son of Charles IV, of Spain, and this claim to succession of the Spanish throne has caused several outbreaks of civil war. Then you must remember that a great majority of the people cannot read or write and the country is run by professional politicians who are simply in the game for the profits to be made out of it. The conservative and liberal parties are ever opposed to each other, but seem to have no set policies except to divide up the spoils of office. Taxation is very high and grows higher and yet the state seems able to pay merely its interest on its national debt and other expenses and makes no real progress. Matters in Spain are in a very critical condition and no one can prophesy the final outcome.

"The natives of each province are intensely clannish and the Basques, Aragonese, Andalusians, Castillians and citizens of other provinces are devoted to their own people and seem to desire the olden privileges they had when they were independent. The possession of Gibraltar by England has always been an irritation to Spain, although the King's marriage to the English princess Victoria Eugenia was immensely popular.

"The Spaniards are a proud, self-willed people and the solution of their problems is entirely a matter of their own concern and affects no other nation."

"Well," said Jimmy, "I'm glad I'm not a Spaniard, but I do hope they will become a republic. You know it was because of Queen Isabella backing up Columbus with money that he discovered America."

"If he hadn't done that we might all be Europeans yet and America be owned by the Indians."

"Hardly that, Jimmy," said Uncle Harry. "I guess somebody would have discovered America before this, but we certainly do owe a debt of gratitude to that great queen for her noble act. Perhaps before long we may have great news about Spain. Let us hope it will be good news." And Uncle Harry rose to go.

"Good night, all," he said.

"Good night, Uncle Harry."

Editor's Note.—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries, either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondents' names will not appear in the articles.

Helpful suggestions for districts and for county work, revision of the constitution, publicity, war work and cooperation with other organization are some of the topics to be discussed. Mrs. Catt will lecture on Wednesday evening on "Votes and Patriotism," and Mrs. Edwards on Thursday morning on "Our Next Objective." All women are invited to attend this conference.

Listen to This! Not So Very Loud, is It?

BY BETTY BROWN.

The noise of the purring motor hides the song of this coat. Striking for street wear, it is not loud as a motor coat. Furthermore, its tone is tuneful, rather than discordant, and its lines are graceful.

PRESERVE SWEET CORN FOR WINTER BY DRYING

By BIDDIE BYE.

Only very young and tender corn should be used for drying.

Cook in boiling water two to five minutes, long enough to set the milk. Cut the kernels from the cob with a sharp knife, taking care not to cut off pieces of the cob. Spread thinly on trays, and place in position to dry. Stir occasionally until dry.

Or boil or steam on the cob eight to ten minutes to set the milk. To improve flavor a teaspoon of salt to a gallon of water may be used. Drain well and cut corn from cob, using a very sharp and flexible knife. Cut grains fine, only half way down to the cob, and scrape out the remainder of grain, being careful not to scraps off any of the chaff next to the cob. Dry from three to four hours at 110 degrees to 145 degrees Fahrenheit. When field corn is used, good, plump roasting-ear stage is the proper degree of ripeness. A pound of dried corn per dozen ears is an average yield.

The corn may be dried in the sun. Dry in oven ten to fifteen minutes, and finish drying in the sun. Sun drying, of course, is not satisfactory in moist weather.

"Condition" the product by storing in boxes, and pouring it from one box into another once a day for three or four days, to mix it thoroughly and to give the whole mass an even quality.

Corn Relish.

Cut the corn from two dozen ears and add, finely chopped, one head of cabbage, four large onions, four green peppers and one red pepper, discarding the seeds from the latter. Add one quart of vinegar; turn into a preserving kettle and set over the fire to boil. Mix together three cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of salt, one-fourth of a cupful of dry mustard, one teaspoonful of tumeric and three-fourths of a cupful of flour. Blend with an additional quart of vinegar and add them to the boiling relish. Let boil for half hour longer and seal in hot jars, as for canned fruit.

Really Removes Hair Roots, or Costs Nothing
(Phelactine, the New Wonder-Worker)

Without doubt the greatest thing yet discovered for hair-disfiguring womankind is the wonderful phelactine method. It has none of the disadvantages of electrolysis or depilatories and, best of all, it removes the hairs entire, roots and all! It does this instantly, leaving the skin so smooth and soft that no one can tell the user was ever the possessor of a moustache or other hairy growth.

Phelactine is non-odorous, non-irritating, and so harmless a child could eat it without any ill effect. A stick of this remarkable substance, accompanied by simple instructions, can be obtained at any drug store, and its price will be refunded upon request in case of dissatisfaction. But what woman would not be satisfied and delighted after seeing those ugly hairs come out—including the roots—with her own eyes?—Advertisement.

HOW TO SAVE PERISHABLE FOOD FOR USE NEXT WINTER

Acting in co-operation with the government in the national food conservation campaign The Sentinel will from day to day present its readers with recipes and suggestions for preserving perishable fruits and vegetables.

Salted Corn.

Water-tight kegs or tubs, or crocks, may be used for salting corn.

Do not use any containers made of yellow or pitch pine.

Wash thoroughly and steam kegs, crocks, or other containers to be used.

Husk the ears of corn and remove the silk.

Cook in boiling water for ten minutes.

Cut corn from the cob with a sharp knife.

Weigh the corn.

Use a quantity of salt equal to one-fourth weight of corn.

Spread a layer of corn one inch thick in the receptacle to be used.

Sprinkle heavily with salt.

Continue adding layers of corn and salt, until the receptacle is nearly full.

Cover with cheesecloth and clean board cover.

Place a clean stone for a weight on the board cover.

Set the receptacle in a cool place.

If a brine to cover has not formed in twenty-four hours, pour enough strong brine over the corn to come up to the wooden cover.

As soon as bubbling, which will be slight, has stopped, cover the surface of the brine with hot parafine to form an air-tight cover.

To make strong brine:
One pound salt.
Two quarts water.
Stir until salt is entirely dissolved.

It's Much Joy to Paddle Your Canoe

A canoe, a river with a woodsy bank, plenty of soft, blue sky, and shadowed sunshine overhead, and a friend—what more could a person have to make his heart glad and his whole soul sing with the joy and happiness of living?

The little Indian craft skimming silently and smoothly over the water, taking you into sequestered nooks and out into the broad open, gliding gently, gliding pleasantly, swiftly or slowly, as you will it, has a certain indefinable charm for you which is mystic and beautiful.

It is not to be wondered at that the lovers of canoes are many and that canoeing grows more popular every year.

Canoeing is especially popular with women. It offers all the fresh air and all the exercise that other outdoor sports give without the strain or exertion which accompanies most of them.

It is one of the healthiest forms of exercise that a woman could have, for it is not strenuous, and if you learn to paddle correctly it is without any effort whatsoever. At the same time it brings into play nearly every muscle in your body, because you can't paddle against a current, for instance, without feeling a little twinge of the pull way down to your toes.

The movement of the arms guiding the paddle makes you graceful, for it is impossible to paddle well and not do it with a free, easy motion which is full of grace and beauty. And a strange part about paddling is that you can't paddle at all unless you do it fairly well.

And the more practice you get the better you paddle. There is no such thing as not improving. All it takes is practice. You can't say this about other forms of exercise which depend as much as anything upon the beginner's possessing some innate predilection toward playing the game.

Perhaps this is one of the reasons which makes canoeing so popular. Every one can learn to do it well.

The paddling movement reduces the upper part of the arm and tend to give the arms pretty curves. The chest is broadened and the back becomes stronger and straighter through these movements. The blood is brought down from the brain and rests the tired nerve ends. Canoeing has much the same effect as golf for its soothing qualities for the nerves. The arm exercise sets the blood int ocirculation in a sure but not too energetic fashion, starting the circulation rather slowly and sanely.

It has been said that, like bowling, paddling is one of the best possible remedies for a torpid liver, and that if people would enjoy these exercises they would have fewer headaches and rarely, if ever, an attack of indigestion.

Canoes are not all expensive. You can get a very good one for about $30, and this will be stanch and safe and seaworthy, perfectly balanced, with the beautiful canoe lines and of the finest material. It is best for a beginner to get a canoe with air compartments not only in the stern and bow but one which goes along the sides. The reason for this is that while the air tanks in the stems make the canoe unsinkable, the sponson makes the canoe almost sure proof against tipping over.

The idea that canoes are dangerous is very silly. Of course, if you jump around and act bereft of your senses you are courting trouble. But you are just as likely to get into trouble by acting bereft of your senses when crossing the street downtown or when mounting a pair of stairs.

To sit still is not as necessary a rule to learn about canoeing as to gain a sense of balance. This sense of balance is something which will come to you naturally. You don't think of a bicycle as a dangerous thing, but it is far more important to learn balance for a bicycle before it is safe to ride than it is to gain it for the canoe.

For women a smock suit is the most comfortable sort of thing to wear for canoeing. This allows perfect freedom of arm movement and does not constrain the waist any.

BIG FAD FOR OSTRICH MARKS FEMININE WORLD

Paris is holding her own in fashions this year. It is as though obstacles and difficulties but spur her to greatest achievement.

Now there is a big fad for ostrich. While ostrich has always been in demand more or less, sometimes for a fan, a boa or trimming for a hat, there has never been a time within years when the feathery product of the ostrich is seen on the hat, shoulder cape and bag, all at the same time.

SCALLOPED FISH AND HOMINY.

Place in a baking dish alternate layers of boiled or steamed hominy (hulled corn) seasoned to taste, and minced fish with thickened milk sauce. Have a layer of fish on top and sprinkle over it bread crumbs. Place in oven to heat thoroughly and brown the top. Rice, macaroni or potatoes may be used in this recipe in the place of hominy.

MANY EXPECTED TO ENLIST IN RESERVE

Educational Qualifications Will Be Considered in Picking Candidates.

A. G. Kaftan, in charge of the local navy recruiting station, has just received instructions regarding the enlistment of men as candidates for commissioned officers in the navy. In the preliminary examination, it is stated by the bureau of navigation, that the best officer material among the candidates be retained, having special regard to educational qualifications.

Candidates for the naval reserve must be fully capable, the instruction state, of passing a physical examination similar in all respects to that prescribed for line officers of the regular navy for aeronautic duty. Candidates who have had practical flying experience and possess pilot's licenses from recognized flying schools shall be considered first, as their previous training will save time in their final qualification for naval aviators. These men will remain, according to Recruiting Officer Kaftan, in the rating of seamen, second class, throughout the period of their flying instructions.

Other candidates for commissions in the navy because of their special knowledge in the construction, design, or organization of aircraft establishments, will be of value to the naval service, it is anticipated.

The navy is becoming more particular over the selection of men as mechanics and only well qualified men are to be enrolled after a careful examination. Tradesmen, such as gas engine mechanics, machine tool men, coppersmiths, carpenters, blacksmiths and sailmakers are especially desired by the navy, it is stated. Consideration of the work to be done about aircraft, airplanes, balloons, seaplanes and dirigibles, indicate the quality of men desired in this class, the local officer said.

An all day outing and picnic is being planned for the boys of the Elks city. The event is to be held at the new country club, on the Robison park line.

The members of the boys city will gather at the Elks temple, Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock, and will march to the car line in a body. The address of welcome at the park will be given by Dr. Maurice I. Rosenthal, who will introduce Mayor W. J. Hosey. The mayor will talk to the boys about some of the duties of citizens of a town. Following this address a business session will be held, with meetings of the city council and all the various boards.

Many athletic events are being planned for the day. A baseball game will be played between the Blues and the Reds, and one between the Purples and the Whites, the winners of the two matches, clashing for the championship. Other athletic events will be a sack race, three-legged race, 50-yard dash, shoe race, and a wheelbarrow race. At 4 o'clock there will be a balloon ascension.

The Elk city boys are to call at the Elks temple before Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock to get their tickets entitling them to the free ride, free peanuts, popcorn, lemonade and other things.

Dr. Maurice I. Rosenthal, chairman of the committee, in making the arrangements for the picnic and outing for the boys of Elk City at the Elks' Country club Thursday, August 23, has appointed the following reception committee to look after the boys: Judge Carl Yaple, Judge John W. The August Blanket Sale Will Take Place As Usual!

—When America entered the great world war, we feared that the Annual August Sale of Blankets would be impossible this year. The equipment of the thousands of boys who went to army training camps called for literally millions of blankets, and cottons and woolens have been put to uses occasioned by the war. Prices are bound to go higher and higher.

But our orders for blankets were placed a year ago, and this forehanded buying protects you. We were able, by placing much larger-than-usual-orders to secure prices far below the present market. These are now in stock and —The only reason this much wanted silk jersey cloth is offered at the low price of 95c is the fact that occasionally in the weaving, a thread is pulled a trifle, causing a slight imperfection. However, these defects are scarcely noticeable, and can be almost entirely eliminated by carefully placing the pattern.

All Silk Jersey Cloth in White & Flesh, 95c

It is particularly desirable for the making of dainty undergarments and negligees. 36 inches wide; very special at 95c a yard.

CAN PLACE THIRTY MEN

Major T. F. Ryan Can Put Young Men in a Local Hospital Unit.

NEEDS FIFTY MEN FOR BATTERY B

Company E and Company B Select Men for Service in the Battery.

Thirty Fort Wayne men with a fair education can be placed in a local hospital unit which is being organized by applying at the regular army recruiting station. Major Thomas F. Ryan announces that the young men who volunteer for this service can remain in the city until the unit is called.

The young men who are enlisted in this unit will get to associate with the best physicians and surgeons in the city. Medical students and pharmacists will have an excellent opportunity in this unit, as will the other young men who volunteer.

Any young man who has not as yet been called for examination by his local conscription board is eligible to enter this unit. Men who enlist in this unit will be exempt from draft.

Major Ryan also announces that he can place fifty young men with Battery B, now stationed at Fort Harrison, and which is now on the schedule to leave with the next contingent of troops for France.

Pick Men for Battery.

Complying with orders received officers of Company E, infantry and Company B, Signal Corps, Monday picked men to assist in filling up ranks of Battery B. The order has been received and must be conformed with. Some of the young men volunteered to go while it befell the officers to assume to somewhat unpleasant task of selecting the others. It is asked that mothers of the young men who are picked regard the act as one that is necessary and not one done for spite work as has been intimated.

The order received by the officers was also asked to be treated confidentially, and it is for this reason that the officers are not giving out the names of the men who have been picked to be transferred to artillery service.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT.

Impressive Scene Witnessed at Retreat Ceremonies of Company B.

Over a thousand people it is estimated witnessed the impressive scenes attendant to the retreat ceremonies given by Company B, signal corps, at the Concordia college grounds Sunday afternoon. Competitive drills were given and were watched with interest. The company also passed in review before Capt. George S. Foden, of the United States medical corps; H. G. Hoss, former captain of A company, signal corps, and Capt. L. O. Knowlton. The officers were highly complimentary in their remarks as to the efficiency of the company.

The company lost seven men as the result of the federal physical examination which was conducted in this city two weeks ago. The announcement came from the headquarters of the chief medical examiner.

Thirty Men Enlist.

Thirty men were the results of Saturday and Sunday at the regular recruiting station. These men were sent to Fort Thomas, Ky., Sunday evening. Recruiting work remains on a good standing and results are pleasing.

TO BE ON WAY SOON.

Lieutenant Moriarity Assures Early Service in France.

In a telegram to this city Lieut. H. C. Moriarity, a commissioned officer of Battery B, states that early service in France is assured and that the Indiana field artillery will be equipped with six-inch howitzers. Each company will consist of 228 men. This makes it necessary for every company in the regiment to secure more men and application for this branch of the service can be made with Maj. Thomas F. Ryan, of the regular army recruiting station.

MANY GO TO FORT.

Fort Wayne Boys at Mobilization Camp Have Many Visitors.

Many Fort Wayne people took advantage of the excursions to Fort Benjamin Harrison Sunday. The people report that the members of both batteries are very busy getting all the drill that can be secured. The doctors have again been busy during the past week and most of the young men secured the second "shot" of anti-typhoid serum.

Everything possible for the convenience of the men in camp is being installed, including shower baths. No information of any kind could be secured as to the possible date of entraining of the troops for an eastern port from where they will set sail for France.

Fort Wayne Youths.

Birchfield Brown, formerly employed at the Meyer Brothers drug store and well known in this city, has written that as a sergeant in the medical corps he will soon leave El Paso for an eastern port from where he will set sail for France at an early date.

Cook Frank E. Stocker, of Company B, Forty-fifth United States infantry, stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Metker, of 713 East Washington street. He is enthusiastic over army life.

Lieut. Eben E. Lane is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lane, of Wildwood avenue. He is awaiting orders to report to the American Lake camp for further instructions.

Private R. Swope, who resided at 1332 Calhoun street, writes to this city that he is now stationed at Old Fort Warren in Boston harbor looking forward to early active service. He is a member of the heavy coast artillery.

CONSERVE MILK CANS, NEW HEALTH GOSPEL

City Officers Will Wage Campaign for Care of Containers.

From the city health department comes the cry of "Save all milk containers." As a part of a nation-wide effort, the local health officers may plan meetings in and near Fort Wayne in a campaign to induce milk consumers to take care of all metal and glass holders.

Warning from the federal department of agriculture calls attention to the fact that an actual shortage of ten-gallon milk cans is at hand. There is a growing scarcity of milk containers of all sizes. This is due to waste in most cases. Necessity of plenty of milk and of sanitary containers makes an organized "save the cans" campaign necessary, the order comes to Fort Wayne officers.

A card holding nine important cautions may be delivered to all Fort Wayne dairymen by local health officers. The statements relating to the larger metal cans are:

1. Cans should be marked permanently with the owner's name and address.

2. "Empties" returned by rail to the producer should be tagged like any other baggage.

3. Railroad employes should take care in handling c ans to avoid denting or breaking them.

4. Throwing cans indiscriminately from the car to the ground or even on the station platform should be stopped.

5. Railroad companies should provide covered shelter for full milk cans and should compel employes to stack empty cans under shelter.

6. The dealer should wash, sterilize and dry the cans before returning them to the produced. If he has no facilities for sterilizing by steam he should rinse and thoroughly drain the cans. Cans should be returned dry.

7. The producer should not allow cans to remain outdoors in inclement weather.

8. A clean dry can will not rust.

9. The health department should see to it that milk cans are not used as receptacles for oil, garbage, etc.

CORONER HOLDING INQUEST OF CASES

Coroner J. E. McArdle and his deputy, Robert B. Garmire, are busy investigating several cases and hearing evidence from many witnesses. The chief case to be examined Monday afternoon was the street car accident in which Emma Schmidt was killed. All the people who took part in the rush for the open have been summoned.

The case of Ray Arnold, who was hit by a train near Sherwood, will also be investigated as will the auto accident in which little Byron Ormiston was killed.

Several people were to appear before the coroner late Monday afternoon to give evidence in the case of the alleged suicide of Dale Hazen.

WAS FRIGHTENED AWAY.

A frustrated attempt to rob the App shoe store, on South Calhoun street, was evidenced Monday morning, when the large window at the rear of the store building was found to be removed. The glass had been cut out. No articles are missed from the store. It is thought that the would-be burglars were frightened away at the time when they had prepared to enter the business house.

DEATH BETTER THAN CRUELTY

Dale Hazen, 14, Shot Himself to Escape Fear of Abuse.

Body Found in Truck Patch by Wife of Boy's Employer.

Dale Hazen, 14, made up his mind that death was better than the prospect of living with his father, who is alleged to have treated him cruelly. When he was convinced that he would be given into the custody of the man who had beaten him in former years, the lad shot himself through the heart with a shot gun Sunday morning.

The body was found by Mrs. Hiram Frazier, wife of the farmer who lives three miles from Churubusco, just this side of the county line, and for whom the boy had worked for a year. The lifeless form was stretched at full length at the west end of the truck patch, when Mrs. Frazier walked to the end of the patch. She ran to the house to summon her husband.

Clothing Powder Burned.

The boy had evidently sat down on the ground and placed the muzzle of the gun against his breast. He had discharged the weapon by the aid of a dried weed stalk. The stalk is in the hands of Coroner J. E. McArdle. The overall bib and even the front of the blue shirt worn by the boy were badly burned by the powder.

Sheriff Gillie and Deputy Sheriff Charles Rulo went carefully over the ground Sunday evening and again Monday morning. They agree with the coroner that there was no likelihood of an accidental discharge of the shotgun. The report of all officers is that the boy committed suicide.

Deputy Sheriff Rulo questioned all near relatives of the boy and the members of the Frazier family on Monday morning in order to leave no doubt about the nature of the shooting. He learned that the lad has been disheartened since the time that divorce action has been under way between his parents. The boy had learned that he was to be given into the custody of his father.

Threatened to End Life.

"I will either kill myself or run away before I will go to stay with dad," Dale had stoutly told his brother, Earl, aged 16, on several occasions.

The case between Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hazen, the parents, was set for next Friday. Each day as the time drew nearer for the hearing, Dale became more downcast. He was found in deep study several times. He would stand alone and talk to himself, members of the Frazier family said.

Sunday morning he cared for the horses as usual. He seemed in good spirits when he ate breakfast. He returned to the barn and a few minutes later was seen to come to the house by Byrl, the small daughter of Hiram Frazier. It is believed that Dale took the shotgun from the cellar way and hurried into the truck patch.

Impulse May Have Been Sudden.

The farmer believes that the boy may have secured the weapon with the view of shooting at a ground hog, which has been burrowing in the patch. The suicidal impulse may have entered his mind as he waited for the animal to reappear.

No member of the household heard the shot. When Mr. Frazier had discovered that the boy was dead, he telephoned for the lad's brother to come from the home of an uncle, a half mile away.

The older brother is distracted, as is also the mother. The father has been sent for. He is now staying near Peru. He is expected to reach the Frazier home Monday afternoon. The coroner will hold another inquest Monday afternoon, as his visit at the farm on Sunday evening was a hurried affair. He is satisfied that the boy's death is a suicide, however.

DARK EARTH HEAP CAUSES AUTO SPILL

An unlighted heap of earth placed at the side of Spy Run avenue, near the old canal bridge, caused an automobile spill Sunday night, according to the report made to the police. Two members of the auto party were slightly injured when the machine ran on to the pile of dirt at the turn in the street. The police were notified on Sunday evening after the accident and a red light was placed above the earthen mound.

CALUMET CLUB PICNICS.

Fourth Annual Event Held Sunday at Foster Park.

The Calumet club held its fourth annual picnic at Foster park Sunday afternoon. It was a great success, with a large attendance of visiting members besides members of the local tribe. Many athletic contests were held, including a ball game. This picnic was the beginning of a membership campaign, which will close on Thanksgiving. The initiation will be held at that time.

TWO BOARDS RESUME WORK

Country and First District Boards Examine More Men to Fill Quotas.

Men Are Now Finding It a Harder Task Even to File Claims.

Work of examining the men called for examination on the second summons in the country district and the first district of the city was resumed Monday morning. District No. one has summoned 130 additional men while the country district board has called in 250 more.

The second and third dietricts in the city have their quota of men and the board in district three has still a few more claims for exemption to examine until their work on the first draft is completed.

Figures show that seventy-five percent of the men who pass the physical examination on the second call are asking exemption from service but the board members are making an oral examination of the men who wish to file claims to see whether it is any use to file the claim. On this account many men are finding it a difficult matter to even secure the necessary papers to file a claim.

The district appeal board resumed its work of examining appeals of claimants for exemption from service.

In district one, Federal Commissioner T. J. Logan began the work of examining claims for exemption and it is possible that he will refuse even some of the claims which have been allowed by the board. However a person may appeal the claim to the district board after the federal officer district board after the federal officer makes a decision on the case.

ted States army stated Monday morning that it was his honest opinion that the boards of the city were as capable as any boards in the United States. He was highly complimentary in speaking of their work. He stated, however, that the public is watching the action of the boards on several exemption claims and he said there is sure to be an awful uprising if the board accepts the claims filed by several parties.

It is known however, that one of the cases referred to by the officer will be by no means granted by one of the boards, in whose jurisdiction it comes to pass on the claim. It is known and being voiced about that this same person was ejected with force from the board's office in one of the school buildings where the examinations were held.

MAKE PLANS FOR FAREWELL

"OFF TO FRANCE DAY" MAY BE OBSERVED

September 5 Is Date Set for Departure of First Section of Conscripts.

Fort Wayne will soon be bidding her soldier boys good-by and steps are being taken now to make the event a big occasion. Of course, the whole town is not expected to turn out and cry, but there will undoubtedly be more than one lump go down the throat of an anxious one left behind.

As yet there has been very little done to make way for the celebration because nothing is as yet known concerning the time when the Fort Wayne contingents will depart, but a committee has been appointed by President Schelmann of the Patriotic council to work on the arrangements for the occasion.

If the thing is to be done properly there may have to be more than one celebration, it is thought, because the troops from this city will not be leaving at the same time. Undoubtedly the first to receive the call will be the two local militia companies, E and B, but after that there will be the day when the city bids fond farewells to the members of the first section of the new national army which is just now being completed. There will also be a celebration here very likely as is being held other places, "Off to France" day.

When the long brown lines go marching down Calhoun street there will be a long-remembered scene impressed on the minds of those who fill the streets to see the procession, and it is felt by those who are in charge of getting bofitting ceremonies that now is the time to get ready for the occasion.

The committee headed by Charles Niebergall will begin immediately to get busy when the time of departure is announced.

September 5 is the date which has been set for the calling out of the first section of the new army and one-third of Fort Wayne's quota will leave the native soil at that time for service elsewhere.

FISHING FEVER IS QUITE CONTAGIOUS

Hundreds of Licenses Have Been Issued by County Clerk Recently.

Fishing fever has been quite contagious, judging from the number of fishing licenses which have been issued by the county clerk within the past week. Hundreds have been written out every day and evidence is given that the number issued will break the record of other months this year.

Employes of the court house were also fishing over the week end and one of the clerks reports that he caught "nary a fish." Another states that they were biting good and that he in company with another man caught sixty-four blue gills in a very short time.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment to the amount of $147.68 was given to Ricketts and Bartlett Range company against Harry B. Fitzpatrick, et. al., in superior court Monday morning.

Wright Did Wrong.

Mrs. Josie Wright states in her complaint for divorce that Carl Wright did wrong. She filed the complaint Saturday morning and shortly afterward the restraining order enjoining the Fort Wayne Rolling Mills from paying the defendant his wages had been executed. The couple were married October 16, 1908, and separated this month.

Court Notes.

J. H. Johnson, deputy auditor, left Sunday with his wife and family to spend a week at Lake James.

The Bull Rapids bridge which spans the Maumee river near Woodburn will be closed Monday and Tuesday while repairs are being made.

Miss Esther Becker, of the county treasurer's office, is on her vacation this week.

To Quiet Title.

Suit for action on a deed, to have the deed referred and to quiet title to some real estate has been begun by Henry Hosler, et. al., against Isaiah Hollopeter, et. al.

Marriage Licenses.

Herman F. Schroeder, postman, to Minnie Meyer.

Charles E. Hall, signalman, to Sophie E. Savio.

MUST NOT BLOCKADE.

Automobiles must not be left standing before railroad stations and other public buildings in such a way as to block either hack or foot traffic, orders Police Chief Lenz. He makes the mandate as the result of a complaint that taxi companies are holding up traffic in public places and in some cases annoying people by their offers of service.

League Leaders Take Chiefs Down Twice in Sunday Bill

Fast Going Wolverines Ride Right Past Without Hesitating

Despite all efforts of the Chiefs to save themselves, the Wolverines having all the breaks in luck, two games were recorded against Fort Wayne in the official standing as a result of the double-header with Grand Rapids, Sunday, 5 to 4 and 3 to 1.

A home run in the fifth inning of the first game was responsible for the first defeat handed to Fort Wayne, a home run which resulted when the ball went under the left field fence and out of harm's way. The second game went against the local aggregation because of errors and not to any particular effort of the boys from Michigan.

The scoring in the first game was started by the Chiefs in the fourth inning. Seigfreid landed on the first ball pitched to him for a circuit smash with none on ahead of him. The ball went over the right field fence. Kelly was out, short to first. Glockson drew a pass but was doubled on Vandagrift's fly to right, ending a good chance for the locals to do some scoring. Grand Rapids scored two runs in the fifth to even things up and go the Chiefs one better. Alcock flew to Breaux. Miller singled but was forced at first by Jantzen, who stole second and scored a moment later when Devormer's long slash rolled under the left field fence.

Three more runs were scored by the visitors in the next inning. Mitchell was safe on first and stole second. Allison passed Carey and Mathes laid down a bunt, filling the bags. Eddington got a slashing two-bagger, scoring two men. Mathes was out, Vandagrift to Smith. Miller got a hit and Eddington scored. Kelly got a two-bagger in the seventh and scored when Glockson repeated the trick. Vandagrift struck out, and Allison was out at first. Glockson reached third and scored on a bad throw to the plate. The Chiefs scored another run and almost evened the count in the ninth when Kelly singled and took second on Vandagrift's sacrifice. Glockson having filed out. Allison brought Kelly in with a long single. Allison took second when Breaux drew a pass. Miller, the next man up, was out on an easy infield bounder, short to first.

The second game was a seven-inning affair by agreement between the bossas before the fray started. The Chiefs scored in the second inning. Hoffman doubled and took second on a sacrifice hit. Kelly singled, scoring Hoffman.

Grand Rapids tied the score in the third and matters were even until the sixth inning. Carey was out, short to first. Mathes put one over the pitcher's head which Kelly failed to get and the runner took second. Breaux made a nice catch of Eddington's fly. Mathes counted on Miller's poor throw to first on Alcock's drive. Miller's two-base drive scored Alcock. This ended the scoring and the Chiefs lost the second of the double-header.

WILL M'MULLIN BE ANOTHER GEORGE ROHE F(WHITE SOX?

(By Paul Purman).

If the White Sox win the American league pennant and go into the world series they may be deprived of the services of their regular third baseman, Buck Weaver.

Weaver suffered a broken finger in a recent game. There is no hope of him playing ball for at least thre weeks and it may be that he will not be able to get into the game for the final drive or the world series.

The fracture to Weaver's finger is serious and he cannot go back into the game until it is thoroughly mended. Playing at third base where a man must handle vicious drives at short range, a player with a bad finger is not much of an asset.

In case Weaver is not able to get back into the game his place will be filled by McMullen, who has taken his place since he was incapacitated.

While McMullin is not in Weaver's class as a third baseman, he has been filling in creditably during Buck's absence.

Should Weaver be kept out of the game during the world series, should the Sox win, it would be the second time that the White Sox went into the national classic without the services of their regular third sacker.

In 1906 when the White Sox and Cubs battled for the world championship Lee Tannehill, the regular third baseman, was moved to shortstop when George Davis was injured and could not play.

George Rohe, an almost unknown youngster, took Tannehill's place at third.

Rohe was one of the heroes of the series. He scored one of the Sox two runs with a triple in the first game and won the third game with a triple with the bases full. He had a prominent part in winning the fifth and sixth games.

In 1914 the Boston Braves had a similar experience. A few days before the end of the season Red Smith, of the regular third baseman, broke his leg sliding into second. His place was taken by Charley Deal, an inexperienced youth.

Deal scored the only run of the second game and fielded errorless ball during the season.

While it is very probable that Weaver will get into the world series, if the Sox get in, McMullin has been playing the kind of ball which would carry him through with flying honors, should he be called upon to play.

RED SOX PUT TO BIG TEST ON LAST WESTERN TOUR

The mettle of the Red Sox is just about ready to be put to its real test of the season.

The next ten days probably will tell whether or not Jack Barry can hope to guide his crew to its third successive pennant.

Last year the Red Sox, after one of the greatest races in American league history invaded the west barely in the lead. The strain was the most tremendous ever put on a ball club. And right there they won the pennant, winning from both the White Sox and Tigers, their closest rivals.

Practically the same situation confronts the Bostonese now.

They must meet the same teams they turned back last year and the results of the year depend upon what they can do at Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

If they can go back to the east in the lead it will be a tremendous boost for their pennant chances.

Should they be turned back by these clubs, however, the White Sox will remain favorites.

One thing Jack Barry has to consider this year—his club is not up to the standard of the 1916 aggregation. His pitchers are not doing so well as they did last year, and his second stringers are not up to the job of turning back heavy hitting clubs.

Nevertheless the Red Sox are playing the same type of ball, refusing to crack under any strain and making the breaks for themselves.

OPENING MATCH IN NATIONAL SINGLES

National Patriotic Tourney for Ambulance Fund Begins Today.

New York, Aug. 20.—The opening match in the national singles in the patriotic tennis tournament for the ambulance fund of the United States of the lawn tennis association began on the courts of the Westside club this morning. Two rounds are being played today and the tournament is expected to close Friday. Among the participants are Norris Williams II, the 1916 champion; R. Lindley Murray, Clarence J. Griffin, Watson M. Washburn and other nationally known players.

Molla Bjurstedt and Mary Browe, the two leading women tennis experts, meet in a series of exhibition matches.

SPORTS CHATTER

Bobby Byrne wasn't good enough for the Phillies so the White Sox signed him, which may or may not mean something.

Barney Dreyfuss has bought ten minor league players. Barney can't lose. They can't possibly be any worse than the ones he has now.

Boston baseball gamblers have been fined. They should be if they bet their money on the Braves.

Chief Myers has been released. This, however, will cut no figure with the National league base stealing records.

Tris Speaker was hit in the head with a pitched ball and knocked out. If it had been Rome Zim they would simply have put another ball into play.

THREE TRAMPS ROB SALOON.

Three tramps are claimed to have robbed L. T. Scherer, 1609 Fletcher avenue, of $19 as he stepped from the Val Jezenski saloon at Hayden and Gay streets Saturday night, and to have entered the saloon and removed several bottles of beer. Men in the place were terrorized by the rough appearance of the tramps, they reported to police. Three strangers ran to the Wabash yards and boarded an outgoing freight, police were told. When officers had been called they could not find the robber suspects, although the freight train was halted and searched.

really go out to shoot your brother that loves you so?

They Spread It Thick Over Russia.

This did an immense amount of harm. They spread the flub-dub thick over all Russia, and millions there were that fell for it. The Germans own newspapers, presses, news bureaus, distributing agencies, men, women and machines in every part of Russia. They made the country resound with the agitation for peace and good will to murderers.

I will give you an illustration. There is in Petrograd a great level sandy plain called the Field of Mars, formerly the drill and parade ground for soldiers. It is now the free speech exchange and mammoth safety valve for all the oratory and hot air in Russia. On any Sunday you can find there from 50 to 100 meetings in full blast, orators splitting the innocent air with fiery darts of eloquence and thousands of amateurs getting from their chests the thoughts that have oppressed them these many years.

There, also, I have seen the German agents at work by the scores, going from meeting to meeting, preaching sedition and the lovely traits of the men that put Edith Cavell to death.

"Why should we fight the Germans?" is the burden of their song. "The German workingmen are our brothers. Let us make war against the capitalists in all nations, but let the Russian workingmen and the German workingmen be a band of brothers together. We have shed enough blood for the capitalists that made this war merely for their own profits. Let us throw down our arms and refuse to fight any longer against our brethren."

Defame Uncle Sam in Russia.

About one-half of the men that were talking this were former residents of America, persons with American citizen papers and American passports, and the particular delight of these was to defame the United States, cover it with slanders and lies and warn Russians against looking upon it as a democracy.

"The common people in America are worse off and more oppressed than you ever were under the czar," is a favorite declaration of these persons, followed by: "I am an American and I ough to know."

The United States and Great Britain would then be blamed for the war and the food shortage, the high prices of necessities and the lack of coal.

This kind of thing incessantly repeated by thousands of adroit speakers and scattered by the millions in pamphlets, posters and newspapers was certain to have a profound effect.

The casualties of the Russians under their incompetent, dishonest imperial government of thieves and grafters had been 7,000,000. No wonder a skillfully prepared peace profram looked good to the rest.

At the same time the German agents were turning a trick on the battle front that for audacity and deviltry has not been equalled anywhere.

Why the Russian Army Blew Up.

The Russian soldiers, of course, shared in the universal rejoicing when the old corrupt government fell.

The Germans now appealed to them with handbills and circulars declaring that the first result of the revolution was to be the division of all the land in Russia among the peasants and workers, but as the division would be made at once every peasant must hasten home or he would not receive his share. Some of these announcements had a semi-official appearance and all seemed to be authentic.

As soon as the news ran along the trenches whole regiments threw down their arms and bolted for home. The railroads were speedily packed and congested with a vast horde scrambling frantically to get into range for all these good things.

For weeks every train moving from the front was a spectacle the like of which has never been seen on this earth. Men rode on brake beams, couplers, air pipes, door steps and the roofs of cars. Hundreds fell off and were killed.

When they had made their way home they found, of course, that there was no distribution of land, and not likely to be one.

It was this exodus, purely the work of German agents, that figured in the dispatches as the "wholesale desertions on the battle front." It shattered discipline, scooped the inside from some of the lines and paralyzed military operations. Altogether it was worth more to the czar than a victory on the field and almost as much as a pacifist speech from a Yellow Streak in the United States senate.

Free Speech, Free Press in Muscovy.

You will want to know why the government tolerated these naturalized Americans that were active disseminators of treason, the German press agents on the front and the rest of this perilous scullduggery.

The answer is that with the coming of the revolution, speech and the press became absolutely free in Russia and at first this was supposed to include freedom to overturn the government and betray the country to Germany, if anyone so desired.

The wise men of Russia have learned better since. They have learned or are learning that when democracy is fighting for its life with a power like Germany, remorseless, ruthless, savage and cunning, bent upon absolute domination of the world, all other considerations must for the time being wait upon the supreme necessity of rescuing liberty.

It is a wholesome lesson. We might take some wads of it in the United State.

IF YOU WERE UNCLE SAM WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

HE WAS TENDER HEARTED.

Jamestown, Col., Aug. 16.—Dudley Harmon, village beau, told examiners he'd just love to be a soldier for Uncle Sam, but was afraid he wouldn't make a good one, so he asked exemption. He said once his sister cut her finger with her manicure scissors and the sight of blood made him fall in a faint. He wanted to know how he'd ever stand the sight of buckets of blood.

NOBODY LOVED HIM.

Summerton, Tenn., Aug. 16.—John Cramer, this town's rich young banker, claimed exemption from army service on the grounds that if he went away there would be nobody to clip his coupons, nobody to collect the interest on his bonds, nobody to spend his income and, he being without relatives, nobody to collect his life insurance if he got killed. He couldn't see how he could serve.

JUST COLD HANDS.

Cloverleaf, Kan., Aug. 16.—The army will lose a husky fighter if Dan Brown has his way. He claims exemption on the ground that his fingers get cold in winter unless he wears mittens in the army. Dan says his feet are all right; it's only his hands that bother.

NO BRACER, NO FIGHTER.

Buckhorn, Minn., Aug. 16.—Lars Larson, called for examination for the new army, claimed exemption, though he had no dependents and is physically fit. He said he had been accustomed to one pint of tanglefoot per day and if he didn't get it he wouldn't soldier for anybody. He was told the army might find some other and less liquid kind of bracer for him. Lars is dubious.

OUTSIDE OF THAT, ETC.

Tinker's Crossing, Md., Aug. 16.—

Clarence Clymer was one of the first called for army examination here. He said he couldn't serve because he had eight teeth gone, flat feet, only one lung, a mortgage to pay and a poor appetite—and besides that, if he left there would be no one to take candy to his best girl every Saturday night. Members of the board took up a collection for him and turned him loose with compassion.

NOBODY HOME ANYHOW.

Lunaville, N. H., Aug. 16.—When George Perkins was called before the army examining board he promptly claimed exemption on novel grounds. He said if he was taken into the army there would be nobody home to put the cat out at night. George said the family couldn't dispense with the cat because it was an old-timer in the family and so, he allowed, Uncle Sam would have to do without him.

AMERICAN TROOPS TO RUSSIA VIA PACIFIC

Lieutenant Eben E. Lane Is of the Opinion That This Will Be Done.

That American troops will in the near future be sent to the eastern front of the great battlefields in Russia, via the Pacific, is the belief expressed by Eben E. Lane, son of Charles R. Lane, who is visiting his parents.

The young man received a commission as second lieutenant in the quartermaster's department in California. He is awaiting orders to report at the new cantonment at Lake American at the foot of Mount Ranier in the state of Washington.

The new camp which is near Tacoma, will be built for the accommodation and training of 40,000 men.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 20.—Hire a ghost to warn you of danger and guard you from injury!

A spirit protector, speaking through the ouija board, warned two Evansville women against a man's attack. The intruder lay three feet away, under their bed, and listened to the alarm message he was powerless to prevent.

The Evansville ghost expects to prove his existence in court of law. He will not remain a creature of hearsay, to be believed in or scoffed at according to whether men are credulous or sceptical about the reality of the spirit world.

And all Evansville asks this:

"What kind of a witness will a ghost make when the ouija board puts in its first recorded appearance in court?"

Mrs. Martha Place and her daughter, Margaret, 811 John street, lonely, took up their ouija board—to find they were not as much alone as they had thought.

"Look out for Nat and Barb," spelled the board.

A breeze blew back the curtain of the bedroom where the women sat.

"It's a little cooler," said Mrs. Place to her daughter.

The curtains, as they billowed in, touched the bed beneath which lay the man. He held his breath as he heard the ghost messenger warn the two women against him.

"Is this Henry?" Mrs. Place asked the board.

"Yes! Look out for Nat and Barb!" repeated the board.

Henry is a son of Mrs. Place, electrocuted ten years ago.

"I have told you before, Henry," said Mrs. Place, shaking a reproving finger at the tripod which had spelled out the warning message by darting from one letter of the alphabet to another, "not to talk that way about the Moxleys." Nathanial and Barbara Moxley, living across the street, were the "Nat and Barb," of the ghostly warning.

The board would say nothing further, except repetitions of its ghostly alarm.

The two women put the board away and went to bed.

Mrs. Place heard a noise, like a scratching on the matting under the bed. It was the cat, she and her daughter thought.

Again Mrs. Place heard the noise. It was not the cat. She leaped from bed and ran into the kitchen for a match. Margaret screamed. There was the sound of a body falling.

"I ran back toward the bedroom," Mrs. Place told the police later. "A man dashed past me through the kitchen into the garden. I followed. It was Nathanial Moxley.

"We found a paper on the floor. He must have dropped it crawling from beneath the bed. It was a summons to Nathanial Moxley to appear in court as witness in a divorce case. We gave it to the police. They arrested him.

"When everything was quiet we took out the ouija board again.

"'I told you to look out for Nat and Barb,' Henry spelled. And there the man was, under the bed within reach, while we were warned."

Nathanial Moxley has been bound over to the grand jury.

If the ouija board is asked to be new era in court procedure will be exhibit A in the grand jury room a ushered in.

The cross-examination of a ghost is a judicial novelty.

HERE'S HOW OUIJA BOARD OPERATES.

A ouija board is a rectangular board about a foot and a half by two feet which like a checker board may be held on the laps of two people seated opposite each other with knees together, or may be rested on a table.

The board bears the letters of the alphabet, the words "yes" and "no" and several other signs.

A small tripod, shaped like a flat-iron, supported on three legs, spells out messages by moving from letter to letter when the fingers of the couple operating the board are rested lightly upon the tripod.

The GOOD LITTLE FIGHTING MAN

BY J. B. SHERIDAN.

THE recent victory of Johnny Kilbane, featherweight boxer, over Frederick Welsh, lightweight, renews the old contention of "a good little man" being good enough to beat anyone. Theoretically, Kilbane is 11 pounds lighter than Welsh, or 122 pounds to 133 pounds, these figures being the limit in their respective classes. Eleven pounds makes a vast difference at the lighter weights. While it means less among heavyweights, it does mean a lot to men under 150 pounds. Yet there have been instances without number in which the holder of a lighter championship has been capable of beating the holder of one or two classes above.

Going back to the old days, Jack Belcher, who fought in England about 1780, was rated as good a man as his brother Jim, a crack heavyweight. Jack Belcher was but a 133-pound man. Experts of the day held that though Jim Belcher was a star at 165 pounds, Brother Jack, 133 pounds, was quite as good a man. Nat Langham, a delicate middleweight, who died in early life of tuberculosis, defeated Tom Sayers, a heavyweight, who held the famous 200-pound Heenan, the "Benecia Boy," to a draw. Sayers was not a heavy man. He weighed about 160 pounds, yet was so good in his day that his weight was accepted as a standard.

Sayers' success gave birth to the saying that a good 160-pound man was big enough to beat a man of any size. While there has been a disposition to question this ancient shibboleth of the ring since the advent of the monstrous Jeffries, Johnson, Willard, Morris, et al., the case of Fitzsimmons, the greatest fighter that ever lived, goes a long way to prove that the old boxing experts were not far wrong when they set 165 pounds as a safe standard for heavyweights.

Fitzsimmons could fight strong at that weight: indeed, it is doubtful that he ever weighed any more in the ring. It is true that Jeffries did beat Fitzsimmons, but it was Jeffries' odd crouch, not his weight, that won for him against the "Dingo Farrier."

Sheer weight alone rarely has won a championship battle. A man must have superior skill as well as weight. Jeffries was rated not overly skillful. It is true that he was not a showy boxer, nor the possessor of a lot of tricks. Like the cat, he had one good trick—his crouch. That crouch made him practically invulnerable. The man was unquestionably obfuscated with some soporific used by his seconds for some silly purpose when he was beaten by Johnson. Not that Johnson could not have beaten Jeffries, in any event. He probably could. Yet had Jeffries stuck to his crouch, it is doubtful that Johnson could have whipped him with the same consummate ease.

Jack Randall a Good One.

While the behemoths have always been in the ring, the little chaps have often beaten, or have been quite capable of beating, the giants. Jack Randall, lightweight of the early nineteenth century, was good enough to beat the best heavyweights of his day. Dick Burke, when lightweight champion of England, was deemed a better man than Jem Smith, the heavyweight champion who fought Jake Kilrain to a draw in 1887. If memory serves me aright, Burge did beat Smith, though I am not clear on this point. I do know, however, that many good judges fancied that Burge could lick Smith, who was rather what is known in America as a "shine" champion.

Coming down to modern times, we find that Jack Dempsey was quite capable of beating the best man in the middleweight class. Dempsey never was better than a 142-pound man. Yet he beat a string of good middleweights and became middleweight champion, though he never weighed more than 149 pounds in the ring. He gave away from 10 to 15 pounds in many of his fights, gave them away to the best men, bar himself, in the middleweight class. Dempsey also boxed many a good heavyweight in his day. It is in my mind, too, that he could have beaten Sullivan had he not been impressed with the common idea of Sullivan's unconquerable greatness.

Dempsey weighed but 147½ pounds when he lost the middleweight championship to Fitzsimmons. The New Zealander was something new in the way of middleweights. Prior to his time, the middle-class chaps averaged about 5 feet 7 inches in height. Fitzsimmons was a freak. He was 6 feet 1 inch tall and could weigh around 150 pounds. All his weight was in his huge shoulders and arms. His head, the heaviest portion of a man's anatomy, was ridiculously small.

It has been estimated that the smallness of Fitzsimmons' head alone saved him 6 pounds. Then he was very slender from the belt down. In a word, Fitzsimmons was not so much a man as a freak, designed to meet all requirements of Queensbury rules. Had the old marquis made plans and specifications for a man especially designed to take advantage of his rules, he could not have designed so perfect a machine for his purposes as Robert Fitzsimmons of Elston, Cornwall, England, and Timaru, New Zealand.

Dempsey First a Wrestler.

Dempsey was the sweetest of the sweet, the bravest of the brave. A charming, quiet, modest fellow, he feared no man. Dempsey was a perfectly proportioned little chap, 5 feet 7 inches tall, well developed everywhere, a little Apollo. A wrestler before he became a boxer, he was rounded out at all physical points. He was a corking two-handed boxer, stylish, clean, a cutting hitter, but never aggressive nor cruel. His good nature made Dempsey a gentleman, not a perfectly tempered fighting man. He fought coolly, quietly, as he might cooper a barrel—his other trade. He never became angry; no one ever heard him speak illy of anyone. He defeated scores of good middleweights when he was really a welterweight.

Dempsey was so good that Tommy Ryan, then welterweight champion and a very great fighter, would not have any of his game. Withal, I believe that a few years later Ryan, who became a middleweight, was a better fighter than Dempsey ever was. Ryan was much like Dempsey in build, the same height, a little heavier, strong everywhere. Ryan had a perfect fighting temper. He was the essence of effectiveness, of cruelty in the ring. I have always held that Tommy Ryan was the greatest two-handed punisher the ring ever saw. I have seen him deliberately torture opponents by cutting, bruising, hitting, slowly beat them into a torpor, when he might have mercifully put them out of their miseries with one punch. Ryan's disposition was suited to a fighter much better than Dempsey's was.

I think now that Dempsey could have beaten Sullivan after Sully started down in 1887. Dempsey lost to Fitzsimmons in 1890. As set forth above, Fitzsimmons set a new fashion in middleweights. Prior to his time they were usually under 5 feet 9 inches in height. Fitzsimmons and the Australian, Hall, made the middleweight, though, over 6 feet tall. Hall, I believe, had trouble doing better than 160 pounds, when he met Fitzsimmons at New Orleans about 1891. Fitz never had any trouble making middleweight. He could do 154 pounds any time when in his prime.

They say that the very appearance of Fitzsimmons, a heavyweight to all intents and purposes, astonished little welterweight Dempsey when he first saw him at New Orleans. Dempsey had never seen Fitzsimmons until the ruby one stepped into the ring. Then he gasped. He gave Fitz a game fight. That's all. He never got near the Cornishman. Fitz begged him to throw up the sponge. Heartbroken, for he was a proud man, Dempsey refused.

"You'll have to knock me out, Bob," he said. "I won't quit."

Dempsey was really killed that night in New Orleans. His pride was broken. From that day he declined into his rose-covered grave at Portland, Ore., far from his native cove of Cork.

Sullivan Had One Blow.

If there be any doubt about the ability of Dempsey to whip Sullivan, there can be no doubt about the entire capability of Fitzsimmons to dethrone the big Bostonian. Fitzsimmons could have whipped John L. in a punch the best day Sully ever saw. Sullivan did have a great right swing. He could knock out any man he could hit. Fitzsimmons had ten blows, swings, hooks, straight punches, uppercuts, inside crosses, body blows, with left or right, each one of which was more effective than Sullivan's mighty right swing.

Sullivan never could box. He had one blow, that right swing. His plan of battle was to scare an opponent with a beetling brow and a great reputation; rush, tear down his guard with the left hand and swing the right hand for the jaw. That was all that Sully knew about boxing or fighting. He would have been to Fitzsimmons what Terry McGovern was to Young Corbett—a mark.

McGovern was always a cinch for any good boy who would stem his wild tattoo of blows with the left arm and then cut in with a right punch to the jaw. That is what Corbett did.

The Denverite was a cool card, quite undismayed by McGovern's great reputation. He let Terry rush, covered up his chin with the left forearm, bided his time, set himself and knocked McGovern out with a right to the jaw.

Fitzsimmons would have beaten Sullivan in ten ways, with any punch he chose, with either hand. Sullivan was rated a tremendous puncher. He did have a powerful right swing. But it is much more difficult to make a swing count than it is to make a hook or a straight punch or a good cross-counter, which is a hook, or an uppercut or a solar plexus wallop, count.

Ryan and McCoy.

The swing covers a wider orbit. An opponent has much better chance to see and slip it than he has to avoid a hook or straight punch. Any time the head turns with the swings the blow loses power. Of ten swings, nine will fail to do vital injury. On the other hand, Fitzsimmons rarely wasted a blow. His sure, snappy cracks were as effective as Sullivan's wild swings. Then Fitzsimmons was uncannily clever in his careless, slouching way. No use in talking about it, Fitzsimmons was the greatest fighting man that ever pulled on gloves. Jack Johnson was bigger, cleverer and probably could have beaten Fitz when the latter was at his best, but Johnson did not have the fighting instinct of Fitzsimmons. No man of the ring ever did have such fighting instinct as the Cornishman. He had an uncanny sense of "when" and "how" to do it, when the "break" was coming and how to force it to come.

Yes, there is no doubt that Fitzsimmons could have whipped Sullivan when Fitz was middleweight and Sullivan heavyweight champion. Fitzsimmons had no vision. He was managed by men who did not have vision enough to see him whipping John L. He could have done it as easily as he whipped Maher.

Tommy Ryan could and did whip good men who were two classes heavier than he was. He beat Jack Bonner, the "Coffee Cooler," and a host of so-called middleweights who really were heavyweights. Ryan was doing 154 pounds then in his street clothes. He could have done 148 with training, but he could not get opponents at the welterweight, and he got plenty of them at middleweight. He never had any trouble with any of the larger men except McCoy, and, I believe, that he and McCoy met at welterweight or close to it. McCoy deceived Ryan into believing that there would not be any fight, that McCoy knew he had no chance and that they would merely stage a good enough fight to get some money. Ryan did not train. McCoy, who had improved vastly since he had been Ryan's sparring partner, outfitted himself fully. He got the verdict over Ryan. He never cared about trying the Hebrew's game again.

I believe that Ryan could have beaten Sullivan, though he was 70 pounds the lighter man and champion of the 140 class, whereas Sullivan was heavyweight champion and weighed 210 pounds.

It goes without saying that Joe Walcott could have beaten many good heavyweights. He twice defeated Joe Choynski, who gave Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons the battles of their young lives. Yet Lavigne, a 133-pound man, beat Walcott, who was a 144-pounder. Walcott was at his best, too. Lavigne also defeated Dick Burge when Burge weighed 147 pounds. This means that Lavigne could have beaten Jem Smith, for, I think, Burge did beat Smith. It also means that Lavigne could have beaten Choynski, the best 165-pound man of his day and the man who gave Corbett and Fitzsimmons all they cared about taking. Corbett beat Sullivan. Does it not all mean that Lavigne might have beaten Sullivan?

Since the advent of Jeffries, Johnson, Willard, Morris and other leviathans, it has been hastily assumed that the "good little man" has no chance any more. This is by no means assured.

There were good big men in the early days of the ring, Sayers' time, Heenan, O'Baldwin, Perry, the "Tipton Slasher," the "Staley Bridge Infant," a man bigger than Willard or Morris. Yet these men met their masters in much smaller fellows. Tommy Burns was the last little man to hold the heavyweight championship of the world. Burns won that through sheer luck. He was not even a "good little man." He was a good all-around athlete, with some superficial knowledge of boxing. It is true that while Jeffries, the first of the giants, did beat Fitzsimmons, the king pin of all "good little men," and that Johnson, another giant, but not so large as the man he conquered, did beat Jeffries, and that Willard, a much larger man, defeated Johnson, that it is most unlikely that Willard, for instance, could have beaten Fitzsimmons when Fitz was good, or that any big man can win merely because of his huge proportions. In other words, the big men must have something besides size.

COMES TO SURFACE AFTER THREE WEEKS

Body of Edward Huber Is Found Floating Near the Spot Where He Sank.

Three weeks after the day of the drowning, the body of Edward Huber, who was drowned in Lake James on July 29, was found floating in the lake Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The corpse was found 100 feet north of the spot where the young man went down and 200 feet from the east bank.

The body was first seen by J. W. Coppock, formerly a night watchman at Bowser's. He hailed Dan Kintz, who was spending Sunday at the lake, and they tied a rope about the body and towed it to shore with a motor boat. The corpse showed signs of having been struck by the grappling hooks during the long search.

Huber was 27 years old and was employed as agent for the Wells-Fargo Express company at the interurban station. He went to the lake with a party of friends on Sunday, July 29. He went out wading, being unable to swim. He disappeared suddenly and it is thought that he got beyond his depth and was unable to make his way back. A long search had been made for the body, divers being sent from Chicago to aid in the search.

Huber was born in Fort Wayne and was educated in the public schools. He is survived by his futher and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Huber, of 1817 South Harrison street; a brother, George Huber, and two sisters, Mrs. Ray Hutson and Miss Catherine Huber. The body was expected in this city late Monday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, 1817 Harrison street, and at 2:30 o'clock at the Simpson M. E. church. Interment in Lindenwood.

PROBLEM OF MEAT IN U. S.

the war started there has been a total decrease of 115,005,000 in the world's supply of meat producing animals. Cattle increased 7,090,000 in the United States, while the total world decrease was 28,080,000. Sheep decreased 3,000,000 in this country, while the world supply was diminished by 54,500,000. Hogs increased 6,275,000 in America, but the general supply decreased 32,425,000. During the year ending June 30, 1916, America exported 1,339,193,000 pounds of meat, as compared with a three year antebellum average of 493,348,000 pounds. These exports went chiefly to the allies, whose capital stock of animals has decreased 33,000 head.

Why Demand Increases.

"Although the European countries have drastically reduced meat consumption among war workers," says the statement, "this saving has been overcome by the greatly increased demands to supply men in the armies and shops and women who have taken up physical labor. Millions of individuals to whom fresh meat twice a week was a luxury are now, by necessity of their extreme physical labor eating it twice daily.

"The war has injected into an alread ydifficult situation a number of vicious conditons which are jeopardzing the animal products supply of the world. The production of fodder in Europe has been diminished by the diversion of productive labor to war and its import has been curtailed by shortage in shipping and by the isolation of markets by belligerent lines.

Far-Reaching Problem.

"The problem facing America is not only one of supplying the immediate demand of the allies but one which is more far-reaching in its significance, as the war goes on there will be a constant lessening of the capital stock of the world's food animals. Among our western allies the demand outruns further every day the decreasing production, and as shipping becomes further shortened by submarine destruction, further destruction of the herds must ensue.

"The food administration points out that the only immediate solution of the problem lies in reduction of consumption and elimination of waste."

The plans for the hearing today was to present the general conditions which apply to all of the majority of the companies and later take up individual questions.

The companies allege that because of higher prices of fuel and other material they should be allowed to place a surcharge on the bills monthly.

Constantine said in his reply:

"The emperor well knows my personal sympathies, as well as my political opinions attract me to his side. Nevertheless it is impossible for me to understand in what manner I could be useful to him in mobilizing my army. The Mediterranean is at the mercy of the united fleets of England and France, which could destroy our navy and merchant marine, occupy our islands and above all prevent concentration of my army which could be effected only by sea, in the absence of railway communications. Without being in our power to be useful in any particular, we would be wiped off the map. I am necessarily of the opinion that neutrality is imposed upon us."

Gottlieb von Jagow, then foreign secretary, replied that Emperor William would understand the necessity of maintaining neutrality for the present. He advised Constantine to reach an understanding with Sofia and Constantinople.

Guns and many machine guns have been captured by the Italians, and the Austrians have suffered serious losses. The infantry battle continues vigorously.

PERSHING SOON TO FRONT.

American Training in Camp, Aug. 20.—General Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies, yesterday visited Major General John J. Pershing, spending the entire day in the American training area. After the visit General Petain said he was much impressed and convinced that the American troops soon would become an excellent fighting force. General Pershing will proceed to the front soon.

OLD MONASTIR BOMBARDED.

Corfu, Aug. 20.—One quarter of the Serbian city of Monastir has been destroyed by fire caused by a Bulgarian bombardment, the Serbian press bureau announces. The number of victims has not been ascertained.

The statement says that on Saturday the Bulgarians bombarded the city more violently than ever, firing some 2,000 shells. There was no reason for the bombardment as no fighting was in progress. Women and children, who fled in all directions, have been collected and taken to the rear.

NO PAPER EXPORTATIONS.

London, Aug. 20.—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen reports that the Swedish government has prohibited the exportation of news print paper on account of the shortage of timber, coal and sulphur for the manufacture of pulp.

BRITISH DRIVE WILL HELP.

Rome, Sunday, Aug. 19.—Commenting on the new Italian advance the press says, that at this time the British attack in Flanders will be of service if it demonstrates how the people and armies of the allied countries feel toward the premature peace proposals of Pope Benedict. It is said Austria apparently realizes the gravity of the situation as announcement is made that Emperor Charles is soon to visit the Austro-Italian front presumably to encourage his troops. The official Austrian statement of yesterday said the Italians had begun an offensive on a 37-mile front from the region of Tolmino to a point near the Adriatic. The struggle was said to be raging with the greatest bitterness. Yesterday's Italian official statement did not mention the offensive.

GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Berlin, Aug. 20.—The war office announces the French without fighting have occupied the Talou ridge on the Verdun front, east of the Meuse.

At all other places over a front of fourteen and three-eighths miles, the German general staff reports fighting is in full swing. The German high command say that Talou ridge, given up by the Teutons because this line of defense since last March, had only been occupied by outposts.

Forces of the central powers on the Rumanian front have driven back the Rumanians on both sides of the Oituz valley and in the direction of the Trotus valley it was officially announced today by the German war office.

In the fighting in the Oituz valley region the Austro-Germans took 1,500 prisoners and captured thirty machine guns.

Stubborn battles developed at the Marasechti station, on the Sereth river, the Teutons capturing more than 2,200 prisoners.

CANADIANS HOLD FAST.

Canadian Headquarters in France, Aug. 20.—Northwest of Lens amidst the trnches and railway cuttings which form the last line of German defense in that quarter, the Canadians have succeeded in establishing strong posts in a special trench which was the scene of desperate and indecisive fighting two days ago. There new posts give command of the last bit of ground from which the defenders of the city could command the west.

The eastern exits from the city are now subjected to a constant and harassing fire of the artillery and machine guns. This makes the bringing up of provisions and supplies of ammunition very difficult. At 2 'clock this morning a trench raid on the enemy's front northwest of Avion resulted in heavy fighting in the course of which a considerable number were killed in hand to hand fighting.

BOMB GERMAN DEPOTS.

London, Aug. 20.—German military establishments in Belgium which have been repeatedly attacked of late by British airplanes, were again raided Saturday night, the admiralty announces. The statement follows:

"Many tons of bombs were dropped on the night of August 18-19 by the naval air service on the following military objectives: St. Pierre station and sidings at Ghent, Thorout station and dump, Bruges docks.

"A raid was also carried out yesterday morning on the Snellegham airdome, where a direct hit was made on a large shed.

"On their return our machines were attacked by hostile aircraft which were beaten off with the aid of a royal flying corps patrol. One enemy machine was shot down out of control. All ours returned safely."

BEGIN GRAIN CONFERENCE

present wheat growing states, and must be secured by planting more acres, as an increased yield an acre cannot be depended upon with certainty.

During discussion it was brought out that the men interested in stimulating the farmers to plant more wheat and rye would meet with more success if it was announced what the farmer may expect for his product.

The conference was continued this afternoon.

Idaho national guardsmen, on patrol duty here.

Investigation of the individual case of each man was promised today by Major Clement Wilkins, under whose direction the arrests were made. He told the men that any one of them found innocent of trying to hamper the harvest and tie up the industries of the country would be given his freedom. Money amounting to $1,360, taken from the men at the time of their arrest will be returned to them upon their release.

The declaration of Rowan that the effect of his arrest would intensify the tie-up of the industries apparently was not borne out by early reports today from various sections.

The principal object of the lumbermen's strike, according to Rowan, is to bring about an eight hour day and better working conditions. The strike order for today on the agricultural and construction workers, he said, was a protest against the arrest of the members of the organization in various parts of the northwest.

Four hundred miners employed in manganes mines in the Philipsburg district, sixty miles east of Missoula, Mont., are on strike today.

They are demanding $5.50 a day, $10 reduction of the monthly charge for board and recignition of the Metal Mine Workers' union, organized last Friday. According to the sheriff of Granite county, Mont., outsiders, said to be I. W. W. organizers, formed the union.

GOVERNMENT STRIKES BLOW.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 20.—The United States government struck a smashing blow at the Industrial Workers of the World yesterday.

Within a few hours of the time set for the threatened I. W. W. strike among agricultural and construction workers in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, twenty-seven leaders of the "terrorists" were placed in jail here as military prisoners.

President Wilson, it was announced several days ago, was prepared to use his summary war powers to suppress the reign of terror threatened by the I. W. W. The arrests, it was said, were the first move in the government's plan to stop the attempt to tie up or destroy crops and various industries necessary for the prosecution of the war.

Imperils U. S. Food Supply.

The proposed strike, if carried out, would imperil a vast part of the nation's food supplies, tie up mines producing needed metals for war material, and perhaps cripple the great airplane campaign, with which the United States is expected to wrest supremacy of the air from Germany, and ultimately win the war. Lumber workers in four states already are on strike.

James Rowan, district secretary, was the most prominent of the I. W. W. leaders arrested here yesterday. He was taken with twenty-five other leaders in the I. W. W. headquarters here. Rowan had already signed the orders calling on the farm workers to strike today and "let the fruit rot on the ground."

A company of Idaho national guardsmen made the arrests.

"The only effect of my arrest will be to intensify the strike," Rowan said, while he was awaiting his turn to be searched and booked. "I think the strike will spread further now, and probably will affect industries in which no strike has been called. Even though all the officers or employes of the organization are put in jail and all halls closed, arrangements have been made to handle the movement."

Only a vote of the members of the organization can halt the strike, Rowan declared, as there is no one with authority to take such action. The strike order becomes effective today unless I. W. W. members alleged by leaders of the organization to be illegally held in jail, are released by that time.

Take All Men in Hall.

Rowan and William Moran, secretary of the local I. W. W. organization, were arrested by Maj. Clement Wilkins, in command of a battalion of guardsmen on patrol duty here. Meanwhile forty guardsmen, under the command of Capt. F. A. Jeter, rounded up twenty-two other men who were in the I. W. W hall and took them, with Moran, to the county jail.

A squad of guardsmen was left at the executive headquarters and another was stationed at the I. W. W. hall, and the latter arrested three other men who went to the hall later and took them to the jail. Orders were then issued that no one should be permitted to enter the hall, but that no more arrests of persons seeking to enter should be made.

None of the men arrested offered any resistance. The prisoners were lined up in double column, between files of the guardsmen with fixed bayonets, and marched half a mile to the jail. Here they were searched and their names were taken and they were placed in cells on an upper floor of the building.

"You men are military prisoners and are not detained under civil law," Maj. Wilkins told the men after they had been lined up in the jail.

"An investigation of your cases will be begun tomorrow, and if it is found that any of you are wrongfully held you will be released."

PLEAD GUILTY; GO TO PRISON

Members of New York Draft Board 99 Admit They Were Crooked.

THREE CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Received Money for Exempting Men From the Law of the Draft.

New York, Aug. 20.—Dr. S. J. Bernfeld and Louis I. Cherry, indicted members of exemption board 99, today entered pleas of guilty to charge of conspiracy to obstruct the draft law when they were about to be placed on trial. They were sentenced to two years each in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Kalman Gruher, not a member of the board, but indicted with them on the same charge, elected to stand trial.

The specific count in th eindictment for conspiracy to which Gernfeld and Cherry pleaded guilty, charged them with accepting a bribe of $300 from a registrant to exempt. It was disclosed, however, the assistant district attorney stated, that the defendants had, accepted $3,000 in bribe money. He told the court they had paid back a portion of the money and had promised to make good the balance as soon as possible.

CHICAGO AND BOSTON WILL FIGHT IT OUT

Double-Header Today Will Have Bearing on Pennant Race.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The Chicago and Boston American teams will meet today in a double-header, the first game in an important four-game series. Much depends on this series as the clubs have been running a neck and neck race. Boston has fortyt-wo games on its schedule to be played, while Chicago has only thirty-eight. Boston will end the season at home while Chicago will finish on the road.

The casterners seem to have the edge on the local club as to pitchers for the series.

The present standing of the leaders:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Chicago	72	44	.621
Boston	68	44	.607

In the event of Chicago winning both games today the standing would be:

Chicago	74	44	.627
Boston	68	46	.600

OATS MARKET GROWS STEADILY WEAKER

Receipt of New Grain Has Depressing Effect—Wheat Steady.

Further recessions were noted in the oats market Monday morning, the prices receding from the top mark of 70 cents on Saturday to a maximum of 65 cents on Monday, with the new oats selling for 60 cents per bushel. Five loads of the old oats were weighed on the city scales Monday morning, selling for 65 cents per bushel.

Receipts were light on most markets, the corn receipts being entirely nil. New hay was strong, thirteen loads selling at the city scales for $12 to $1 per ton. Two loads of the old hay were sold at the old price of $15.

Wheat remained practically stationary, one miller quoting a price of $2 per bushel and another $2.04.

GROWING WEATHER SENDS CORN LOWER

Market Sloughs Off on Reports of Prospect—No Wheat Trading.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Continuance of good receipts from the fields where corn is ripening was reflected today in corn prices which opened lower. Opening prices, which ranged from ½c to 1⅝c lower with December at $1.07⅞ to $1.07⅝ and May at $1.04 to $1.05, were followed by slight rallies which however failed to last. Trading in wheat was entirely absent.

The close was strong, ¼c to 1⅛c net higher, with December at $1.08¾ to $1.08⅞ and May a t$1.07 to $1.07⅛.

The close was easy at $2.05, a net advance of 3c over Saturday's finish.

Probability of big yields of oats gave weight to selling pressure though prices hovered around Saturday's closing figures.

WALL STREET OPENS NEW WEEK UNSTEADILY

Dullness and Irregularity of Prices Mark the Day's Trading.

New York, Aug. 20.—Trading at the outset of today's session suggested a continuance of last week's extreme dullness, the irregular price changes were registered.

Shippings, tobaccos, oils and a few specialties were fractionally higher, but steels and equipments became increasingly reactionary with coppers.

Coalers led the active list to lower levels during the first hour. Reading and most others of that division extended early losses and New York Central and Northern Pacific averaged recessions of a point. The trend of industrials, metals and specialties was indicated by United States Steel which reacted a point from its best. Substantial rallies set in at noon, steels and shippings being the strongest features. Liberty bonds were quoted at 99.90 to 99.96.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY'S WAR NEWS

For several days the French have been conducting a terrific bombardment of the German lines.

The official German announcement records withdrawal of the Germans from Talou ridge, on the front north of Verdun, without fighting. The reason given is that since March this height has been occupied only by outposts. Elsewhere on this section of the line the report says heavy fighting is in progress.

In the north the Germans made a counter-attack on the positions taken yesterday by the British near Epehy. London reports that the assault was repulsed completely. The British line in Ypres front has been advanced slightly.

The Italians have won a brilliant success in the opening phase of their new offensive, begun yesterday on a 37-mile front from the region of Tolemino to a point near the Adriatic. Rome reports officially that the Italians have taken 7,500 prisoners. A new crossing of the Isonzo river has been forced.

Another great aerial raid over Belgium was made by British airplanes on Saturday night. Many tons of bombs were dropped on various objectives. The British airplanes returned safely after a battle with German machines, one of which was shot down.

Further successes on the Rumanian front are announced by the Germans. In the Oituz valley region the Russians are said to have been driven back, losing more than 1,500 men in prisoners and thirty machine guns. On the western bank of the Sereth Beerlin announces more than 220 prisoners were taken.

power for the destroyers were given close attention. The possibility of making some of the new vessels with oil engines was among the suggestions offered. As to the plants at which the new destroyers will be laid down, Secretary Daniels said he favored expansion of the plants now building destroyers as the most efficient means of speeding up. Experience gained in previous building will enable such plant sto turn out new ships more quickly it is felt than would be possible for a new plant lacking that experience. Secretary Daniels' decision shows that the officers, who have contended that the best answer to the U-boat was to turn out an enormous number of destroyers carried their point.

Experience Proves Destroyer.

The experience of all allied navies is that the destroyer is more deadly to the submarine than other craft is borne out from reports from Vice Admiral Sims, founded on the actual experience of American destroyers in European waters.

Another aspect is the problem of furnishing convoys to troops and supply ships which will grow as American forces in France are increased. Many officers now believe that destroyers enjoy a larger degree of security from submarine attacks. The department apparently has approved this view.

No figures have even been made public of the number of destroyers now building. Secretary Daniels said today, however, that they represented the maximum capacity. To expand that capacity will require the expansion of every existing plant and the addition of new engine and boiler works.

SOLONIKA DESTROYED.

London, Aug. 20.—More than half the walled city of Saloniki, in Greek Macedonia, which is under occupation by the entente allied troops, was destroyed by fire on Sunday. Eighty thousand peoople, who were rendered homeless, were being removed to neighboring villages las tevening, according to a dispatch received in London. The fire is now under control.

WEARS FACE LIKE SECRETARY'S SON

Mysterious Stranger Gets Coin in Washington as Young Daniels.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The mysterious stranger passing himself off on naval officers and others as a son of Secretary Daniels has obtained numerous sums of money and today has eluded capture. The navy department issued a warning today against the impostor. According to the department's announcement the first occasion was July 9, when the impostor introduced himself to the officers of the receiving ship at the New York naval yard and was invited to luncheon. He said he had lost about $47 and succeeded in bortowing from the ship's paymaster $20, furnishing a regular navy receipt which he signed, "Herbert J. Daniels." On July 15 the same man called on the principal of the Montclair, N. J., academy, introducing himself as Frank Daniels, a son of the secretary, and said he had been commissioned by Rear Admiral Usher, of the New York navy yard, to arrange for an encampment at the campus for 200 sailors.

He also desired to visit Thomas A. Edison at his laboratory, N. J., and this was arranged through Dr. M. Rees Hutchison, Mr. Edison's confidential man, who first took the stranger to his own home for luncheon and then to the inventor's laboratory. The navy department says that Dr. Hutchison lost $250 in cash by taking the stranger's check. When Dr. Hutchison came to Washington he handed to Secretary Daniels a letter from his "son" and the fraud was disclosed.

In the meanttime the imposter had called at Dr. Hutchison's home in Orange, N. J., saying he was going to stay there a week. He borrowed a camera from the butler and then proceeded to the Edison storage battery plant where he got $30 fro mthe superintendent on a bad check.

New York, Aug. 20.—Labor leaders in charge of the strike in shipyards of the New York district today asserted that 250,000 metal workers in various parts of the country would be asked to declare a sympathetic strike unless a settlement is reached today. Louis Weyand, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, declared that his union was in the fight either to win or lose everything and that the men would keep up the struggle as long as the employers did.

SENTINEL WANT ADS ALWAYS GET RESULTS

THE EVENING SENTINEL FILLS WOMEN'S NEEDS

Just now, in addition to the many reasons prevailing in ordinary times, there are numerous special reasons why the women who buy food and other supplies for the family should not let a day pass without a careful reading of every page of the Evening Sentinel.

Skip nothing. Read the news columns, editorials, selected women's features, the market page, store news of Fort Wayne merchants, want-ads — everything—as all hold money-saving suggestions.

PRESIDENT WILL DECIDE.

Washington, Aug. 20.—A new definite statement of the administration's interpretations of the exemption of married men and those with dependents is expected within the next few days. President Wilson has taken up the question and probably will settle the problem himself.

G. A. R. HOSTS GATHER.

Boston, Aug. 20.—The national encampment of the Grand Aarmy of the Republic got under way today with additional delegates arriving on every train. A meeting of the national council of administration was held and the credentials committee put in a busy day.

CHAPTER I.

"Mr. Holmes," the visitor began, "I come to tell you—"

Sherlock Holmes laid down his knife and fork with which he had been vigorously attacking a fillet of cocaine with heroin sauce.

"You have had your pet pig stolen," he remarked, calmly.

The visitor, an old gray-haired man, looked astonished.

"How did I know it?" said Holmes, "elemental, my dear sir, elemental. Your agitation told me you had lost something. Now there are 17,893 kinds of agitation, all of which I have catalogued in my monograph on the subject. By the psychoanalytic test of LeNoir, which you can read in my four volume treatise published by Ducton and Company, $8 net; I know it is agitation caused by a loss that is personal rather than intrinsic. Hence you have lost some object of affection. I know it is animate rather than inanimate because of the trembling of your third finger. I know it is a pig because there is bristle on your trouser leg where it has been rubbing against you, and it must be a pet or you wouldn't let it be so affectionate."

"How do you know that?" demanded Dr. Watson

"Marvelous," said Dr. Watson.

CHAPTER II.

"You shall have your pig in your arms within twenty-four hours," Holmes promised, and turned to his cocaine again.

"Thank you, Mr. Holmes," said the visitor, "that pig is very dear to me. It is like one of the family."

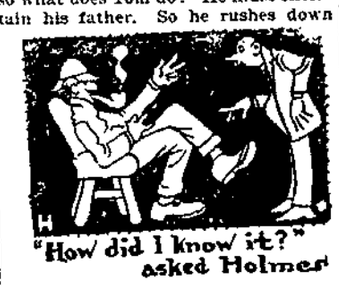
"Ah yes, ah yes," said Holmes, "which one?"

CHAPTER III.

"Watson," said Holmes, "go down to 112 Sontag street and get that pig from Tom Noyse, the son of Sandy Noyse, the Scotch bag piper. He has it."

"How do you know that?" demanded Dr. Watson.

"Deduction, of course," responded Holmes, impatiently. "I just happened to know that Sandy Noyse, the piper, is ill. Too ill to pipe. So far luck enters into the case. Being ill, Sandy can't pipe and Tom, his son, never could pipe. Sandy, missing his favorite diversion, is growing steadily worse. There are no pipers in town, so what does Tom do? He must entertain his father. So he rushes down



"How did I know it?" asked Holmes

the street, sees the pet pig in our client's front yard and has a hunch. He grabs the pig and runs home with it. Why? Because he knows that by squeezing the pig he will cause it to emit the only sounds there are which resemble the Scotch bag pipes. Simple, isn't it?"

"Marvelous," said Dr. Watson.

CHAPTER IV.

It was a week later that the visitor came to Sherlock Holmes' office and tearfully thanked the great detective. "But, Mr. Holmes," he said, "I want to reward that poor boy, Tom, the piper's son.

"He has made our everlasting fortunes, and I do not think he should languish in jail. You see, after Dr. Watson brought the pig home we found he squealed—the pig, not Dr. Watson—in tune. His repertoire included the Blue Bells of Scotland, Auld Lang Syne and The Campbells Are Coming and he's now on the Orpheum circuit drawing down a thousand a week. But we want Tom out to teach him some more tunes."

"Marvelous," said Dr. Watson.

Young People Are Injured in Auto Smash on the Bluffton Road.

Four more victims have been added to the long list of the speed demon. Four young people of this city were injured on the Bluffton road Sunday evening at 9:45 o'clock when an automobile containing the four people and driven by Russel Foughty, of 727 Green street, crashed into each other. Foughty reported the accident to the police and was arrested on a charge of speeding. The other car bore the license number B-2119 Indiana and had a monogram of H. W. B. B. It is believed this car was from Indianapolis. A charge of failure to report an accident may be filed against them.

The injured people are Meto Heller, 1026 Bowser avenue; Gladys Yates, 710 First street, and Marie Lehman, 1234 Hillside avenue, in addition to the driver. The Fort Wayne auto is believed to be a jitney bus. The party had been to Fort Benjamin Harrison to visit friends in Batteries B and D of Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferrell and Dr. C. E. McCready, of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Millican, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Grannis, of Lynn, this state, and Miss Rae Uhrig, of this city, have returned to their respective homes after a week's outing at Lake James.

A NEW HINT FOR SAVING.

Do you throw away "ham gravy" or bacon fat, Madam Housewife, because it is too greasy for ordinary use? Here is a way suggested by the United States department of agriculture to make it blend into soups or gravies instead of floating as a greasy layer on top.

Stir into each two tablespoonfuls of melted grease one-half tablespoonful of flour. The mixture will blend easily into milk soups, stock soups, sauces or gravies and give an appetizing flavor.

TIDAL WAVE SWEEPS ALASKA TAKING LIFE

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 20.—News reached here today with the arrival of the body of one victim of a tidal wave in Taku inlet last Thursday which may have claimed the lives of several persons besides doing considerable damage to the fishing fleet.

The wave was said to be due to the breaking of a huge dead glacier and a cave-in from a live glacier. No such ice disturbances are known to have taken place here and it is feared that many other of the fishing boats and their crews were lost. It is believed by many here that the series of earthquakes which traversed the Alaska coast early in July of this year were partly responsible for the upheaval.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

Misunderstood Orders Believed to Be Cause of Accident.

Although the traction officials have not as yet placed the blame for the collision on the Bluffton division of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company Saturday night, in which three persons were injured, it is thought that misunderstood orders were the cause. The crew of the passenger car was changed at Sheldon, and it is thought that the order to pass the freight car at Villa was misunderstood by the new crew. The cars met head-on a half mile north of Bluffton.

The injured are:

Mrs. Nan Fink, of Bluffton, ligaments in neck and shoulder torn.

S. D. Stubblefield, Indianapolis, express messenger, cut back of left car and many bruises.

J. H. Tookey, of Muncie, legs and back bruised and spine wrenched.

The front vestibule of both cars was crushed, and had not the motormen of both cars jumped they would probably have met instant death. In charge of the freight car were Conductor Brown and Motorman Roy Shields, both of Bluffton. The passenger car, when it left Fort Wayne, was in charge of Conductor D. H. Crone and Motorman Edward Summers. After the change of crews at Sheldon the passenger car was in charge of Conductor Grover Dovee and Motorman R. S. Etters.

When Motorman Shields saw the passenger car approaching he brought his car to a stop, but the passenger car could not be stopped in time to avoid a collision. Both cars were put out of commission and travel delayed for several hours.

General Manager S. W. Greenland, of the Traction company, was out of the city Monday and officials have no statement to make in regard to fixing responsibility for the accident.

FIVE APPLICANTS FOR NAVAL SERVICE TODAY

Interest in Naval Recruiting Appears to Be Increasing

Interest in naval recruiting appeared to be greatly increased Monday when five young men, all of whom live out of Fort Wayne, but who have been working here, made application to join the navy as apprentice seamen.

The young men who would enlist are William A. Laughlin, of Connersville; Harry Laughlin, of Connersville; Phillip E. Dentzer, of Claypool; Floyd N. Edwards, of Roanoke; William B. Dunlap, of Auburn.

In response to many inquiries, it is stated by the local recruiting officer, A. G. Kaftan, chief electrician, that the navy is not yet full, but that there is a big demand for radio men, cooks and bakers.
